MORGENTHAU JR. WILL BE ACTING TREASURY HEAD

Woodin Is Granted Indefinite Leave.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on Back Page.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The treasury of the United States went snugly under the wing of President Roosevelt today as Henry Morgenthau Jr., faithful protégé of the President, was named acting secretary of the treasury.

The Roosevelt monetary policies, which have stirred dissension among some of the treasury officials, will have more serene sailing now, it appears, for Mr. Morgenthau has, since the beginning of the gold purchase plan, been the spokesman for the President, and now will undertake more active leadership.

Mr. Morgenthau will assume office Friday as Secretary William H. Woodin leaves in search of renewed health on the painted sands of Arizona.

Resignation Is Refused.

The President, in announcing today the new deal for the treasury, exhibited Mr. Woodin's resignation, citing his doctor's orders that he quit public office. Mr. Roosevelt displayed also his reply to Mr. Woodin, in which he refused to accept the resignation, but did grant the secretary an indefinite leave of absence to go on his quest for new vitality.

Then the President revealed that Dean Acheson, who has been Mr. Woodin's undersecretary of the treasury, was "resigning," and that Mr. Morgenthau, filling the Acheson place, would become acting secretary.

Mr. Acheson has been a leading dissenter to the gold purchase plan of the administration, and with Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, fell to low favor because of insistent arguments for sound money.

Doubt Woodin Will Return.

It is generally believed that Secretary Woodin will never return to his post and that Mr. Morgenthau will continue indefinitely in charge of the treasury. The President would have named his favorite as secretary, it was reported, except that Mr. Morgenthau has had little experience in the realm of high finance, is known to possess social leanings, all of which might prove a shock to the banking and financial gentry of the nation if he were suddenly seated in a chair venerated by such great Americans as Alexander Hamilton and Albert Gallatin, and filled also, in more recent years, by such stanch financiers as Andrew Mellon and Ogden Mills.

The situation, as sized up in Washington today, is that Mr. Roosevelt intends to be his own secretary of the treasury, just as he has shown himself his own secretary of state, and in this picture Henry Morgenthau, by reason of his supreme faith in the leadership of Franklin Roosevelt, is held to fit with perfection.

Professors May Move Closer.

The sound money ranks in the treasury, thinned by the loss of Acheson, were preparing to take back seats in the nation's affairs. It is expected that Mr. Morgenthau will invite the money professors, George Warren and James H. Rogers, authors of the present plan for devaluing the American dollar as a price raising scheme, to move from their obscure office in the Commerce building and take desks near his suite in the treasury.

Another brain truster, Harold M. Groves, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, who tutored the La Follettes in procuring radical income tax legislation for Wisconsin, is expected to arrive at the treasury soon to become the administration's leading tax expert.

Point to Decline in Bonds.

Some of the leaders of the sound money clique, interviewed today on the prospects of the national finances, repeated their inability to grasp the intricacies of the Roosevelt money plan and showed their doubt fully. They pointed out that, following the President's announcement of Mr. Woodin's leave-taking and of Mr. Morgenthau's appointment, government bonds fell off alarmingly, going far below the low mark of yesterday. The stock and grain markets were weak and commodity prices, the raising of which is the prime aim of the gold program, were sluggish. A punster might get some comfort out of the fact that rubber prices were higher.

The dollar, fast losing what once was deemed its virtue, was down to 61.6 cents, as compared with its old

CODE VIOLATORS GIVE AAA LESSON ON MILK PRICES

Forced to Cut Rate to Live, They Say.

Lieutenants of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who are in Chicago to chastise violators of the planned economy which their department has set up for the milk business in the Chicago area, found themselves in a surprising situation yesterday. They sat as students at a lecture course in old-fashioned economics conducted by the "culprits."

The impromptu lectures were delivered in a courtroom in the United States courthouse. Elmer D. Hays, chief attorney of the licensing and enforcement section of the agricultural adjustment act, was conducting a hearing there on the cases of 77 small cut rate cash and carry dealers, charged with violation of the AAA marketing agreement for the Chicago milkshed.

While the complex code covers every detail of the milk business, even to specifying the kind of bottle caps to be used, the defendants were all charged with the same offense—selling milk at less than the price of 11 cents a quart fixed by the agreement. For this their licenses to do business may be revoked.

Admit Price Cutting.

The defendants admitted their violations. Almost unanimously they said that it was the only way they could make a living. Some of them, who had tried selling at the code price, told what happened to their business when they did. One of these was W. R. Brown, one of the owners of the Farmers' Dairy Products, Inc., in Joliet.

"Since Aug. 9," Brown testified, "we have been selling milk for 8 cents a quart, 28 cents a gallon retail and 25 cents a gallon wholesale. We have been buying from farmers at 21 cents a gallon."

This price of 21 cents a gallon amounts to $2.44 a hundredweight. The large dairy companies and other dealers operating under the marketing agreement, and charging consumers 11 cents a quart, buy their milk from farmer members of the Pure Milk association at a so-called blended price of $1.92 a hundredweight, from which the farmer loses a checkoff charge of 8 cents a hundredweight for organization, advertising, and other expenses.

Contention of Mayor Kelly.

In this connection, Mayor Kelly, in a telegram which he and an aldermanic committee sent to Secretary Wallace recently, asking a public hearing on milk in Chicago at which consumers might be heard, advanced the contention that prices to farmers might be raised without increased cost to consumers if the large distributors would eliminate dividends on watered stock, excessive distribution expenses, and other charges.

"We are violating the code because of competition," continued Brown. "We had been selling 400 to 500 gallons of milk a day. When we were notified to raise our price, we did so, and our sales dropped to 80 gallons a day.

"We received a petition, bearing the signatures of 486 consumers, requesting that we continue business at our former low prices, so we did. Many families which needed a gallon or a half gallon of milk for their children which we sold them at 15 to 28 cents, bought only a quart when milk went up to 11 cents a quart."

Price Rise Cuts Business.

A terse statement from Attorney Hays, "The case is closed," terminated Brown's discussion. An earlier description of falling business with the rise in milk prices came from Miss Phyllis Peterson, who appeared for the Peterson Dairy company, operating on the north side of Chicago.

"We raised our price to 11 cents for one day," said Miss Peterson, "but that day our business fell down to less than one-half. We would comply with the agreement, but no one else does. All of our competitors have citations for violating it."

Attorney Hays became involved in a Socratic discussion with J. W. Schwarz, proprietor of the Lake County Dairy Products company of North Chicago, until he was rescued by one of his associates, Attorney Lisle A. Smith.

Crippled Dealer Is Heard.

Schwarz, a young man, who is crippled, swung up to the witness stand on crutches. Their discussion was as follows:

HAYS—Do you admit violation of Fear 27 Who Left Ship in Storm Lost

VALENTIA, Irish Free State, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The fate of the little British freighter Saxilby, whose crew of 27 was reported to be abandoning the ship in a raging North Atlantic storm, was hidden tonight as at least six ships raced to her rescue. The Saxilby is a 3,630 ton vessel bound for Port Talbot.

The 52,000 ton Berengaria seemed likely to be the winner, but that liner was forced to reduce her speed and did not expect to reach the scene before Thursday morning.

Wireless messages received close to midnight from officers aboard the Berengaria held out little hope that any of the Saxilby's crew ever would be found alive. The message stated the big Cunarder was doing its utmost in violent seas to reach the Saxilby's last indicated position.

Hope of Rescue Slim.

A dispatch from the Berengaria's staff captain, quoted in the London Herald, said "we are just jogging along in fearful weather and have heard nothing from the Saxilby since 10 a. m. We are terribly anxious and haven't much hope of reaching her in time.

"It will be a grave job to discover a small ship's boat in these fierce seas, but we are determined to push on searching until we can search no more."

Another British freighter, the steamship St. Quentin, lost her steering gear in the same storm and tonight was wallowing helplessly not far from the Saxilby, about 300 miles off the Irish coast. The St. Quentin's situation was not critical, however. The St. Quentin is a 3,528 ton vessel bound from Swansea to Montreal.

High Seas, "Whole" Gale.

The British steamer Manchester Regiment, 92 miles from the Saxilby, in a wireless message tonight said the Saxilby "does not answer repeated calls; making very little headway in mountainous seas; whole gale." The Dutch steamer Boschdyk, also in the vicinity, turned from her course to search for the disabled freighter and her crew.

The American steamer West Eldara, which had been hove to for safety in the storm 70 miles away, sent word she had got under way and was struggling through the smashing seas at four knots in search for the Saxilby. The big British cruiser H. M. S. Exeter, at sea for trials, reported she was hurrying into the area. She intends to assist the St. Quentin.

The American steamer Coelleda wirelessed that around 11 o'clock this morning the Saxilby was trying to get her boats away. The S. S. Nevisian messaged that if the weather moderated she would proceed toward the Saxilby.

MARY M'CORMIC WINS A VICTORY WITH ONE PUNCH

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Mary McCormic, ex-Chicago opera singer and ex-Princess M'Divani, tonight won a one-round verdict over Miss Grace Williams, hostess at one of the fashionable Los Angeles hotels.

The bout took place in a newspaper office, and was an aftermath of Miss McCormic's divorce troubles with Prince Serge M'Divani.

Miss McCormic met Miss Williams at the office and accused her of giving out information about the monetary settlement of the divorce. Miss McCormic punched twice at her adversary, connected with a right to the head. Newspaper men separated the women.

After the disturbance Miss McCormic revealed that Prince M'Divani had made a settlement of $15,000 upon her, in return for which she dropped claims for additional sums.

Red Cross Official Held for Fraud in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—John Dillon was removed as manager of a Red Cross warehouse and jailed today on a charge of suspicion of grand theft growing out of alleged sales of considerable of the charity agency's clothing supplies. In addition county investigators and city police were declared to have worked up cases causing the removal of 15 persons from the roster of relief recipients. They are accused of selling their gifts of clothing to Los Angeles second-hand clothing dealers. Harry Horowitz, a clothing jobber, is said to have identified Dillon as the man who sold him $3,000 worth of clothing in large lots.

10° Cold Sets Record; Today to Be Frigid

Little hope for relief today from the cold wave which sent temperatures to a record low early yesterday was indicated in the forecast of W. P. Day, government meteorologist. Today is expected to be fair and cold, with the mercury registering between 10 and 14 degrees. The temperature as recorded at the Chicago airport at 2:30 a. m. today was 8. Warmer weather, probably with snow, is forecast for tomorrow.

All records for low temperature this early in the season were broken when the government thermometers registered 10 degrees above zero at 6, 7, and 8 o'clock yesterday morning. The previous record for mid-November was registered on Nov. 13, 1911, when the temperature fell to 12 degrees. The lowest temperature previously recorded here on Nov. 15 was 14 degrees above zero in 1883. Unofficial temperatures of one degree above zero in Berwyn and three degrees above in Evanston were recorded.

Cold Grips Middle West.

The cold wave, brought to Chicago from Canada by a northwest wind, spread generally throughout the middle west and also affected the eastern states.

Subzero temperatures were reported from Sault Ste. Marie and Alpena, Mich. The mercury fell to 2 degrees below zero in both cities. Five other cities reported record low temperatures. They are Detroit, 10 above zero; Grand Rapids, 10; Milwaukee, 6; Buffalo, 8, and New York, 23.

Four persons were killed and several others injured in one of the worst snowstorms experienced in years in western Pennsylvania.

Polar Bears Are Happy.

In Chicago and suburbs the only inhabitants made happy by the sudden drop in temperature were the polar bears in the Lincoln park zoo. The bears arose early and smashed through the ice crust on their pools.

Homeless men flocked to the relief shelters and city and suburban police stations as the temperature dropped sharply in the early morning hours. A total of 8,568 men were lodged in the ten principal shelters, and several hundred others huddled around radiators in the police stations. Several thousand went to the shelters again last night.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Doc Walz of Hot Springs, Ark., proved in Superior court today that Chummy was not the python he bought her for and accordingly won a verdict of $750 against the Bird Wonderland, Inc. Doc told the company he wanted a snake 23 feet long and a self-feeder and Chummy was only 18 feet long and he had to feed her by force.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A man who said his heart was filled with bitter hatred was here today to aid the government in its prosecution of four men on trial for the kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., wealthy brewer.

John Factor of Chicago, known as "Jake the Barber," kidnaped last summer—he said, by the Chicago quartet now on trial, Roger Touhy, Gus Schaefer, Willie Sharkey, and Ed McFadden, and one other, Albert Kator—not concerned in the St. Paul case—is here to aid in their prosecution.

"I couldn't kill a fly," he said in an interview, "but I could take that guy's [meaning Roger Touhy] throat and twist it till the blood came out! And I could drink the blood, too—the way they tortured me." Factor hates the kidnaping racket, too. He said:

"When you're kidnaped you're out of business, you're out of everything—you might as well be dead!"

Keeps His Lodgings Secret.

"Where are you staying in St. Paul?" Factor was asked.

"Please don't ask me that," he said. "That's a murderous bunch. They don't care what happens."

Factor added efforts had been made to keep his St. Paul trip a secret until today. Factor then told how he was kidnaped last July 1 and held for $70,000 ransom, which was paid.

"I was held prisoner for twelve days," he said, "and in those twelve days I lost eighteen pounds."

Son Kidnaped First.

"A month before I was kidnaped," he added, "my 19 year old boy was kidnaped and held seven days. The kidnapers turned him loose without any ransom because they knew they had been identified."

Factor paused a moment, then added:

"We know who they are . . . and we'll get them some day!"

Factor has identified members of the Touhy band as his abductors. When questioned by reporters regarding that identification, however, he declined to go into details. He said:

"They have been identified. It is public knowledge that they are under indictment in Chicago."

Factor referred questions regarding the part he will take in the trial here to Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general assigned to such cases.

"Are you going on the witness stand?" Factor was asked.

"That's up to the government," he replied.

Affects Case in Chicago.

"Do you expect to identify the Touhy gangsters here?" Factor was asked, but Keenan interrupted:

"The question of whether Mr. Factor will take the stand does not concern his ability to make identifications. It concerns technical matters of law relative to the Cook county charges against the defendants."

It was indicated Factor would testify that the hideout where he was held was the same where Hamm was kept.

"Are you going to tell the location of that hideout?" Factor was asked.

"That's up to the government," Factor replied. "I will say that it is not in Minnesota."

Printer Identifies Three.

During the trial of the Hamm kidnaping case today Walter C. Bowick, St. Paul printer, pointed out Willie Sharkey as the driver of the car in which Hamm was spirited away.

Then in quick succession Bowick pointed out Gustav [Gloomy Gus] Schaefer as another man in the car and then Eddie [Father] McFadden as the man who sat on Hamm's left in the automobile.

Prosecutor Keenan had asked Bowick if he saw any men in the court-

John Dillinger, desperate leader of a band of outlaws which has been terrorizing northern and central Indiana for weeks, last night shot his way out of a Chicago trap elaborately planned by Indiana state policemen assisted by Chicago detectives.

Dozens of shots fired by sixteen policemen rapped loudly but harmlessly on the bullet-proofed glass of Dillinger's car during a running battle in Irving Park boulevard from Keeler avenue to Elston avenue.

Dillinger, a woman companion, and a concealed machine gunner, the latter firing from a porthole in the fugitive car, caused more damage, shattering the windshield of the Indiana policemen's automobile and forcing them to give up the pursuit, although no one was wounded.

Taken From Ohio Jail.

Since Oct. 12 Dillinger has been sought diligently. On that day he was a prisoner in the Lima, O., jail. He had been identified as a bank robber. Three of his underlings, resolved to rescue him at any cost, invaded the jail and killed Sheriff Jess Sarber when he resisted them.

The rescue was accomplished, and the gang, composed in part of convicts who fled from the Michigan City prison on Sept. 26, has since raided several banks and two police arsenals in Indiana.

Yesterday the Indiana authorities learned that Dillinger, whose prowess in crime has been compared to that of the James boys and Harvey Bailey, was to visit the office of a Chicago physician at the southeast corner of Irving Park boulevard and Keeler avenue.

Indiana Police Ask Aid.

Lieut. John Jenkins and Sergt. G. W. Ryan of the Indiana state police requested aid of the detective bureau. Dillinger, they said, was pretty sure to visit the doctor, as he had a bad case of facial ringworm.

Three squads, under command of Sergt. Howard Harder, Sergt. Andrew Carroll and Sergt. Walter Bailey, were assigned to help the Indiana squad led by Lieut. Jenkins. The detail that set out to capture Dillinger thus numbered sixteen in all.

Shortly before 9 p. m. Dillinger arrived at Irving Park boulevard and Keeler avenue, in a small, fast automobile, which he parked on the west side of Keeler avenue, facing south. Leaving his woman companion in the car he crossed the street and entered the physician's office. The police desired to keep the name of the doctor a secret, but later it was reported that he is Dr. Charles H. Eyle.

The Trap Is Set.

While the desperado was being treated in the physician's office, policemen made their dispositions and explained their plan to the Chicago detectives. Sergt. Harder's squad, in its car, was placed in Keeler avenue, north of the boulevard, facing south.

The Carroll squad was put a half block south in Keeler avenue, on the east side, and the Bailey squad also was placed to the south, but not so far from the car of Dillinger, and on the west side of the pavement. Lieut. Jenkins and his men also were south of the bandit car. All the police squad cars except that of Harder faced north.

Lieut. Jenkins, calling a huddle, proposed that he would signal with a movable auto light when Dillinger was again in his car.

"He will drive south," said the lieutenant. "Harder will follow him. The other squads will close in on him in the street and gun their cars into his if necessary. He will be caught in the middle."

Dillinger Returns to Car.

Dillinger returned to his car. He took the driver's seat and the Indiana police manipulated the light. The chase was on. But Dillinger, either by accident or because of fear, did not drive south. He backed his car around the corner into Irving Park boulevard, faced east, and set off.

Converging on him were the squad of Harder and the squad of the Indiana police, who had distanced Carroll and Bailey. From the Harder car shots were fired until a passing automobile came in the line and the Chicago policemen had to desist.

The Indianians also fired immediately. There was no damage. The bullet-proofed doors and windows of Dillinger's car shed bullets as rubber sheds water. Dillinger, holding his wheel with one hand, dropped a window and fired back. Then he dashed east. In a few seconds his speed was about 85 miles an hour, according to the pursuers.

Machine Gunner Opens Fire.

The Indiana policemen followed. Their car was just as fast. They even drew up to the fugitive. Then the concealed porthole was opened and the hidden machine gunner in Dillinger's car poured a rat-a-tat of bullets upon the Indiana automobile. The girl sitting beside Dillinger lowered a window and helped with a few pistol bullets.

As their windshield was broken, the Indiana squad slowed up a little. The Chicago police, in their slower cars, were already too far behind to count. Dillinger swung his car to the southeast into Elston avenue, rounded a corner into a side street, doubled back, and somewhere around Grace street and Western avenue, after a series of similar maneuvers, was lost to sight.

Search Building in Vain.

Shortly afterward squads were sent to a building at 820 Montrose avenue, where, it was reported, a man believed to be either Dillinger or Verne Miller, South Dakota gangster who shot his own way out of a trap at Sheridan road and Galt avenue several weeks ago, was stopping. The place was found empty.

There is a $10,000 reward for the capture of Dillinger. He was paroled in Indiana last year after serving nine years of a ten to twenty year sentence in prison for assault and battery. He has since been identified in several bank robberies. It was said that he was rescued from the Ohio jail by men who escaped from the Michigan City prison and were grateful to him for making the arrangements that enabled them to flee.

There was an echo of the Verne Miller escape yesterday when Vivian Mathews, the girl who was indicted for aiding him, was taken from the detective bureau by federal agents and locked up in the Kane county jail at Geneva, supposedly to prevent her communicating with friends in Chicago.

HOW GUNMAN ESCAPED TRAP

Cermak's Daughter Scouts Miami Kidnap Plot Story

Mrs. Helen Cermak Kenlay, daughter of the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak, in her home at 2848 South Millard avenue, last night denied that kidnaping threats have been made against her daughter, Mary Alyce, 3 years old. The denial was made after she had been informed that charges had been filed in the Criminal court at Miami, Fla., accusing Gail Swolley of Peoria of plotting to kidnap the child last June.

Indictments charging Swolley, Frank Souder of Benton, and Julius Jones of St. Charles with the kidnaping of James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, were returned in the Cook county Criminal court yesterday. Miami authorities asked that Swolley be held pending extradition proceedings on the alleged Kenlay kidnaping plot and an attempt to kill William W. Wood, a leader of the Young Democratic club in Miami.

Absurd, Mrs. Kenlay Says.

"The story is absurd," said Mrs. Kenlay when asked about the Miami case. "I have never received kidnaping threats against my daughter. Some one is seeking publicity."

The state's attorney's office was notified of the Miami charges by County Solicitor Fred W. Pine of Dade county, Florida. Wood in a sworn statement, according to Pine, said he was a friend of Mrs. Kenlay and received a letter from alleged extortionists demanding $63,000 on threat of kidnaping the Cermak grandchild.

Wood said that no attention was paid to this letter. He later received a second note threatening death to himself and Mrs. Kenlay, he said. During negotiations on the second note, according to Miami dispatches, Wood was fired upon by a group of men in an automobile, one of whom he later identified from pictures as Swolley. Wood said he paid $8,000 to extortionists.

Wood's name was linked with Mrs. Kenlay last June when they were reported to have married. The report was later found to be false.

"The kidnaping report has as much basis in truth as the marriage report," said Mrs. Kenlay. "I most certainly did not pay $8,000. If Mr. Wood did so he has not told me of it."

Floyd M. Kenlay, divorced husband of Mrs. Kenlay and father of the child, also denied knowledge of the reported kidnaping plot. He said the late Mayor Cermak had once cautioned him to guard the child, but that no kidnaping threat had been made against her.

The state's attorney's office informed Prosecutor Pine of Swolley's indictment here and reported that it could not act on the extradition request until the Cook county case is disposed of. Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coughlan, in charge of the Hackett kidnaping investigation, said he had information that members of the gang that abducted were in Florida at one time.

Swolley, through his attorney, W. W. O'Brien, declared he had no part in the kidnaping of Hackett and will demand an immediate trial. Under Illinois law, the death penalty may be imposed on convicted kidnapers.

Girl Freed After Quizzing.

Helen Terry, 25 years old, of South Bend, was released by police and federal agents yesterday after questioning to determine whether she had any knowledge of the operations of the four Touhy gangsters now on trial in St. Paul for the kidnaping of William Hamm Jr. A card bearing her name was found in the car in which Roger Touhy, leader of the gang, and three companions were arrested last summer at Elkhorn, Wis.

The Terry girl protested her innocence, explaining the presence of the card by stating that Touhy had been a customer of a barbecue stand where she had formerly been employed. Two girls and three men arrested with her were also released.

WAUKEGAN ACTS TO STOP 'TAXI CUPID' RACKET

A move to stamp out what is described as a "marriage racket" was taken yesterday at a meeting in Waukegan of County Clerk Lew A. Hendee of Lake county and Justices of the Peace Henry Wallenwein, Harry Hoyt, Michael Haney, Burt Love, and Kurt Kiesow.

The principal evil of the situation, it was explained, is the operations of taxicab drivers who meet couples getting off trains or in the vicinity of the courthouse and ask them if they are planning to marry.

Whenever a marriage-minded couple is found the taxi driver will take them to the marriage license bureau and then to the nearest justice, it was said. The driver then exacts $2.50 from the justice for bringing him the business and sometimes demand half of the justice's fee, Mr. Hendee said. The situation is not one desired by the justices, it was explained.

At the conference the justices agreed not to share fees with taxi drivers. Mr. Hendee said he would consider a plan not to issue any after hour marriage licenses at his home. Sheriff Lester Tiffany, State's Attorney Charles Mason and Police Chief Edwin Ahlstrom of Waukegan agreed to arrest and prosecute any taxi drivers hereafter found soliciting marriage business.

COP'S TRICK SHOT GIVES FUGITIVE A REAL SURPRISE

"Dr" Eduardo De Ramos who, police said, poses as a physician to deal in narcotics, tried to pass a fake narcotics prescription at the Walgreen drug store at 69th and Halsted streets last night. The clerk called Detective Daniel Garrity of the Englewood station who arrested De Ramos. As they started away De Ramos broke loose and Garrity fired one shot, low. The bullet struck the heel of De Ramo's left shoe and knocked his feet from under him, enabling Garrity to recapture him. De Ramos wasn't wounded, but he was surprised.

U. S. FILES $11,554 CLAIM AGAINST LEBENSBERGER

Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, yesterday filed a claim for $11,554 against the estate of Edgar B. Lebensberger, owner of the 225 club, who was found shot to death in his home at 1258 Lake Shore drive a month ago. The claim represented alleged unpaid income taxes for 1927, 1928 and 1929 and was filed with Clerk M. C. Robin of the Probate court.

FIRST AIRDROME AT SEA PLANNED BY AMERICANS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper today revealed plans to build the first American experimental floating airdrome to test the feasibility of a trans-Atlantic air route.

Envisaging a 24 hour mail, express, and passenger air service between the United States and London, Paris, Lisbon, Rome, Madrid, and cities in North Africa Secretary Roper announced that a quarter section of an airdrome will be built and tested at sea as the first step in the venture.

Aprroximately a million and a half dollars of easy money from the public works funds has been allocated for the experimental section, Roper said. Actual work will await approval by the President and the state department.

Towed out to sea and left to be buffeted by the elements, the small seadrome will determine the fate of the project outlined by the secretary today. To complete the seaway, if the tests prove successful, will cost the government about 30 million dollars.

The airway would be open to private planes owned by individuals or lines which would be charged fees in order to repay the government for its original costs, Roper said. The seadromes would include accommodations for stopovers and repairs in addition to landing fields.

Treasury Offers 91 Day Issue of Discount Bills

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The treasury today invited tenders for 91 day discount bills amounting to about $60,000,000. They will be dated Nov. 22 and applications will be received at the federal reserve banks and branches up to 2 p. m. Nov. 30.

FACTOR HELPING U. S. ATTACK ON TOUHY GANGMEN

Tells Location of Prison Kidnapers Used.

room who were in the automobile when Hamm was picked up.

"Yes," Bowick replied. "I see three men here who were in the car."

The three he identified are co-defendants of Roger Touhy. Bowick was in the office of the Theo. Hamm Brewing company at noon June 15, when Hamm was picked up. He saw the "snatch," he said, while walking back toward the brewery proper shortly after buying a package of cigarets at a nearby store. He thought then the men who took Hamm "were only a bunch of drunks off on a lark."

Bowick's identification remained unshaken through continued cross-examination by William Scott Stewart, chief defense counsel.

Identification of three defendants was made by Charles Carlson, a farm hand, as occupants of what the government says was the kidnapers' automobile. Carlson said a friend of his made week-end visits to the Twin Cities and hired a chauffeur to drive him home. So Carlson took particular notice of a big black car that stopped, then passed the farm at which he was employed near Wyoming, Minn., last June 19.

It was near there about that time the millionaire brewer was freed after being held prisoner almost four days at an unlocated hideout.

Thinking it was his friend returning home, Carlson said he watched the car pass while he kept a herd of cows from crossing the road into a pasture about 5:30 a. m. He testified he saw three men in the car. For Prosecutor Keenan Carlson pointed out Schaefer, Touhy, and then McFadden. Carlson said Schaefer, driving the car, wore a uniform.

Tells of Ransom Notes.

Another witness was W. W. Dunn, sales manager of the Theodore Hamm Brewing company. He testified about the ransom notes he received from the kidnapers. One demanded $100,000.

Another threatened death to both Dunn and Hamm unless payment was made immediately and warned the ransom would be increased to $150,000 if the demands were not immediately met.

John Factor, as a spectator, listened attentively as Dunn told how, unarmed and alone, he went out on a highway at night and delivered the $100,000 for Hamm's release.

Dunn's coupe was stripped of its doors and back, a red lantern fixed behind, and in it Dunn, carrying the money in a brief case, went out to meet the abductors.

After passing Wyoming, Minn., about 40 miles north of here, a car came up behind and followed about 200 yards, Dunn testified.

He was driving about 20 miles per hour in accordance with instructions that had been given him by telephone.

Passed by Strange Auto.

After following for a short distance, the car passed him at about 90 miles an hour and later repeated the process. After passing through Rush City the same car approached from behind again, flashed its headlights on and off five times, and followed him slowly until he dropped the money on the pavement. He heard a patter of feet, he said, as if a man standing on the running board of the car following him had leaped off and picked up the bag.

Before leaving St. Paul that night the kidnapers called him by telephone, Dunn testified, and he was asked if he was "ready to go." "If you are not ready to go, the price goes up tonight. We know this line is tapped," he was told.

Another official of the brewing company had found a note containing the final instructions for delivering the ransom, and with those instructions Dunn was informed he would meet Hamm at a hotel in Duluth.

FACTOR MAY REVEAL TORTURES AS "GUEST" OF TOUHY GANGSTERS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Matthew M. Joyce willing, the United States government tomorrow, with the testimony of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, will strike at the elaborate defense structure in the Hamm kidnaping case and establish a precedent that may end the "snatch racket."

Factor is prepared not only to identify the four Touhy mobsters as his abductors, but to give details of their torture methods during the ten days of his own captivity.

Assistant United States Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan had him brought here from Chicago.

"If I am permitted to put him on the stand," Keenan said tonight, "I won't mention kidnaping. Here, substantially, will be the questions and answers the jury will hear:

Q.—Were you ever a guest of Roger Touhy, Eddie McFadden, Willie Sharkey, and Gloomy Gus Schafer? A.—Yes, last summer.

Q.—At whose home were you entertained? A.—McFadden's.

Q.—Who escorted you there? A.—Men already named.

Q.—Did you go willingly? A.—No; they had machine guns.

Q.—Were you banqueted at the McFadden home? A.—Yes, with bread and water.

"And so on," said Keenan.

Highland Park Man Gets 5 Year Term for Rape

Robert Wetzel, 26 years old, 220 North 2d street, Highland Park, pleaded guilty to statutory rape yesterday in the Circuit court at Waukegan and was sentenced by Judge Ralph Dady to five years in the penitentiary. Wetzel, who is married and the father of two children, admitted relations with a 13 year old girl.

CITY EMPLOYES IN ST. PAUL FAIL TO GET SALARIES

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Members of the St. Paul city council said that failure to meet a $150,000 pay roll today was due to problems arising over an estimated $1,445,000 tax delinquency in 1934. This deficit must be financed under terms of an agreement with St. Paul banks, before Milton Rosen, commissioner of finance, will permit further temporary use of trust funds for current financing.

The councilmen tonight were engaged in working out details of a plan to finance the deficit and release pay checks to city employes tomorrow. Their plans included the release of 100 school teachers, 104 policemen and firemen in addition to increasing the holdback of city employes' salaries from a proposed 10 to 14.4 per cent. This, together with a drastic reduction in other public services, was proposed to solve the problem.

Mayor Mahoney Scored.

Another view of St. Paul's financial troubles was presented editorially in the St. Paul Pioneer Press today. This said in part:

"Notwithstanding the contrary opinion of Mayor Mahoney, the Pioneer Press considers it miserable mismanagement on the part of the leading responsible official of the city government when two months before the expiration of the calendar year the public treasury is more than $1,500,000 short of the amount needed to complete the year, when the sinking fund has to be tapped and the permanent improvement funds looted for cash, and when the only recourse left is an abject appeal to bankers for assistance in carrying the city through.

Say He Was Warned.

"The mayor was warned by Controller Goodrich that the city was living beyond its income once in February, twice in March, once in August and still again in September. Still the city kept on spending beyond its income. Now the mayor declares that it was not his fault. He concedes that he was warned by the controller but pleads in extenuation that he was not given an "analysis." At the time the mayor did not complain of any lack of an "analysis." He said that the controller was guessing and closed his eyes to the facts.

WATCHERS TELL SENATORS ABOUT HUEY'S MACHINE

Vote Counting Least of Work, They Assert.

New Orleans, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Charges of sluggings, jailings and "crooked" counting of ballots were laid today before the special senate committee investigating Senator John H. Overton's election. The witnesses were produced by Francis Williams, a New Orleans political leader.

The day's session started with Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.], chairman, saying in reply to charges recently made by John G. Holland:

"About my being afraid, the only persons afraid of this investigation are you cowards in Louisiana."

Spectators Razz Senator.

The spectators arose with a roar and shouted denial and denunciation at the chairman. Burt Henry, head of the Honest Election league, hurried toward the chairman, saying, "Where do you get that coward stuff?"

By requesting that any one then smoking cease to do so, as that was a rule of the committee, Senator M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.], who had experienced similar disorder Monday and Tuesday, calmed the spectators.

Senator Connally explained he was not referring to all of the people of Louisiana, but to those who would run around and whisper, but were afraid to come before the committee to testify.

Witnesses Tell of Election.

Then the witnesses started a march to the stand, and before the day ended the committee had heard stories of intimidations at the polls, disappearance of a ballot box, and other charges against the Overton workers at the polls in the city of New Orleans.

At the close of the day's session Chairman Connally said the committee would be here for some time and hoped to get to the bottom of the charges, which were filed by former Senator Edwin Broussard [Dem., La.] against Senator Overton, also a Democrat, who was elected with the support of Senator Huey P. Long's machine.

Broussard the other day retired from the investigation with the explanation that he had lost confidence in the committee. The Honest Election league and the committee's investigator, Holland, had taken a similar stand. Holland had charged Chairman Connally was yellow and the committee sought to cover up the inquiry.

Holland Renews Attack.

Chairman Connally said Holland's case would be properly handled, but Holland further denounced the chairman today, shouting:

"I will fight to maintain the integrity of these records. I will, never withdraw from this case."

"Sit down over there," the chairman ordered. "You are nothing but an employé of this committee."

Holland, however, aided Senator Logan in drawing testimony from the witnesses.

Ramos Elliott, Broussard watcher, testified a blind man came to vote and that he and an Overton watcher asked him who he wanted to vote for and he said a straight Broussard ticket. Elliott said he marked the ticket and handed it to the blind man, but the Overton worker snatched it out of the blind man's hand and ran. Later he said he made them count the ballot.

Busy Day at Polls.

Edgar W. Mouras, a sixth ward leader, said things were in "terrible shape" in his ward on election day with mobs around the polls marking ballots up against walls on the street.

John W. Babin, Broussard watcher, said he was watching at the polls until he was slugged and knocked unconscious and then taken off to jail.

Anthony Chuder, another Broussard watcher, said the commissioners at his precinct signed tally sheets without counting the ballots and left the precinct five minutes after the polls closed.

Anthony Christina, who said he had been appointed as a Broussard election commissioner, said he went to the precinct to serve but he was sent to jail instead.

Mrs. James Ibos said she was watching at the first precinct of the second ward and a box disappeared and then reappeared.

Lawrence Jurisich, a Broussard watcher, said he found 16 Broussard votes among 62 votes that all had been counted for Overton until he protested.

EDITOR APPEALS AFTER ATTEMPT AT 'CENSORSHIP'

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—An appeal to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes to throw down an attempted "censorship" of the press by minor officials in his department was made today by Blair Coan, editor of the Washington Spectator and Mirror, which has been barred from government newsstands.

Explaining that officials of the Welfare Recreation association, which is under Ickes' department, had barred his publication from newsstands in government buildings because of criticisms of the NRA, Coan, in a letter, asked Ickes "that this censorship be removed as soon as possible."

Coan pointed out in his letter that the original grounds the Welfare association gave for banning his magazine was that it criticized the NRA. He declared that when this censorship was disclosed, the association then shifted its position, saying that there was no demand for the publication, which has a circulation of several thousand, through nongovernment stands.

Coan stressed the point that the government newsstands are public property and that publishers, as taxpayers, have a right to use them.

STAFF SHAKEUP PLEASES JAPAN'S 'BIG NAVY' BLOC

TOKIO, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A shakeup in high naval commands was hailed today as a triumph for advocates of a big Japanese navy. Two possible motives were suggested unofficially for the changes announced last night:

A desire to relieve unrest apparent among naval officers since the court martial of several of their fellows as a result of the assassination of Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai, and general dissatisfaction with the ratio allotted Japan under the London naval treaty.

Chief among the changes were the appointments of Admirals Nomura and Kobayashi as members of the naval council and of Vice Admiral Nagano as commander of the Yokosuka naval base.

RADIO CONTROL 'NO PRECEDENT' FOR PRESS RULE

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Newspaper publishers should not think, said Dr. Lindsay Rogers, deputy NRA administrator, today, that government control of broadcasting "will be any precedent for public supervision of publishing."

Prof. Rogers, declaring the spoken word of the radio was a transitory thing soon forgotten, while the written word of the press, good or bad, was an imperishable record, said it was "inconceivable that we could have broadcasting without some measure of supervision."

"A newspaper can be printed in any form that the proprietor desires without preventing the publication of another newspaper," said Rogers, addressing the Newspaper Guild of New York. "But unless broadcasters are limited to different wave lengths, they interfere with each other. A newspaper cannot pi its competitor's type. But without control we would have symphonies, bedtime stories, crooners, and astrologers all mixed up in an unintelligible melée of sounds.

"Again it is particularly true in respect of broadcasting that, to paraphrase a fact not unfamiliar to news writers, the flowing voice speaks and having spoken moves on; and that neither your piety nor wit shall lure it back to cancel half a syllable. There must, therefore, be some control in advance to erect safeguards against obscenity and libel. Hence, no matter what bureaucratic inanities can be cited, newspapers as newspapers ought not to think that so long as free government lasts, public control of broadcasting will be any precedent for public supervision of publishing."

Because the problems of the radio and the press are separate, Dr. Rogers said it was "entirely unnecessary" that any concern be felt about the freedom of the press.

Spurned Woman Awarded $20,000 Balm by Jury

A jury in Circuit Judge George Fred Rush's court yesterday awarded damages of $20,000 to Miss Dorothy Cartish, 32 years old, 820 North Karlov avenue, in her breach of promise suit against Thomas Pappas, owner of a restaurant at 401 South Western avenue. She testified that she met Pappas 12 years ago, that he wooed her ardently, promised to marry her from year to year, and bought her fur coats, jewelry and other expensive gifts. In November, 1928, after he had told her to buy a trousseau and select an apartment, he suddenly refused to marry her, she charged. She had asked $100,000 damages.

MERRY'S 'COUNT' FOUND; TELLS OF THEIR ROMANCE

Suitor of Fahrney Heiress "Explains" Marriage.

BY JOSE ARROYOS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—George di Georgio, whose claim to the title of count is discredited here, left Santiago today by boat for Cristobal, Panama, where he said he hopes to meet his fiancee, the former Mrs. Merry Fahrney Parker-Pickering, Oak Park heiress, who became the bride of Frank V. Eiszner following an elopement last Friday.

At first refusing to believe Chicago reports of the marriage, di Georgio later admitted that Merry had told him of the elopement last Friday when he talked with her over the long distance telephone. He said that after the wedding Merry had cabled him and also telephoned him at the Casa Grande hotel here.

Calls Dispatches Untrue.

Dispatches quoting Mrs. Eiszner as announcing that she had "given up the count" and intended to live with her new husband are untrue, di Georgio said.

"Merry married Eiszner solely because of the strained relations between her and her parents who have constantly annoyed her because she loves me," explained di Georgio. "They are also responsible for my being forced to leave New York City. Merry told me she married Eiszner only to avoid red tape difficulties in obtaining a passport to leave the United States to join me. She says that these difficulties are smoothed over with her marriage to Eiszner for she can do as she pleases.

"Her marriage has been a marriage of convenience so that she will be able to leave the United States and join me."

To "Meet in Cristobal."

Di Georgio said that he would go to Cristobal by way of Kingston, Jamaica. He said that he expects to meet Merry at Cristobal and that from there they will sail for New York.

In an earlier interview di Georgio had calmly dismissed the report of his fiancée's marriage as a false, sensational story. A cablegram left prominently displayed in his hotel room here while he excused himself to telephone was from the new Mrs. Eiszner and said:

"I will board the Santa Clara in New York at an early date to join you soon, my love."

"Enough of that Nonsense."

"If you have come to advise me of my fiancée's faked marriage story," di Georgio announced, "I already have had enough of that nonsense. It is absolutely false. The American press is trying to make a scandal out of my intended marriage to Merry for the sole purpose of creating a sensational story and making papers sell more rapidly."

To substantiate his denial of the marriage story di Georgio displayed a cablegram dated Nov. 10, the same day the marriage took place. The cable advised him that Merry had met with an automobile accident and fractured two ribs. Merry had signed the message.

On the day of the reported marriage, De Georgio said, Merry had telephoned him from the hospital in Chicago.

"I don't pay for the telephone conversations," the "count" said. "I let the women do that and my fiancée is no exception to the rule. She pays for them. Early Monday she called me again to deny the stories of her marriage to Eiszner.

"The proof that the story of her marriage is untrue is the cablegram dated Nov. 10 at 6:30 p. m. She could hardly have been married on the same night and of course she paid for the message," and he grinned broadly as he handed over the cable for perusal.

Gets Another Cablegram.

A second cablegram sent by Merry on Nov. 11 told di Georgio that the news stories were false and explained that when news is scarce the papers make up news "by injuring the reputations of honorable people." Di Georgio also showed other cablegrams in which Merry reiterated her "everlasting love" and told him "I still plan to marry you soon."

On Monday, Georgio said, his financée complained of not receiving a cable from him so he made "an extraordinary exception because she is ill and paid $25 for a call for the first time since I met her." The "count" closed the interview with the announcement that he is a good polo player and shoots big game, "especially tigers in Africa."

NEW HUSBAND TAKES FAHRNEY BRIDE FROM HOSPITAL TO HOME

So that she can have complete rest, Mrs. Merry Fahrney Parker-Pickering Eiszner, heiress bride of Frank V. Eiszner, was removed yesterday from the Edgewater hospital to her home at 400 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park. Her new husband accompanied her.

She had been convalescing at the hospital from injuries received last week in an automobile accident following her elopement to Aurora with Eiszner. Eiszner's brother, Donald, was killed in the crash.

On Mrs. Eiszner's return home her mother, Mrs. Emory H. Fahrney, said that on orders of Dr. Maximilian Kern, Mrs. Eiszner would still be confined to bed for 10 days. Too many "unwanted visitors" at the hospital necessitated her removal home, the mother said. Mrs. Fahrney said she was delighted over the decision of her daughter to live with her new husband and to forget her romance with George di Georgio, of Chile. This decision was made public Tuesday by Mrs. Eiszner, who will inherit part of the fortune of her grandfather, Peter Fahrney, medicine manufacturer.

Hales Gives Up Contest of Oak Park's Election

G. Willard Hales, grain broker who was a candidate for president of the village of Oak Park in the election last April, yesterday withdrew his petition for a recount of the ballots. Hales had been contesting the election of Willis McFeely to the presidency before Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan. McFeely received 10,200 votes and Hales received 9,841. A recount of six of the 42 precincts in the village gave Hales a net gain of seven votes over McFeely.

TEXAS WOMAN SLAYS RIVAL; CITES DIXIE CODE

Relies on Unwritten Law and Self-Defense.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Following a tradition of the old south that the invasion of a home justifies slaying, Mrs. L. W. Boone, 35 years old, today shot and killed Mrs. Pearl Hall, 30 year old widow who was a rival for the affections of her husband, L. W. [Dan] Boone.

Under arrest a little later and charged with murder, Mrs. Boone made statements indicating that her defense will be based on the unwritten law and self-defense.

"Mrs. Hall had been going with my husband for six months," she said. "I took her to my home today. When she said 'Hello, Dan,' I went crazy and shot her. Anyhow, that woman had turned toward me with her hand under her coat."

Infuriated by Gossip.

According to the killer, she had become so worked up over gossip to the effect that her husband was attentive to Mrs. Hall that she went to the latter's home this morning and persuaded her that Boone wished to see her. They went together to the Boone home and on the way, according to Mrs. Boone, her rival confessed her intimacy with Boone.

Face Husband in Bed.

Together the two women went in and awoke the object of their affections.

"Dan, she's got us," cried the terrified Mrs. Hall.

With that Mrs. Boone presented her .45 caliber automatic pistol and fired once. The bullet struck Mrs. Hall near the heart. She died soon after a Mrs. Morrison, a neighbor, had summoned the police at the request of the husband.

The police learned that Mrs. Morrison had accompanied Mrs. Boone to the Hall home and that the widow did not know that the purveyor of the invitation to visit "Dan" was his wife until they were in a car and on the way to him.

WOUNDED IN TARGET PRACTICE.

Frank Trieoff, 30 years old, of 2238 Seminary avenue, was shot in the left leg last night when a rifle in the hands of Michael Kolning, 30, 4166 Oakdale avenue, was accidentally discharged during target practice in the basement of Trieoff's home.

PLENTY OF GOOD WHISKY ON FIRST DAY OF REPEAL

U. S. Blending "Beats Bootlegger to the Draw."

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—In an effort to foil both the bootlegger and the profiteer by assuring low price legitimate liquor on the opening day of prohibition repeal, the administration is now allowing the withdrawal of old bonded whiskies from the warehouses for blending and shipment to all parts of the country.

This became known today as President Roosevelt held a second meeting with the interdepartmental liquor control committee, at which plans for government supervision of the distilling industry and prospective new taxes for liquor were considered.

The blending is taking place, under the strictest government supervision. By the addition of neutral, high-proof spirits and blending sherry, the nation's stock of bonded liquors is being increased approximately ten fold.

Three Million Gallons.

At least 3,000,000 gallons [1,000,000 cases] of blended whisky, of a quality which, officials say, will be comparable to the best of pre-prohibition goods, will be available on Dec. 5 and, if the administration's low price efforts are successful, will sell for less than $2 a quart.

Encouragement of the blending operation is one of the new but as yet unannounced policies of Mr. Roosevelt and his aides in meeting the changing liquor problem. The first axiom they recognize as inherent in repeal is that high prices will perpetuate the bootlegging evil and that a sudden rush for liquor the first day of repeal will result inevitably in exorbitant prices.

For the last week the restrictions on withdrawals of bonded liquors have been eased materially. Prospectively legitimate blenders, operating under medicinal liquor regulations, have for that time been allowed to withdraw whisky from bond, paying even the $1.10 a gallon tax, and to blend their withdrawals, paying an additional tax of 30 cents a gallon.

Shipped in Sealed Cars.

The blended products are being shipped in sealed cars from the blending plants to strategic wholesale points to be held there under bond until Dec. 5. Officials say that is precisely the type of the major portion of whisky drunk before prohibition.

Officials were happy today over having, as they put it, "beaten the bootlegger and profiteer to the draw." They estimated that the country would have "a big plenty" of liquor for distribution the first day of repeal; that the goods would be sufficiently distributed over the country to fill every demand, and that competition would be sufficiently keen to hold the price down.

The freight movement of liquor is said to be increasing daily. Fifty carloads or more were handled yesterday through Chicago, being distributed from there to surrounding points as from the hub of a wheel.

Distillers Sign Code.

Persons attending the President's interdepartmental liquor conference this morning said that the administration was leaning more and more toward control of the distilling industry through the agricultural adjustment administration. The distillers already have filed with the administration a code of fair competition, proposing to regulate themselves under government supervision, even down to the point of preventing liquor shipments to dry states.

IOWANS' RIGHT TO GOOD LIQUOR WILL BE UPHELD

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Promotion of temperance, not promotion of sales, is the keynote of proposed legislation altering Iowa's prohibition laws.

This assurance was given today by Gov. Clyde L. Herring. The governor's statement came in response to attacks by the Iowa Temperance council.

"There is no use splitting hairs over the liquor question," Gov. Herring said. "Iowa voted against prohibition of liquor, against an unwise regulation of something that is and always will be with us. The citizens have demanded the right to have good liquor, sold under proper conditions. It is the purpose of this administration to see that that right is protected."

ENVOY TO BRING REPORT ON CUBA TO PRESIDENT

Will Meet Roosevelt in Georgia.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—William Phillips, acting secretary of state, announced tonight that arrangements had been made for Sumner Welles, United States ambassador to Cuba, to confer with President Roosevelt Sunday at Warm Springs, Ga., on developments in the island republic.

Phillips issued this statement:

"In view of recent developments in Cuba, Ambassador Welles has requested permission to have an opportunity to discuss the situation with the President.

"Inasmuch as the President is to be in Warm Springs for the week-end, and as Warm Springs can be quickly reached from Havana, the President has indicated that he will receive Mr. Welles there on Sunday. After his conference, Mr. Welles will return to Havana."

It was understood that the ambassador would make the trip by airplane. Mr. Roosevelt is to leave for Warm Springs Friday.

Ponder Fate of Rebel Leaders.

HAVANA, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A verdict recommending the death penalty for two aviators convicted of being leaders in a rebellion last week that cost 150 lives was in the hands of President Ramon Grau San Martin tonight.

The executive was quoted by Dr. Antonio Guiteras, secretary of war and the interior, as saying the cabinet must decide whether to carry out or commute the finding of a military court which heard charges against 34 soldiers in connection with the uprising.

The pair for whom the death penalty was asked are Homobono Rodriguez and Basilio Gonzalez.

"The cabinet is divided," Dr. Guiteras said. "I personally recommend the execution of some Machadists [followers of former President Gerardo Machado] now imprisoned before executing soldiers. The cabinet is meeting within two days to decide the question."

Foreigners to Be Deported.

The minister disclosed that all foreign political and other prisoners will be deported within two or three days aboard the government steamer Yunque.

Rumblings of revolt continued in Oriente, Matanzas, and Santa Clara provinces today. Strict censorship was applied to news dispatches from the interior, and complete accounts could not be obtained.

It was learned, however, that several encounters between loyal troops and rebels occurred at various points. No casualties were reported.

Home in Manila

Miss Luz Palmer, 22 years old, who left her home in Manila, P. I., to travel around the world, arrived yesterday at the Stevens hotel. The young woman, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Palmer, prominent in Manila, said she had operatic ambitions and expected to study voice in Italy.

RUMANIA BANS 2 ANTI-JEWISH ORGANIZATIONS

BUCHAREST, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The new government of Premier Ion G. Duca opened a campaign tonight to combat a rising wave of anti-Semitism in Rumania.

The cabinet, which was sworn in last night, voted to dissolve two of Rumania's swastika parties—Corneliu Codreanu's Iron Guard and Prof. Alex Cuza's anti-Semitic National Christian party.

The growing strength of these organizations, which at present have only 17 seats in the chamber of deputies, caused anxiety, particularly in view of recent Nazi victories in the Transylvanian district, where, for instance, Nazis won 62 per cent of the total votes cast in a recent election in Sibiu.

Cuza's and Codreanu's parties will be prevented from participating in the forthcoming parliamentary elections.

4 Rob Mail Truck; Loot Estimated at $250,000

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Four bandits, armed with machine guns, held up a hail truck in downtown Charlotte today and escaped with loot, which, detectives said amounted to "more than a quarter of a million dollars."

DRUGGISTS SEE REPEAL AS WAY TO EASY STREET

Hope to Sell Liquor Under $488 Licenses.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Two phases of the problems of post-prohibition liquor began yesterday to attract attention for the first time. Both are lively topics ripe for action by the state legislature or the Chicago city council or both during the next three weeks.

One was the fact that numerous Chicago druggists think they have an ace in the hole that will put them on easy street if a new deal doesn't hit them. The completion of repeal, it was disclosed, will leave retail druggists with full authority to sell bottled liquors over the counter unless the existing ordinances are amended.

Licenses Only $488 a Year.

The general licenses for drug stores, for which they pay only $488 a year, authorize them to sell bottled goods not for consumption on the premises.

Until Dec. 5 they are supposedly kept from taking advantage of that authority by the federal law requirement that they must have a physician's prescription for every sale. But the prescription rule will go out with repeal and then every pharmacy would be able to operate freely as a retail liquor store.

In his talk with the state commission, headed by State Senator Harold G. Ward, Mayor Kelly, without mentioning drug stores, proposed that the city be given home rule, and said that with such a free hand he would advocate the restriction of licenses to one type—the kind that would permit a retailer to sell anything from beer to whisky, either for consumption on the premises or in bottles to be taken elsewhere.

Estimate Fee as High as $1,000.

The fee for this license—unless the state dips in in a preventive way—probably would be a high one, some estimates placing it at $1,000 a year. If this policy were followed the druggist would not be permitted to handle bottled goods under the general license for his whole business, which costs only $488.

As observers feel that Gov. Horner's delay in calling the special session of the general assembly which is to have liquor regulation as its first purpose may cause Illinois to be without any law on the books when liquor returns from outlawry, it is believed that Mayor Kelly will meet the situation by council action, which in effect would restore the old saloon license ordinance to the books, with some modernizations. This, it is said, would cover the drug store angle.

Limit on Dispensaries Suggested.

Then a "hot" subject was broached when it was learned that the state liquor commission may consider a provision limiting retail liquor establishments to one to every 1,000 population. Such a state restriction would limit Illinois to about 7,000 dispensaries and cut Chicago down to about 3,500. In the city alone 7,463 places have been licensed to sell 3.2 beer. About half of them would be refused licenses for stronger stuff and probably would go out of business.

The question whether the number of retailers should be limited on a basis of population instead of on a basis of one to a block or some such method, which would not work well in the loop and in some other areas, has not been taken up yet by the state commission, but may be submitted by Chairman Ward at a meeting either next Saturday or early next week.

Seeks Views of Horner.

Senator Ward is in Springfield and it is said he intends to wait there until Gov. Horner returns from Washington on Friday or Saturday, his purpose being to ascertain if possible the views of the executive both about the ground the state law should cover and the date on which the commission will be expected to present its drafted bill to the assembly.

The commission was jolted somewhat, after it had decided tentatively in favor of a state licensing commission and local commissions, Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly and the Democratic county organization successively came out for the fullest measure of home rule. The commission members are practical men who recognize that their recommendations wouldn't have a ghost of a show for two-thirds vote of each house necessary for immediate effectiveness if they met this sort of opposition.

Having ascertained Mayor Kelly's views clearly when he attended one of their meetings, they feel they are entitled to hear from the governor on several important matters, including the limitation of licenses.

Restriction Previously Higher.

That type of restriction was in effect in Chicago for years before prohibition. The Harkin ordinance was passed in 1906. Its basis was a limitation of saloons on a basis of one to every 500 of population, but those then licensed were allowed to continue in operation, the theory being gradual lapses of licenses and increase in population would establish the 1 to 500 ratio.

That point had not been reached when prohibition befell the nation. There were about 8,000 licenses alive when the Harkin law was passed. The number fell a little year by year until there were 7,152 licenses outstanding and there the number stuck for several years, since the holders had the right to renewal and the right to transfer subject to city approval. In 1919 there were still 5,077 licenses in existence.

This was about one to every 500 of population, but many were maintained by brewery competition, and many of the saloonkeepers could not make a living, it was contended, without association with gambling, prostitution, or other evils. A stiffer ratio, it is contended, would permit the licensee to maintain an attractive, law abiding place, sell honest liquor and still make a profit that would make a license too valuable to be subjected to the risk of revocation.

MICHIGAN LIKELY TO HAVE LIQUOR SALES BY THE STATE

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—There was speculation here today over a tentative liquor control plan to be submitted to the legislature Nov. 22 by the legislative council.

While the provisions are not known, it was conjectured the bill, framed chiefly by a special subcommittee, will provide for a system of about 60 state liquor stores. It is said sales "by the glass" will be permitted in hotels and restaurants of Detroit, Grand Rapids, and Flint, under the proposed plan.

A liquor taxation program probably will be based on a price scale of not more than $2 per quart or $1 to $1.50 per fifth gallon of high grade whisky.

Supplementing the liquor stores, at least one of which probably would be operated in each of the 37 Michigan cities of 10,000 population or more, would be "specially designated merchants," pharmacists or hotel proprietors, allowed to dispense hard liquors in communities too small for state stores. There also might be such licensing in the larger communities where local sentiment favored that plan. Profits of such dealers would be limited to $1,200 a year.

MANN PARDONED BY PRESIDENT ON LOTTERY CHARGE

Kansas City Man Serves Only Four Hours.

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—After serving four hours of a sentence of five months imposed upon him for violating the federal lottery law, Conrad H. Mann, Republican politician of Kansas City and a friend of former President Herbert Hoover, was pardoned today by President Roosevelt.

Bernard C. McGuire, professional promoter who had been convicted with him on a charge of promoting a lottery through the fraternal order of Eagles, began service of his sentence of a year and a day. A deputy United States marshal took him by train to the penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa.

At the same time Louis Mead Treadwell, head of the criminal division of the United States attorney's office, announced that an indictment charging that Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania had violated the lottery law had been nol-prossed.

Davis Recently Acquitted.

Davis was recently acquitted on a lottery charge relating to 1931 when he was director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, through which the alleged chance drawings were conducted.

Mr. Treadwell also announced that an indictment returned against the Western Union Telegraph company charging that it had transported lottery tickets across the state line also had been dismissed.

President Roosevelt signed a pardon last Tuesday for Frank E. Hering, who was convicted with Mann in the Eagles lottery case and sentenced to serve four months.

President Roosevelt, it was revealed, had received hundreds of appeals for intervention in behalf of Mann, who was accused by the government of having received $220,000 from the sale of lottery tickets and having divided a third of this sum with Hering, a trustee of Notre Dame university, and an editor of the Eagle magazine.

Up to Supreme Court.

Hering and Mann had fought a losing battle for reversal of their conviction, which took place almost a year ago, up to the Supreme court of the United States.

News that President Roosevelt had signed a pardon for Mann came as surprise to the white-haired prisoner. He had flown from Kansas City to Cleveland, O., and from there had come to New York by train.

Mr. Treadwell received word of the pardon at 4:30 p. m. He notified the superintendent of the federal house of detention of its terms: If Mann signed an agreement to pay a fine of $10,000, which had been imposed upon him, not later than Dec. 30, he would be freed.

Mr. Taylor and Mr. Lobel hastened to the house of detention, where the necessary papers were signed and Mann walked out, free.

Moscow Avers Religion Is No Bar to U. S. Recognition

MOSCOW, Nov. 15.—(AP)—If the question of religious freedom for Americans in soviet Russia is all that is delaying American recognition, officials here see no reason why the matter should not be settled quickly to the satisfaction of the American government.

This was the comment here today as the progress of conversations between Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov and President Roosevelt at Washington was discussed.

No foreigners incur difficulties in the large centers in this country in practicing their own religious beliefs and attending church services, it was pointed out.

Despite contrary impressions in some places abroad, many churches still function in soviet Russia, and indications are they will continue to operate as long as there is a demand for them.

The soviet government and the communist party have long since abandoned the militant suppression of all religion. They favor the "educational process," under which they seek to make the younger generation godless by the application of large doses of anti-religious propaganda and anti-religious instruction in the schools.

While it is true a number of churches have been destroyed, many others continue to flourish under the soviet constitution which provides that all congregations wishing churches and capable of supporting them may have them.

MOSCOW ENCOURAGED

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 15.—Explanations from Washington that the delay in recognizing the soviet government is due to President Roosevelt's desire to form a stable basis for future relations with Russia and also to give the American public the impression that he is taking the step after careful consideration have heartened Moscow.

The Moscow Pravda, soviet organ, devotes an entire page to the 15th anniversary of the annulment of the Brest-Litovsk treaty. It published a two column list of bolshevism's diplomatic victories, beginning with the annulment of the treaty and ending with the exchange of notes between Mr. Roosevelt and Mikhail Kalinin, titular head of soviet Russia.

Lenin Quoted.

Between two large pictures of Nicolai Lenin and Dictator Josef Stalin Pravda publishes in heavy type the following quotation from one of Lenin's 1920 speeches:

"Our survival, although we were a military nonentity, poverty stricken near destruction, was only possible because we understand and properly utilize the differences existing between German and American imperialism."

This ambiguous declaration was followed by a belligerent statement by Stalin in which he declares Russia is ready to face all comers since her industry is able to arm several millions.

LEGION TO FIGHT RECOGNITION OF SOVIET RUSSIA

The local division of the American Legion will open a campaign here against recognition of soviet Russia at a meeting scheduled for the night of Nov. 22 in Orchestra hall, it was announced yesterday.

Roy M. Moffitt, member of the state Americanism commission of the Legion and its past Americanism officer, will lead the fight. Carveth Wells, world traveler, will be the principal speaker, and will give first hand information based upon his recent journey through Russia.

Mr. Moffitt, explaining why he has arranged the meeting, said that part of the platform of the third international asserts the policy of the abolition of all forms of representative government. The soviet government, he said further, is opposed to a continuance of the American form of government.

"Just because Washington may have closed its eyes, momentarily, to the real dangers from soviet recognition, there is all the more reason for the American Legion to perform its duty and fight for 'America for Americans,' and not 'America for the communist party,'" said Mr. Moffitt.

VANDERBILT III. KILLED IN AUTO CRASH; TWO HURT

Traveling 75 M. P. H. as Car Hits Truck.

Ridgeland, S. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—William K. Vanderbilt III., 26, son of a famous New York family, was killed here today as his automobile, speeding from Miami to New York, struck a fruit truck parked beside the highway.

Erskine Gwynne, relative and companion of Vanderbilt on the trip, suffered only minor injuries, but J. W. Guppy, Vanderbilt's chauffeur, was taken to a Savannah, Ga., hospital in a serious condition. Vanderbilt, officers said, was driving himself at the time.

Gwynne, who had made his home in Paris for some years, returned to this country recently as representative of a French wine merchant. Guppy is a native of England.

Thrown Clear of Wreckage.

Young Vanderbilt, who landed only a week ago at Miami from his father's yacht, was en route to New York to see his mother. He was thrown clear of the car by the impact and received injuries which proved fatal a few minutes later at a Ridgeland doctor's office. His body was taken to Savannah to be prepared for its trip northward. Word received here was that his father would meet it in Washington.

Young Vanderbilt's father, who donated the Vanderbilt cup, famous in automobile racing circles of some years ago, is a director of the New York Central railroad. His mother is Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, from whom his father was divorced in Paris in 1927. Young Vanderbilt lived principally with his mother in New York. His father has remarried.

The young man had not fully recovered from effects of a previous automobile wreck. Only yesterday a bird flew through his windshield at Bunnell, Fla., and flying glass inflicted wounds which required medical attention.

Policeman Q. A. Nettles, who investigated today's wreck, said indications were Vanderbilt's machine was traveling in the neighborhood of 75 miles an hour when the crash occurred.

He said there was no indication that A. B. Stavley, New Jersey produce dealer and driver of the parked truck, contributed in any way to the mishap. Stavley was uninjured and the truck only slightly damaged.

The scene of the wreck was on a long, level straightaway, and the officer said he could see "no reason for the accident."

The accident threw this little community into a stir. All telephone lines were soon busy with long distance calls.

The three injured so taxed the facilities of the small hospital and its staff that attachés were unable to answer calls, and it was some time before the identities of Vanderbilt's companions could be learned.

Gwynne Not Seriously Hurt.

Gwynne was sufficiently recovered this evening to accompany Guppy and Vanderbilt's body to Savannah, there to await further word from the dead youth's family.

In addition to his parents, Vanderbilt is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Henry Delafield Phelps of Newport and New York, the former Mrs. Frederick C. Church Jr. of Boston, and Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith of New York. Mrs. Phelps was formerly Muriel Vanderbilt and Mrs. Smith was Consuelo Vanderbilt.

TAMMANY RULE BROKEN, HOEY TELLS NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—James J. Hoey, the President's new appointee as internal revenue collector in the second district, made his first statement today. He said the New York City Democratic party must be reorganized under entirely new leadership or a new party organization built up to take the place of the old Tammany. The days of Tammany as run by the Curry-McCooey régime are ended, he declared.

With President Roosevelt and his administration in the open, recognizing the Recovery party as the official Democratic organization in this city, the iron ring seemed to be tightening on John F. Curry and his Tammany; Curry and McCooey must go if the Tammany Democracy is to survive. If they do not go, the Recovery party is to be the instrument used for the inevitable battle ahead.

Mr. Hoey gave notice today that his appointments would come from the Recovery party and called on Democrats of the city to rally for a reorganization of their party.

"There must be a complete reorganization with a new leadership or there will be a new party to replace the old Tammany organization," Mr. Hoey said. "It has been needed for the last ten years. Now the job has got to be done. The rank and file of the Democrats in the organization are decent and honest and love their party, but they will no longer follow the selfish leadership which has totally forgotten all principles and all ideas of service.

"I will participate in the movement to set up a new leadership."

One fact of outstanding political significance in Hoey's appointment is that it is said to have been approved in Washington by Senators Copeland and Wagner, both Democrats elected by Tammany Hall.

Power Line Fails; Oak Park Streets Dark 10 Minutes

Oak Park streets were plunged into darkness for ten minutes last night by a defect in a power line of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. The disruption also caused a stoppage of the Oak Park water pumps for twenty minutes. Home lighting was not affected.

Succeeds Parker

Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, new commander of the Sixth corps area, formally assumed command of the corps area at headquarters, 1819 West Pershing road, yesterday. Gen. Brown arrived in the city on Tuesday after relinquishing command of the Panama canal department. He is a graduate of Yale university and is one of the few American generals who rose from the ranks. He enlisted in the regular army in 1894, was commissioned in 1897, and served in the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection and the world war.

FISH IS ACCUSED AS AID OF NAZIS AT HOUSE INQUIRY

Police Are Called On to Clear Room.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The informal investigation by three members of the house immigration and naturalization committee into the alleged circulation in the United States of German Nazi propaganda terminated soon after the morning session opened today. The end was explosive, with Chairman Samuel Dickstein ordering police to clear the room.

The sudden conclusion was precipitated by charges of C. A. Hathaway, editor of the Daily Worker, a communist-labor organ, that Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York "is engaged in spreading Nazi literature."

Mr. Dickstein indulged in a heated argument with Representative Focht, Republican member of the committee. Mr. Focht insisted that Mr. Fish have opportunity to appear and deny the charges.

"——and Russia," Adds Focht.

Then Mr. Focht leaned across the table toward Mr. Hathaway, who had just asserted that he was a member of the communist party of the United States.

"——and Russia," interpolated Representative Crowe.

"Of the United States," corrected the witness.

"As one member of this committee I want to say this," Mr. Focht shouted, "I don't regard you as a communist, but as an anarchist."

Unruffled, the witness retorted that "if the congressman wants to debate communism and Nazism before the committee I will do so."

There was a quickly hushed burst of applause when Mr. Focht had vented his wrath, and this to Mr. Dickstein indicated trouble. He reached for his gavel and banked it as spectators arose.

"The meeting is adjourned and the police will clear the room of everybody," he cried.

Names Three as Agents.

Mr. Hathaway charged that Heinz Spanknoebel, W. Haag, A. Mentzing, who he said was a director of the North German Lloyd Steamship line, were the chief Nazi agents in this country.

He also offered in evidence what was purported to be the original of the document presented yesterday, the original and translation of a "secret letter" from Haag to German Nazi leaders.

"The night this was published, Oct. 7, last," he said, "the Nazi chiefs here met at the George Washington hotel in New York. They tried to figure some way to retaliate against the paper for publishing the expose. They talked of a libel suit.

"Our agent at the meeting reported that Representative Hamilton Fish attended the meeting. Fish is not a child. Based on his past activities, we know that he is a Red 'baiter.' We were not surprised to find evidence that he was linked with Nazis."

Fish Makes Denial.

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.] made public tonight a telegram sent to Representative Samuel Dickstein, chairman of the house immigration committee investigating Nazi activities, in which he denied he ever had attended a Nazi meeting.

3 YEAR MORATORIUM ON B. G. COLLIER'S $17,000,000 DEBTS

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A three year moratorium on the personal obligations of Barron G. Collier, New York advertising executive and Florida developer, involving about $17,000,000, was approved in Federal court here today by Judge Alexander Akerman.

Creditors presented no opposition to the plan, and it was announced specific approval had been obtained from a group of creditors representing $13,000,000 of the indebtedness.

The moratorium was said to be the largest of its kind since the enactment of the amendment to the federal bankruptcy act, providing for such transactions.

Collier's assets were listed as nearly $40,000,000, against the liabilities of $17,000,000.

HONOR CHICAGO MEN DECORATED BY SWEDISH KING

The Swedish club of Chicago last night gave a dinner in the club room at 1258 North La Salle street in honor of seven Swedish-Americans of Chicago, who recently were decorated by King Gustaf of Sweden. The decorations, which accompany election to the Royal Order of the Knights of Vasa, were for meritorious work in America, chiefly in connection with A Century of Progress. Those honored were John M. Westerlin, Erik P. Strandberg, Jacob Bonggren, Charles A. Gustafson, Herbert R. Hedman, Robert C. Ostergren, and Marcus N. Gustavson. Carl R. Chindblom was general chairman of the committee and toastmaster for the banquet.

NAZIS JAIL JEW WHOSE WIFE IS ACCUSED AS RED

Mother Left to Support Six Children.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—"Don't take the mother away from her six small children. They need her. Arrest me instead."

Thus Abe Michaelis pleaded with police today when they came to arrest his wife on charges of distributing communistic handbills in the small village of Seddin, near Potsdam. The police imprisoned Michaelis.

Michaelis is one of the few Jews in Germany who turned farmer. He had been in business, traveling in many countries. Upon his return to Berlin he lost his job. Using every cent he could borrow, he and his wife settled outside Seddin and built a shack with their own hands. They raised vegetables for themselves and their six children, the eldest of whom is 10 years old.

Builds Up a New Business.

Twice a week Michaelis delivered home baked bread and home grown fruit to customers in Berlin. This summer he expanded his business. He leased the orchard of a woman neighbor whom dealers were boycotting because she was Jewish. In the course of years Michaelis enlarged his shack and with the help of his wife and children installed modern conveniences.

But now the house is buried in gloom and the mother is frantically searching for friends to secure legal assistance for Michaelis. Her anguish is increased by the fact that the Nazis are openly discussing the advisability of forbidding Jews to own or settle on German soil. Jews already are forbidden the right to become "hereditary peasants," a special caste created by Chancellor Hitler who introduced the right of primogeniture, to "safeguard a healthy farming class."

Jewish doctors, who with a few exceptions were ousted by the Nazis from insurance service, were also forbidden today to work for welfare organizations unless they are veterans or sons of men killed in action in the world war. The ousted Jewish doctors are so numerous in Berlin that insurances and welfare services are suddenly confronted with a shortage of Aryan physicians to take over their posts.

Asks Death For 11 Reds.

Eleven lives for one were demanded by the prosecuting attorney at Dessau today. A storm trooper was shot in Hecklingen last February. The communists were sentenced to death, charged with the killing. Today Prosecutor Froelich at Dessau demanded the death sentence for 11 communists charged with the same murder. All the accused pleaded not guilty.

Prosecutor Froelich contended that the "intention to kill a political opponent and the presence of the accused at the scene of the murder is sufficient to warrant a death sentence."

German Jew Fails to Vote, Arrested to Thwart Mob

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ENGEN, Baden, Germany, Nov. 15.—A former health insurance official named Edel, who lost his job because he is a Jew, was protectively arrested today. An infuriated crowd had besieged his home after it became known he failed to go to the polls Sunday. For the same reason Father Fillinger, a Catholic priest, was compelled to leave town under police protection.

BEG YOUR PARDON

It was incorrectly stated in yesterday's TRIBUNE that James (Iggy) Varecha shot and killed Frank Jordan on Nov. 16 last year and then kidnaped and raped Jordan's woman companion. Varecha did not molest Jordan's companion, but fled after the shooting and kidnaped and attacked the woman companion of another robbery victim.

ANOTHER NAZI PASTOR FIRED; BREACH WIDENS

Storm Rages Over Ban on Jews.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The breach in the Nazi German Christian church broadened tonight with the suspension of another influential pastor. The capital teemed with bishops, church superintendents, and preachers rallying to the support of the Rev. Martin Niemaeller and his ousted colleagues.

Semitism in the German Christian church and the advocated abandonment of the Old Testament, "with its mercantile Jewish morals," was the issue at stake. The Rev. Mr. Niemaeller and his followers are objecting to barring Jews from the church.

Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, center of the strife, had announced he would hear the protest of the Rev. Mr. Niemaeller today, but put off the appointment until tomorrow.

Present Demands to Bishop.

This gave the opposition to German Christian leaders time to formulate their demands in writing and make them public in a letter to Bishop Mueller. The letter said, among other things, that "we regard the holy writ as the sole source of revelations and the sole guide to our teaching and faith in life."

Meanwhile two German Christian leaders, the Rev. Joaquin Hossenfelder, president of the Nazi church movement, and Dr. Reinhold Krause, chief of the Berlin section of the German Christians, stoutly reaffirmed that semitism must be kept out of the German Evangelical church.

Bishop Mueller, disavowing "hotheads" who seek abolition of the crucifix as a religious symbol and elimination of the old testament, today ordered Dr. Krause suspended from church offices. It was Dr. Krause's recent speech at a Nazi massmeeting that led to a storm of protest.

Says He Was Misquoted.

Dr. Krause maintained that he had been misquoted in reports of the speech and said he never thought of demanding the removal of the crucifix from Christian churches.

"It is true," he explained, "that I reject the Old Testament as having no meaning for the Nordic race. But I never decried the use of the crucifix.

"What I actually said on that point was the following: 'That we must demand a return to the heroic Jesus whose life was an example to us and whose death is a seal upon a life of heroism and struggle. We must be careful, however, not to exaggerate Christ crucified.'"

SPAIN ASKED TO GUARD U. S. FIRMS FROM STRIKERS

MADRID, Nov. 15.—(AP)—United States Ambassador Bowers asked protection of American interests in the Catalonian border town of Palafrugell today. He acted on the complaint of the manager of an American company that the strikers were damaging company property.

The manager is R. D. McClintock and his company, the Armstrong Cork company, a subsidiary of the Armstrong company of Lancaster, Pa. It employed 1,100 men in the region.

Shortly after the ambassador's request was announced, 20 Spanish assault guards were sent as reinforcements to the Palafrugell police. The strikers' demonstrations were part of a practically nation-wide industrial strike movement which has seen many disturbances.

HITLER SETS UP A DICTATORSHIP OVER ALL ARTS

Forms "Kultur Chamber" to "Guide" Endeavors.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A Hitlerite spiritual dictatorship over every phase of German art was established today in the form of the "reich's chamber of Kultur."

Its principles were enunciated by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Nazi minister of propaganda and public nelightenment. At a ceremony attended by Chancellor Hitler, other high government officials, diplomats, and artists.

"It does not matter what means are applied," Dr. Goebbels said. "The main thing is that it succeeds 100 per cent. Art has degenerated into mere performance. Therefore, the need to clean real art from dilettantism became obvious. The laws of the arts can never be changed. They are eternal."

Abolishes Freedom of Art.

Dr. Goebbels is president of the chamber, which embraces the plastic arts, music, drama, letters, journalism, broadcasting, and film making. Membership is obligatory.

Its establishment means that freedom of art and its unhampered development are a thing of the past in Germany and that the "leadership principle" which dominates every phase of German life, will be applied also to culture. One will, that of Dr. Goebbels, will determine the trend of Germany's cultural life.

Chancellor Hitler in a speech at the Nuernberg party convention in September pointed to the "necessity" of spiritual leadership of the Nazis to complement their political leadership.

"Proceeding from the recognition that in the future all created works can be preserved only by the same forces which were previously the bearers of creation," he said, "national socialism (nazism) will bring to a dominating influence those parts of the German people which stimulated and fostered the formation of our people as a whole in the course of many centuries."

Extends Control to Dealers.

"Spiritual leadership" in the Nazi sense means the drastic elimination of all elements "subversive to state and culture." In other words a sharp line will be drawn between aryanism and semitism.

No German artist who is not a member of the chamber subdivision pertaining to his field of endeavor is permitted to exhibit or publish his works in Germany.

Membership is obligatory also for art dealers, book sellers, musical shops and radio dealers and their employés.

The chamber is empowered to close any of these shops if their owners violate provisions of the chamber law by selling the works of nonmembers. Proprietors in such instances have no right to claim indemnity from the state.

Tasks of Chamber Defined.

The tasks of the new chamber are defined as follows:

"It is the effort of the reich's kultur chamber to promote by the cooperation of all professions embraced and under the leadership of the ministry of propaganda and public enlightenment the culture responsibility for people and nation, to regulate the economic and social affairs of the cultural professions and to establish a balance between all aims of the organized groups."

Richard Strauss, the noted composer, was appointed president of the musical subdivision of the chamber.

LAUNCH EFFORT TO RESCUE DYING DISARM PARLEY

Leaders Are Asked to Return to Geneva.

GENEVA, Nov. 15.—(AP)—An urgent appeal to foreign ministers of the principal European nations to assemble in Geneva and try to salvage the disarmament discussions was issued today by executives of the world disarmament conference.

Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, followed up his recent threat to resign unless the nations changed their attitude on disarmament with the warning that the situation was grave.

Joining him in the communications were Nicholas Politis, former president of the league of nations assembly, and Dr. Edouard Benes, vice president of the conference and head of the security commission of the league.

Appeal Sent to Germany.

The notes, one of which went to Germany, which precipitated the present crisis by walking out of the conference and also out of the league of nations, asserted that it was impossible to proceed without the presence of responsible leaders. The notes declared:

"The settlement of the disarmament difficulties requires first the solution of certain political problems. Officers and reporters will be in a position to present the requested reports only when they have established contact with the heads of their delegations."

If today's appeal brings no results it was considered probable that Henderson will demand a meeting of the league council and submit his resignation as chairman.

Britain Gropes for Solution.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The British cabinet was so bothered about what can be done about disarmament that it held two meetings today to discuss the situation.

Numerous rumors flew about London, among them one that Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, who is blamed by many for having been responsible for Germany's withdrawal from Geneva, may resign. Another said Britain may adopt a program patterned after that of the United States, by which continental Europe would be left alone to solve its own problems—which would involve heavy British rearmament.

The crux of the whole situation is that the British government, which claims to have saved the disarmament conference twice before, is now confronted with the question of whether to favor France or Germany in the ultimate settlement of the controversy.

Poland and Germany Agree to Shun Resort to Force

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler and the new Polish minister, Joseph Lipski, agreed in a conference today that both governments should take up immediately direct negotiations on all questions affecting mutual relations. An official communique said also that Germany and Poland will refrain from resorting to force so the peace of Europe may be maintained.

SEARCH IN VAIN FOR MAN WORTHY OF PEACE PRIZE

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Nobel peace prize went begging this year, it was learned today, because the storting [parliament] committee empowered to make the award decided no statesman in the world had achieved anything worthy of the honor.

Many candidates were proposed, but the committee found that 1933 was lacking a deserving enterprise in the cause of peace.

Its actual negotiations and voting were secret, under the laws and by-laws of the foundation established by Alfred Bernhard Nobel.

Since no peace prize was awarded in 1932, two prizes were at the disposal of the storting's committee of five. One of these will be added to a special fund and the other will remain for disposition with next year's award.

In past years Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root, Woodrow Wilson, and Charles G. Dawes have been among those receiving the award.

BOMBING TOTAL IN 1933 LOWEST IN LAST 10 YEARS

Damage $104,900, Records of Employers Show.

With six weeks yet to be counted, there have been fewer bombings in 1933 than in any similar period for the last ten years, according to records compiled yesterday by the Employers' association of Chicago.

There have been 67 bomb explosions thus far in 1933, the figures showed, as compared with 95 bombings in all of 1932. The destructiveness per bomb also has decreased, the total damage for this year up to now being $104,900, as compared with a total of $123,600 for all of 1932.

Walter G. Walker, attorney for the Employers' association, attributes the decrease in bombings to the work of Mayor Kelly and State's Attorney Courtney in stamping out labor racketeering. In previous years, and even during the first few months of Mr. Courtney's administration of criminal law enforcement, many of the bombs exploded were attributed to labor feuds.

Five Blasts in One Day.

The biggest day of the year from the bombers' standpoint, and indeed the most destructive in the city's history, was last May 1, when five blasts were touched off almost simultaneously at five big downtown establishments—the Illinois Bell Telephone company, Willett Teaming company, Sprague-Warner company, Hibbard-Spencer-Bartlett & Co., and the Stratford building. Damage in these five explosions totaled $55,000, nearly half the total for the year.

In their investigation of the blasts the police discovered that bombers had stolen 500 pounds of dynamite from a powder magazine at Lemont, Ill. The blasts at first were attributed to radicals celebrating the Red Labor day, which falls on May 1, but this theory was later abandoned, and the bombings now stand on the books as unsolved.

Aside from the May 1 explosions, bombings of the year have usually been easily traceable to such common causes as strife in the cleaning and dyeing industry, trade rivalry, labor trouble, and beer. Two new manifestations of the year were the bombing of the Prima brewery on April 7, a day after it had sent out its first shipment of 3.2 per cent beer, and a blast at a bungalow owned by Police Lieutenant James J. Killackey.

Cause of Bombings Traced.

The Prima bombing was traced to a union dispute and the Killackey blast to the fact that the lieutenant was head of the vehicle license bureau, which regulates taxicabs. The day preceding the blast the police official had obtained warrants against 60 drivers of cut rate cabs.

In the burst of public indignation following the unexplained May 1 blasts the legislature passed a law increasing the penalty for bombings from a term of one to ten years to a term of ten years to life. The bill was sponsored by Representative Benjamin Adamowski.

FIND NEW CLEW IN 3D PRINCETON DEATH MYSTERY

Learn Towner Was Alive After Leaving Stadium.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The theory that Jay F. Towner III, of Perryman, Md., was crushed to death at Palmer stadium following the Princeton-Dartmouth game Saturday was exploded today. Police revealed Towner was seen alive and apparently uninjured after 5 o'clock on the parking grounds adjacent to the stadium by two Princeton undergraduates in charge of parking cars.

According to these witnesses, whose names are withheld, Towner was making himself a nuisance by jumping in and out of cars that still remained on the grounds. When asked who he was Towner is said to have shown an identification card with his name on it. Towner disappeared from the parking area soon thereafter.

"I am satisfied," Coroner Frank Grove said, "that Towner was alive and uninjured at 5 o'clock Saturday. He could not have had the injuries revealed by the autopsy at the time he was jumping around in the cars. They must have been received some time after he was seen by the two Princeton students."

Silent on New Theory.

Chief of County Detectives James Kirkham agreed with Grove, but neither would advance a new theory as to where or how Towner received the fatal injuries.

Voicing surprise at the reported criticisms of Mercer county's investigation into the Towner case and two other recent mysterious deaths in Princeton, Prosecutor Erwin E. Marshall defended the police authorities, saying that they are "leaving no stone unturned in their efforts to get at the bottom of the mysteries."

It was brought to Marshall's attention that criticism prevails in Princeton concerning the failure of the police to unearth some definite cause for the deaths.

Two Other Death Mysteries.

Besides the Towner case, police are attempting to solve the mystery surrounding the death of an unidentified 5 year old boy found on the Princeton dump two weeks ago, and the death of a Princeton university janitor last month.

The janitor, John M. Tighe, 69 years old, was found lying on the campus near the dormitory where he worked, and the coroner held that he had fallen from a roof in an effort to commit suicide. No better solution was offered in the case of the boy.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Nathan Kirshner, 61 years old, clerk in a hotel at 823 West Madison street, died yesterday en route to the county hospital after he had suffered a heart attack at the hotel.

ILLINOIS GIRL OF 17 IS FOUND GUILTY OF SLAYING MAIL MAN

Edwardsville, Ill., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A Circuit court jury late today found Stella Christoff, 17 year old farm girl, guilty of manslaughter in her trial for the murder of Nelson H. Voss, young rural mail carrier.

The defendant appeared unmoved at the reading of the verdict, punishable by from 1 to 14 years' imprisonment. She testified that she shot and killed the mail carrier July 13 because she feared he was going to rape her.

State's Attorney L. H. Geers made no demand for the death penalty. He asserted the slaying was actuated by a robbery motive.

Voss' body was found partially submerged in a slough southeast of Edwardsville, and not far from the young woman's home.

Suspicion was pointed at Miss Christoff with discovery of a pocket knife, identified as the property of her younger brother, near the victim's body. She later testified she had used the knife to pry a shell from a gun she and a sister were using to hunt squirrels.

On the stand the defendant said Voss halted his motor car when he observed the two girls, called her endearing names, and dragged her down a woodland path.

"He turned around to tell my sister to go home," she testified, "I shot him. I was afraid of him."

U. S. AGRICULTURE POLICY UNSOUND, SAYS EDUCATOR

Making agriculture inefficient in an effort to help the farmer solve his problems is unsound. This was the statement of Dean C. P. Blackwell of the school of agriculture of the Oklahoma A. & M. college in an address yesterday before the agriculture section of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities in convention at the Stevens hotel.

The farmer actually needs social and economic researches to help him emerge from his present condition, Dean Blackwell said. He pointed out that research has eliminated many of the hazards of production, such as the decline of soil fertility, drought and insect perils. A change toward social and economic research has become apparent and is greatly needed, he asserted.

SHERIFF UNABLE TO EXPLAIN DELAY IN SERVING WRIT

Sheriff Meyering could not explain yesterday why James Z. Gabriel, chief bailiff of the Criminal court, had delayed serving a capias for the arrest of Maurice Barnett, former jeweler.

The state Supreme court last week ordered Barnett to serve one to five years in jail for participation in a fake jewel robbery in 1929. The capias was received by Gabriel last Friday. He said that he had withheld service because State Representative John H. McSweeney [Dem., 19th] had told him to do so. The sheriff was asked yesterday whether his subordinates take orders from him or from legislators.

"They take orders from me," the sheriff insisted, "and I can't understand what happened in this case. When I learned the capias had been received by Gabriel last week I telephoned him and ordered him to serve it immediately. I was informed later that Barnett was in St. Louis."

Meyering said he would demand an explanation from Gabriel today.

Gabriel returned from Springfield last night. He had been present at the hearing before the state board of pardons, where Barnett's attorneys are seeking a complete pardon for him. The board of pardons will not announce its decision until Gov. Horner's return from Washington.

"I figured to worry along with my old coat – until Bond's Overcoat Parade came marching along"

"Now I'm set for the next two years—and I've saved $10"

Still time to get your share

The front-row feature of this event

$22

"Overcoat Parade" is no longer an apt name for this event. It's become almost a stampede! And we're not surprised. Most men still know a good thing when they see it!

We knew that a lot of men would need new overcoats this winter. And we believed that many could not consider higher prices. So we took a big gamble! Back in July, we visited America's topnotch overcoat weavers; and we hand-picked a grand lot of huskies. If prices went down, we stood to take a good licking. If prices went up, it meant good business for us—and for our customers. Well, you know what's happened to prices since July!

—and that in a nutshell is why our "Overcoat Parade" is causing so much excitement. Bolton Shetlands are today way up at "high C". Sedan Worsted-Curls (the kind that wear like iron) are in the luxury class. But just as long as our present stocks last, we're going to sell them for $22. Get yours, today or tomorrow, while the pickin's are still good.

A regiment of "Crown Meltons" $25 — A battalion of "Stonehavens" $30 — A company of "Royal Scots" $35

*Replacements at new price levels will cost $10 more

CODE VIOLATORS GIVE AAA LESSON ON MILK PRICES

Forced to Cut Rates to Live, Dairymen Say.

SCHWARZ—I've been selling milk for 8 cents a quart.

HAYS—Do you want to say anything else?

SCHWARZ—Yes. I don't see what I'm here for. I haven't got a license.

HAYS—Haven't you received a license?

HAYS—In Washington. You were duly licensed by the secretary of agriculture.

Under the law, the licensing provision of the marketing agreement applies to every dealer in the Chicago milkshed, whether he signed the agreement or not. Only 87 of some 300 dealers, handling about two-thirds of the milk in the area, signed.

Lawyer Continues Questioning.

HAYS [continuing]—Do you want me to understand that with all this agitation in Chicago you do not understand what the price schedule is? There have been stories in the newspapers on it for a long time.

SCHWARZ—How do I know whether those stories are authentic?

HAYS—If I give you a copy of the license, will you abide by it in the future?

SCHWARZ—I'll be prepared to answer when I see it. I don't know what's in the license.

HAYS—Well, aren't you prepared to answer Yes or No, anyway?

As Schwarz swung back down the courtroom aisle, several weather beaten farmers arose to shake his hand.

Some Defendants Bewildered.

Some of the defendants appeared bewildered as to what the hearing was all about. One of these was Louis Schuttner of Des Plaines, former owner of the River-Oakton Dairy Products company. He was construction engineer of the Lincoln park board for ten years. He speaks with a pronounced German accent. After he had announced that he had sold his business, Attorney Hays asked if he had sold cut rate milk and he admitted that he had.

"But why should I come down here and spend money yet," said Schuttner, "when I've been crucified already? I work hard to keep from starving, and now I'm out of business."

"I don't care to argue about that," said Hayes.

"I went into the milk business to get money to pay my taxes," explained Schuttner after he had left the stand. "Why did I quit? For one thing, the weather got too cold and hurt trade. And another, those inspectors came around to see me for this, and then they came back to see me for that, and it bothered me too much."

"Guessing What It's About."

Nelson Van Der Aa, owner of the Dolton Dairy in Dolton, shared some of Schuttner's bewilderment. Asked if he had sold cut rate milk, he replied:

"I was and still am. We've been guessing what it's all about since Sept. 1."

Lindell Lindeberg, owner of the Oak Park Milk store, 814 Harrison street, Oak Park, admitted a price violation and walked to the rear of the court room fairly sputtering with anger.

"I filed a written answer a month ago," he said. "I don't know who these fellows are or what they want. I feel that under the constitution I have a right to make a living, and that's all I'm doing, and I don't see why I should be bothered."

About 30 cases were disposed of yesterday. The hearing will be continued today and it is expected that all the Chicago cases will be disposed of by tomorrow.

MILK PRICE BOOSTED A CENT A QUART BY DEALERS IN ELGIN

An increase in the price of milk, amounting to a cent a quart for bottled milk, was put into effect yesterday by Elgin milk dealers. The Elgin prices, however, are still below those charged in Chicago under the AAA milk marketing agreement, and also provide a differential for cash and carry customers, banned by the Chicago code. The new Elgin prices follow:

	Delivered.	Cash and carry.
Milk, quart	10 cents	8 cents
Coffee cream, half pint	13 cents	11 cents
Whipping cream, half pint	20 cents	18 cents

The increase, to which all of the dealers in the city agreed, was made necessary by price increase granted to farmers producing the milk, it was said.

Referendum on Kansas Dry Law Approved by Senate

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Withholding debate until third reading of the proposal tomorrow, the Kansas senate today approved for adoption a house resolution proposing submission to a popular vote in November, 1934, of the state's 53 year old liquor prohibitory constitutional amendment. There was no record vote.

KILL $3,000,000 PROJECTS BASED ON EASY MONEY

Suburbs Refuse to Swell Tax Obligations.

A number of Chicago suburbs, it was learned yesterday, are refusing to take "easy money" from the government. A survey disclosed that more than a dozen of them, including Evanston and Oak Park, have either cancelled loan applications or have abandoned plans for loans that would have aggregated $3,000,000.

Officials of the municipalities explained the general attitude. They agreed in most cases that the improvements, which embraced sewers, drainage systems, water reservoirs and public buildings, were needed. But they argued further that this is no time to increase the local public debts and add to the tax burden of the taxpayers. The federal loans, they pointed out, would have to be paid back to the extent of 70 per cent, a requirement that meant either bond issues or special assessments with 4 per cent added for annual interest costs.

Plans to Save Interest Cost.

Typical of that attitude was President Willis McFeely of Oak Park, which has considered and decided against a loan of $350,000 for the reconstruction of the village's sewer system.

"The board and myself agreed that this was no time to increase the tax burden of the property owners of Oak Park," said President McFeely. "We figured out that the interest cost on the loan alone would be $100,000, and that we could save that sizeable sum by doing the work gradually from the revenue of our water department. We can do it in seven years by spending $50,000 annually."

Ald. Herbert Simpson, chairman of the council finance committee in Evanston who recently led a fight resulting in the cancellation of an application for $250,000 with which to build two water reservoirs, was similarly outspoken. He said, however, that a new application would be made for a loan to build one of the reservoirs at a cost of $150,000.

Citizens March on Board.

In Brookfield last Monday night members of the Brookfield Citizens' Protective association marched upon the village board at a meeting and forced it to give up plans to apply for a loan of $430,000. The group was led by John Pinner, president of the association.

The board was heckled when its members tried to argue that the money would be spent for a worth while project, the laying of water mains to the Chicago city limits to tap the city water supply. The board, however, adopted a motion to submit the matter to the people in referendum in the spring.

In several instances the local officials, in addition to the reason for economy against the loans, pointed out that such loans will not solve the employment problems in their particular localities. In Lake Bluff the village president, David T. Smithson, said the proposal of a $20,000 loan for a building was dropped because the town's unemployed are mostly clerks and office workers and not plumbers and builders.

In Highland Park consideration of a 1½ million dollar loan for reconstruction of its sewer system, parts of which were laid originally in 1869, was given up because of the cost to the taxpayers, according to City Clerk V. C. Musser. Other municipalities which decided against loans ranging from $30,000 to $60,000 were Fox Lake, Mundelein, Flossmoor, Lake Villa, Deerfield, Forest Park, River Forest, and Western Springs.

NRA GETS DOSE OF OWN MEDICINE; HELP PLAN UNION; ASK MORE PAY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—NRA today got a taste of its own medicine.

"Friday, Nov. 17, Council Room, "American Federation of Labor."

The federation, the handbills said, has chartered an NRA workers' local. The unionization move is to demand for the employés standard government classification, salary adjustment, restoration of a recent 15 per cent pay cut, "union hours, leave and more."

ICKES O. K.'S PACT FOR 8 MILLION CHICAGO WORK

Provides Sanitary District Building Cash.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Harold L. Ickes, public works administrator, signed tonight the contract between his administration and the Chicago sanitary district trustees turning over 8 million dollars of federal easy money for completion of construction already under way.

Ickes thus put the final stamp of approval on the first large allotment of easy money to Chicago. The board signed the contract in Chicago on Monday. It is estimated the 8 million dollars will give 4,500 men direct employment. The money is for water flow control works and other work ordered under a decision of the United States Supreme court.

Cash for Smaller Places.

At the same time Ickes, doling out almost 17 million dollars for 45 nonfederal projects, announced four new allotments in Illinois totaling $132,900 and other allotments in Chicagoland aggregating $394,900.

The Illinois allotments were to Elgin, Hinsdale, Roxana, and Vandalia. Money which Ickes gave the latter two cities were outright grants to cover 30 per cent of the estimated labor and materials costs.

The other Chicagoland allocations were to Kenosha, Wis., Footville, Wis., Ionia, Mich.; Madison, Wis., and the state of Indiana.

Elgin received the largest slice of easy money alloted in Illinois, $82,000 to be spent on the construction of a 150,000 gallon water reservoir and on the extension of the water system. Of the total allotment $65,000 is an outright grant, and the rest is a loan secured by 4 per cent revenue bonds.

For Playgrounds, Etc.

Hinsdale was given $44,500 for the construction of recreational facilities in Stough Park and Burns field, and of a fire house. The grant given the city amounts to $33,300. The rest of the $44,500 is a loan secured by bonds.

The grant of $1,800 to Roxana is for the building of a one story and basement addition to the Edison school. The grant to Vandalia is for labor and material costs on a 500,000 gallon reservoir and certain extensions of the water system.

HOWARD ELMORE SPEAKS TONIGHT ON CANAL SALE

Howard W. Elmore, former president and now the only Republican member of the Chicago Sanitary district board, will address the Ridge civic council tonight at the Ridge fieldhouse, 96th street, and Longwood drive, on the project for selling the main and Sag canals of the Sanitary district to the federal government to procure funds for building sewage treatment works ordered by the United States Supreme court.

Mr. Elmore, the author of a resolution which the trustees unanimously adopted for offering the government the canals, contends that the sale is the only way of getting money to build the treatment works without an added burden on the taxpayers. Fred L. Johnson, president of the Ridge council, has invited President Thomas J. Bowler and the entire body of trustees to attend the meeting.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Thousands of pile sufferers have not yet learned that quick, safe and lasting relief can be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are filled with stagnant blood, weak and flabby. To get rid of Pile misery an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and strengthen the weakened parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt after years of study found a real internal pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and after prescribing it for his patients with a most remarkable record of success, decided every Pile sufferer might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's and all good druggists invite you to try HEM-ROID tablets and guarantee money refunded if they do not end your Pile misery.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

FOR THROAT PROTECTION—FOR BETTER TASTE

1,500 STATE AND LOCAL OFFICIALS SEEK U. S. FUNDS

Illinois and Chicago Are Represented.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Fifteen hundred governors, mayors and civic officials of varying degree descended today upon the capital in enthusiastic response to President Roosevelt's new offer to free federal funds to create work on local projects.

Like "Forty niners," they swarmed into the Mayflower hotel with anxious eyes on the 400 million dollars just made available for expenditure by Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins in a new "civil works" program designed to provide jobs for four million idle this winter.

At a special session this evening, Mr. Hopkins informed the state officials of the jobs which will be allotted to each state, announcing that Illinois' quota will be 187,000 jobs, financed by easy money. Gov. Henry Horner expressed gratification at the allotment and said that he believed it would take care of most of the families which have employable wage earners and which are now on relief rolls.

Late in the afternoon—500 of them—all who could obtain tickets—proceeded to the White House where, in the East room they heard President Roosevelt ask that the use of the funds be free from political purposes.

Roosevelt Addresses Them.

"We have had a good many charges that politics were entering into the use of emergency relief funds," the President stated in a brief address. "Your national government is not trying to gain political advantage one way or another out of the need of human beings for relief. I expect the same sort of spirit on the part of every governor, of every one of the 48 states and on the part of every mayor and every county commissioner and relief agent."

Representing Illinois at the meetings today was a delegation of about twenty headed by Gov. Henry Horner and Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago. Each had a specific list of projects which he intends to lay before the proper authorities tomorrow.

Gov. Horner estimated that approximately 200,000 idle men in Illinois could be put to work within the next two weeks under the civil works program. Of these, some 100,000 would be in Chicago. Mayor Kelly advised officials that he can put 50,000 men to work in Chicago on Monday if approval of his list of projects is possible by that time.

Horner Sees Johnson Today.

Gov. Horner will call tomorrow upon National Recovery Adminstrator Hugh S. Johnson in connection with mine disorders downstate. He is also to see officials of the agricultural adjustment administration, he said, in an effort to facilitate the rebating of federal processing taxes on commodities purchased for relief purposes.

Mayor Kelly stated he intends to call upon Postmaster General James A. Farley relative to the patronage situation in Chicago. He said the name of William Power of South Chicago, a member of the state legislature will be presented as a candidate to succeed United States Marshal Laubenheimer at Chicago.

The mayor also plans to call upon Farm Administrator George N. Peek, with a new demand that the government completely investigate the milk distributing system in Chicago and to contact Public Works Administrator Harold Ickes to discuss a loan for a new fire alarm system and other projects in Chicago.

States Attorney Thomas Courtney called today upon Attorney General Homer Cummings to talk over federal and state coöperation in several pending kidnaping cases.

BAD CHECK CASE DELAYED.

Report Success

The volunteer headquarters for the annual roll call of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross opened on Nov. 11 at 333 North Michigan avenue, began getting returns yesterday from the city-wide campaign to enroll members. The women who are stationed in the banks, motion picture theaters, stores, and other public buildings are beginning to report success to headquarters.

The roll call hopes for 250,000 members. The dollar memberships enable the Chicago chapter to carry on its work, which includes service to war veterans, first aid and life saving, home hygiene and care of the sick, the Junior Red Cross, volunteer service, disaster relief, and transcribing literature into Braille for the blind.

CHICAGO PLANS FOR ELEVATED HIGHWAYS TOLD

Ickes Encourages Hopes for Federal Aid.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Secretary of Interior Ickes today heard a delegation of civic and political leaders advocate construction of an elevated highway system in Chicago. He encouraged their hopes that the government will make a grant covering 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials.

The hearing, as explained at the beginning by Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the Chicago council's traffic committee, was not a formal petition for a federal loan and grant, but in the nature of a notice to the secretary that engineering designs were being prepared preliminary to such a formal petition.

Sees Possible Snag.

The secretary asked detailed questions and received answers on the physical and financial scheme for the elevated highway system. He pointed out as a possible snag in the program that future state legislatures could not be bound to continue the gasoline tax, which is relied upon to secure a federal loan.

"I might call to your attention, Mr. Secretary," said Senator James Hamilton Lewis, "that the continuity of the Illinois gasoline tax is already pledged to retire outstanding relief bonds."

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, hastily added that this pledge on the relief bonds did not obligate all of the future revenue from the motor fuel excise, but left sufficient for the elevated highway construction in addition to a substantial amount for other road and street improvements.

Pledges Consideration.

"You can be assured of friendly consideration when this point is raised on the formal petition for a grant and loan," said Mr. Ickes.

"Can we presume in our preliminary engineering that the government is going to give us a 30 per cent grant on the cost of labor and materials?" asked Ald. Massen.

"I believe that is a reasonable presumption," the secretary replied, "although you must take notice that available funds are going rapidly. There is now less than 600 million dollars that has not been assigned to projects. We cannot earmark some of this money to hold it for your petition."

"Not that this has not been done in the past," commented Representative Fred A. Britten, Illinois Republican, who has been an aggressive critic of the administration.

Suggests Speed on Plans.

"My suggestion," said Mr. Ickes, overlooking the congressman's comment, "is that you proceed as rapidly as possible in preparing your engineering plans, that you establish a good security for a loan of 70 per cent, or better still raise the 70 per cent locally, and then take your appeal for a 30 per cent grant before the Illinois NRA advisory board."

In discussing the physical plans, Dr. Miller McClintock, head of the Harvard university traffic research bureau, who directed the survey resulting in the elevated highway proposal, told for the first time of details in the suggestion for converting the Lake street branch of the Chicago Rapid Transit lines into an automobile road.

The electric railway service, he said, would be transferred to a pair of electrified tracks to be built on the nearby parallel embankement of the Chicago and North Western railroad with an eventual consolidation of the suburban service of the steam road and the rapid transit company.

CHICAGO SEEKS $50,800,000 TO PROVIDE WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Mayor Edward J. Kelly, here attending the meeting at which President Roosevelt's new civil works program for putting 4 million men to work is being planned, tonight announced his intention of asking for $50,800,000 of federal easy money as Chicago's share in the plan. The money, which would come out of the 400 millions the President has set aside for his civil works program, would be spent by 13 city departments and would give three months of work to 85,000 unemployed men, the mayor said. The detailed list of grants which the mayor is asking follows:

Bureau of rivers and harbors	$ 663,000
Building maintenance and repair	1,237,000
Compensation	22,000
Sewers	2,502,000
Parks and recreation	4,940,000
Maps	129,000
Water	78,000
Streets [repaving and surfacing]	34,118,000
Engineering	4,564,000
Police department	844,000
Gas and electricity	298,000
Sidewalks	1,200,000
Fire department	629,000

Deputy Sheriff Badly Hurt by Fall in County Building

Deputy Sheriff Edward Meyers, 55 years old, 849 North Damen avenue, received possibly fatal injuries yesterday when he fell down a flight of stairs leading from the fourth floor to the half-floor below in the county building. He was taken to the county hospital where examination showed he had a skull fracture.

State to Receive Bids on Federal Aid Projects

Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer for the state, announced at Springfield yesterday that bids for eighteen projects to be financed through federal easy money grants would be received on Nov. 28. Two of the improvements are to be in Cook county. They are: Laying 1.01 miles of asphalt in Washington boulevard, between Cicero and Crawford avenues, and paving 2.63 miles of the George Brennan highway from 159th street to the Dixie highway.

MOVIES CODE CHANGES ASKED BY EDUCATORS

Lowell Heads Group in Plea to Roosevelt.

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—What may prove to be an explanation of the sudden holdup of the motion picture code after its acceptance by Administrator Johnson was offered here. It was revealed that the delay followed a protest to President Roosevelt by the Motion Picture Research council.

Word reached the offices of leading producers here some two weeks ago that the code had received the administrator's O. K.

All Ready Johnson Says.

Gen. Johnson himself announced just before leaving on his current speechmaking tour of the west that the document was "ready for the President's signature." No announcement of its final approval was forthcoming, however, and a few days ago a despatch from Washington said that the code had been referred back to the administrator's office "for rechecking."

Producers and other figures of the industry were considerably mystified by the turn of affairs, and it was not until today that any convincing reason was offered.

Inquiry revealed that the council, an organization of leading educators, scientists, welfare workers, etc., headed by Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, former president of Harvard university, had addressed a letter to the President on Nov. 6 strongly protesting against certain "unfair trade practices" said to be authorized by the proposed code. Remedial changes were suggested.

One of Proposed Changes.

One amendment which the council urgently stressed in its recommendations read as follows:

"It shall be an unfair trade practice for any distributor to discriminate against any applicant for the sale, license or lease of one or more motion pictures by reason of such applicant being a non-theatrical account."

The purpose of this suggested amendment, it was explained, is to permit the showing of educational or other instructive or entertaining films in classrooms, churches or Sunday school affairs, or the like where no admission is charged. As the code now reads, movies could be exhibited only in theatrical houses where an admission fee is charged.

Other proposed amendments were offered under the headings of "blind selling" and "block booking." Still another is meant to safeguard against "coercion" in the trade, an evil which the council insists is not banned by the document in its present form.

Roosevelt Considers Request.

While the council has received no direct word as to the fate of its recommendations, William H. Short, director in charge of the New York office, said today he had been informed from a source high in administrative council that the President had the matter "very much at heart." The confident hope was expressed that the council's suggestions would be incorporated in the code before it receives the presidential signature.

The research council, formed under the aegis of "The Payne Fund," of which Mrs. Chester Boulton of East Cleveland, O., is president, has been making a study of the influence of the motion picture particularly on the minds of children and the youth of the nation for the last five or six years. The survey was financed by "The Fund" founded by Mrs. Boulton [and named for her granduncle, Col. Oliver Payne, the Standard Oil man] "to make a study of the influences that react on children and youth in their leisure time."

NUDE SHOWS TO BE BARRED FROM FAIR NEXT YEAR

Nudity and questionable peep shows will be barred from the 1934 Fair. This was assured yesterday by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager.

"We believe that next year the pendulum will swing to finer things," he said, "and the Fair expects to lead the way. Just as the repeal of prohibition will do much to cut down on drinking because drinking no longer will be smart, so we believe the public is satiated with nudity."

Fair officials yesterday warned the public against the purchase of concessions and contracts without first consulting the Fair administration. No concessionaire who participated in the 1933 Fair has any contract at present and consequently can sell nothing but his building, which must be removed from the grounds. Several such sales have been made, and at least three of the sales were those of concessions which will not be permitted to reopen next year. For one such concession a price of $15,000 was paid.

FARM RADICALS HEAR NRA AND AAA DENOUNCED

Boo as Wallace's Name Is Mentioned.

Seven hundred farmers and farm organizers from forty states yesterday opened their second annual conference to discuss such things as debt cancellation, abolition of foreclosures, and extension of the holiday strikes. They met in the People's auditorium, 2457 West Chicago avenue.

It was a meeting of agriculture's extreme left wing, headed by militant farmers who consider as "insufficiently drastic" the policies of such leaders as Milo Reno, head of the National Farm Holiday association, and Walter M. Singler, director of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool association.

Wallace's Name Draws Boos.

The temper of the delegates indicated communistic leanings. Songs and catch phrases of radical tendency were loudly cheered. Everywhere in the meeting hall were placards of similar color. Some called for "unity of workers and farmers to defeat the robber classes;" others urged "cancellation of workers' and farmers' debts," and organization for mass action. Speakers called the new deal a "rotten deal," and denounced the NRA and the AAA. Mention of the name of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace drew boos.

Lem Harris, executive secretary of the Farmers' National committee for action, which is sponsoring the conference, was applauded when he condemned the "plow under" campaign of President Roosevelt, and when he declared "we must widen our program of mass action against forced sales and evictions."

Most Delegates from Midwest.

Many of the delegates were Negroes from the south. Most of them came, however, from the Dakotas, Nebraska, and Michigan. All the neighboring states were well represented. The delegates represented a dozen different organizations, among them the Trade Union Unity league, the Workers' International relief, the United Farmers league, the Farm Holiday Association of Nebraska, the Ohio Farmers league, and the United Farmers Protective Association of New Jersey.

The farmers came by truck and automobile, bringing large supplies of provisions with them. Throughout the afternoon they carried in dressed lambs, porkers, and chickens, sacks of apples, potatoes, turnips, and cabbages. They are fed in the auditorium by the International Workers' Relief and lodged in the homes of Chicago workers.

Parties' Program to Be Offered.

The conference will extend through Sunday and discussion of programs will begin today. Each political party represented in the gathering will submit a plan. The parties, according to the official program, are Republican, Democratic, Socialist, Farmer-Labor, and Communist.

John Marshall of Ohio, chairman of the executive committee and representing the Farmers' National Committee for Action, which called the conference, advocated organization and solidarity with the workers of the nation to "strike terror in the boss class which calls out the militia and strike terror in the bankers with their foreclosures."

The lusty voiced Mother Bloor of Sioux City paid a tribute to some of the dead comrades following Marshall's opening address and there followed reports of delegates on conditions in the various states.

C. & N. W. Reduces Rates for Suburban Shoppers

The Chicago & North Western railway announced yesterday a reduction in round trip shoppers tickets to Chicago from all suburban points, effective Dec. 1. Also, the railroad announced that it would give free round trip bus or street car rides with all shoppers tickets which amount to 45 cents or more, and which are sold for use after 8 a. m. According to R. Thomson, passenger traffic manager, the cut in shoppers tickets, will range for the most part between 10 and 20 per cent, independent of the free bus and street car feature.

GIVE EMPLOYES ADDED WAGES TO MEET NRA TERMS

Only One Employer Cited to Lose Blue Eagle.

Chicago employers have paid nearly $25,000 to workers who were found by the NRA compliance board to have been insufficiently compensated under the terms of the President's reemployment agreement. Other cases involving thousands of dollars in wages are still under advisement, it was announced by members of the board yesterday.

In one instance a merchandising concern refunded about $5,000 to employés who had worked longer hours than the NRA permits. Another case in the same industry, in which back wages amounting to $10,000 is involved, is still under consideration. Wages totaling $2,000 and $3,000 were returned by a number of employers.

Make Payments Willingly.

Prof. Andrew Bruce, chairman of the compliance board, said that employers made the payments willingly when they were informed that the wages they had been paying or the hours their employés had been working were in violation of the administration's recovery program.

Out of 2,103 cases heard by the board only one recommendation has been made to Washington advising that a Chicago employer's Blue Eagle be taken from him because of noncompliance. That one is in the laundry industry. There are approximately 3,000 more complaints still pending.

A typical case concerned the complaint of employés that they were not allowed to mark their own time cards. On investigation the board learned that the time records presented were signed by employés at the beginning of the week and were filled in by the employer regardless of the actual number of hours his employés worked.

Work 44 to 60 Hours Weekly.

Four girls employed by a lamp shade concern complained that they worked from 44 to 60 hours a week and were paid only 12 cents an hour. They also complained that their employer hired girls to learn the trade, paid them only their carfare, and then replaced them at the end of two weeks with new apprentices.

After a hearing, the compliance board advised the company to pay the girls a regular wage for the time they worked. The company paid them by check, but the check turned out to be no good, and the concern has been cited again.

Sworn in as NRA Counsel.

Attorney Jacob G. Grossberg was sworn in yesterday as counsel for the national recovery administration in the district of Illinois and Wisconsin. The oath was administered in the local NRA offices at 201 North Wells street. Mr. Grossberg is secretary of the Chicago Law Institute. He has been active in politics for many years and was chairman of the Cook county Progressive party from 1924 to 1928. He was also organizer and first president of both the Public Ownership League of Illinois and of the Municipal Ownership league.

ADVERTISING MAN WINS DEPRESSION CUT IN ALIMONY

Lloyd Maxwell, 179 Lake Shore drive, vice president of the Roche, Williams & Cunnyngham Advertising agency, won a "depression reduction" in his alimony payments to Mrs. Mary O'Neill Maxwell yesterday before Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy.

Mrs. Maxwell was awarded alimony of $650 a month and custody of their daughter, Marian, when she obtained a divorce in 1929. Judge La Buy said that he was taking cognizance of the depression in allowing Maxwell to reduce the payments to $350 a month for an eighteen month period. They will then return to the original level.

After his first divorce Maxwell remarried and a year ago was divorced by his second wife, Mrs. Josephine Hughes Maxwell. He was ordered to pay her $250 a month alimony, but was relieved of those payments when she remarried.

Adding up

THE FACTS FOR YOU

IT is not what your fuel costs per ton that counts but what kind of heat you get per dollar. How much fuel you use depends largely on the weather outside the house. A warm winter means low fuel bills but never proves the comparative values of two fuels.

That is why people who add up all the facts stick with Famous Reading Anthracite—the leading home fuel now selling here at the lowest fall prices in years. They keep their homes in the famous comfort zone easily, cheaply, safely and dependably by using this better Pennsylvania HARD coal.

HERE IS WHY

New freight rates and mine prices make Famous Reading Anthracite available to you at the lowest November prices in years.

BECAUSE IT IS HARD AND PURE

Reading HARD coal burns evenly over its surfaces. It does not flare up suddenly and die out quickly. It does not make soot or smoke, never deteriorates in your bin, is clean to handle and keeps your house cleaner. It is safe—no explosions to fill your house with greasy soot or, perhaps, set fire to it—no overheating that sets your house on fire. It is so thoroughly cleaned that every piece is practically pure carbon, preventing clinkers and leaving very few ashes. It is so HARD and compressed that you can put approximately twice as much heating value into your furnace at each firing than you can with other solid fuels. That means fewer furnace "fixings" each day—an easier life for you. Try a load NOW!

SHOW HOW EASY MONEY THWARTS ECONOMY PLANS

Cite Expenditures of the Agriculture Dept.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—For the bureaucrats of the department of agriculture the disbursement of public works easy money has been a life saver.

The closing session of the seventy-second congress last winter was a period of sorrow for the farm bureaucrats. With congressmen and senators bedeviled by pressure for economy, the halls of congress resounded with denunciation of pest extermination, plant disease control, helpful hint bulletins, agricultural instruction and entertainment, and other services as useless, extravagant, and racketeering activities.

As a result, congress reduced the outlays for functional activities of the department $1,719,739. The bureau chiefs were compelled to curtail services and discharge employes. Then along came the public works administration and dropped $55,913,889 in the laps of the farm bureaucrats with which to restore and expand the services previously curtailed.

Savings and New Allotments.

Bureau.	Budget savings.	Easy money allocations.
Office of the secretary and general administrative expenses	$1,001,925	$40,800
Office of the secretary, printing, binding	45,648	.....
Information service	28,000	.....
Experiment stations	52,000	4,950
Extension service	14,700	.....
Weather bureau	92,568	170,000
Bureau animal industry	75,270	1,559,240
Bureau dairy industry	20,000	178,870
Bureau plant industry	69,535	4,111,557
Forest service	27,785	40,982,000
Bureau of entomology	29,882	183,650
Biological survey	156,270	971,550
Agricultural engineering	26,603	246,938
Agricultural economics	70,133	.....
Home economics	4,724	1,200
Food and drug administration	1,530	70,745
Bureau chemistry and soils	.....	33,919
Bureau of plant quarantine	.....	2,063,670
Bureau of public roads	.....	5,000,000
Grain futures administration	4,168	.....
Totals	$1,719,739	$55,913,889

As compared with 1933, the current agricultural budget shows a decrase of $206,462,574. But 194 million dollars of this saving is accounted for by the transfer of the federal-aid roads program to PWA. The remaining economies of $12,462,574 are made up by the general 15 per cent pay cut, $10,200,000, and $12,262,574 in curtailments of functions.

Some Economies Just Bookkeeping.

The analysis reveals, however, that even in this functional curtailment roughly $542,000 is mere bookkeeping. One item of $435,000 represents the decline in income from the national forests—and therefore a corresponding reduction in the proportional royalties to the states. Another economy of $107,000 was effected by transferring certain functions in aviation-weather reporting from agriculture to commerce, to be under the aeronautics branch.

Thus, the actual curtailment of agricultural functions—over and above legislative pay cuts—reduces to $1,719,739.

The farm bureaucrats are reveling in the newly found funds. New laboratories for bug and rust research are now on the department's blueprint boards. Studies in bird and animal life are blossoming in new swamps.

Weather Bureau Expanded.

The spring economies of $92,000 in the weather bureau were achieved by general pinching-in all along the line. This involved the abandonment of a number of reports and services from secondary points, as well as the curtailment in weather research. But PWA has handed the weather bureau $170,000. New river gauges for flood warning service will require $150,000 of the allotment. Each gauge will cost about $1,000.

After saving $75,000 in its general meetings and routine the bureau of animal industry got $1,559,240 for a new laboratory of other "physical improvements."

Nor have the bugs and borers, the rashes and the rust, which forever bedevil the farmer and his congressman, been forgotten by Secretary Ickes and his public works board. The bureau of entomology, the principal bug agency in the federal establishment, suffered a budget cut of $29,882, but PWA added $153,650.

Plant Industry Allotments.

So it went with our big rash and bug agency, the bureau of plant industry. It was cut $69,535 as the department budget went through the legislative mill. But public works has come through with $4,111,557 for "physical improvements" and "erosion control nurseries."

At budget time last winter the biological survey was compelled to save $156,270 in its studies of animal life and habits, but it since has received $971,550 from PWA. The special boats for enforcement of the migratory bird treaty act will account for part of this "physical improvement."

In the bureau of plant quarantine no budget curtailment appears beyond the blanket salary cut. But PWA has made available $2,020,620 for "disease control projects" and $73,050 for "physical improvements."

"The Villain" at the Cooking School

Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, who is conducting The Chicago Tribune School of Cookery, with Frederick M. Lees in a bit of foolery at the session yesterday at Guyon's Paradise ballroom.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

THE LOWLY ONION ADDS A ZEST TO COOKING SCHOOL

Mrs. Chitwood Reveals Its Ultimate Destiny.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Long before the curtain went up on the stage kitchen at THE TRIBUNE'S annual school of cookery yesterday 5,000 noses in the Guyon's Paradise ballroom, Crawford avenue near Washington boulevard, where it is being held this week, sniffed a kitchen fragrance.

Throughout a prelude of singing and entertainment the audience continued to sniff. The odor was identified by Mary Meade, TRIBUNE cooking editor, who said, "It's onion. It's making me ravenously hungry."

It was not until Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, who conducts the cooking classes, had prepared four other dishes, however, that she revealed the ultimate destiny of the onion. It was cut and prepared, awaiting the start of her Philadelphia pepper pot.

Adds Broiled Bacon.

As she cut pieces of bacon and broiled them to a golden brown, seared the onion and diced green pepper in the bacon drippings, added them to soup stock and honeycomb tripe, added chopped potatoes and put the whole on to simmer, the smell became more and more tempting.

Mrs. Chitwood took pity on her hunger-provoked audience, however, and passed around an enormous platter of salad she prepared. Until it was gone one woman after another took a spoonful on a square of paper and proceeded to eat therefrom. Heads nodded in approval as first bites were taken. It was cabbage and peanut salad, made from chopped cabbage, peanuts, raw carrots and apples, mixed with mayonnaise, salted, and garnished with pimento strips.

It was a day for hearty, simple foods and Mrs. Chitwood tantalized her audience by dangling before their eyes platters of chop suey, escalloped squash, and other preparations calculated to make the mouth water.

Pencils Are Busy.

The west siders were busy with pencils as she mixed an egg, whole bran, flour, buttermilk, and other things, stirred them in a bowl, added bananas cut in small pieces, cinnamon and vanilla and poured the mixture into muffin tins. Later bran muffins emerged from the oven, golden brown, smelling of spice and risen according to the perfect muffinly standard.

Other dishes made before the cooking pupils included grape juice whip on toast, coffee Spanish cream and a pie with a prune mixture filling and graham cracker crust.

Phil Maxwell as master of ceremonies introduced a program of celebrities and entertainers, a part of every cooking school session.

Frank Bennett, accompanied by Cathryn Bennett at the piano, led the women in singing "Happy Days" and other songs, after which he and Mr. Maxwell sang a duet, "The Last Round-up."

Harry Reed, war veteran, received prolonged applause on singing "Mother Machree." Among the celebrities who appeared were Bob Elson, W-G-N radio announcer, and Rube Appleberry, a W-G-N entertainer.

Show Boat Cast Appears.

Scenes from "No Mother to Guide Her" were presented by ten members of the Show Boat "Dixiana" cast, while the audience hissed and booed the villain. Tony D'Orazi, cartoonist of the air, a W-G-N artist, entertained the audience in chef's costume. Children from the Eva Fitz-Gerald Studio of Dramatic Art danced.

Two members of THE TRIBUNE'S Sunday staff of writers who specialize on topics of interest to women readers, Eleanor Nangle and Edith Weigle, were introduced and made brief talks.

Another feature was the lecture-demonstration by Ernest Amiet, executive chef at the Palmer house, on how to stuff lobster and how to make "chicken à la Century of Progress."

Today John Pane-Gasser, a west side boy who made good as an opera star, will sing to the women of the west side as a headliner in the entertainment program.

Ireene Wicker, "Singing Lady" of W-G-N radio station, and Edward Smith, W-G-N staff announcer, will be other attractions.

From the College inn of the Hotel Sherman will come the comedienne-dance team of Gini, De Quincy, and Lewis. Camil Virla, executive chef of the Hotel Sherman, will give a lecture demonstration.

CONSIDER GAS PIPE LINE'S PLEA FOR INJUNCTION

Federal Judges George T. Page, James H. Wilkerson and John P. Barnes, sitting as a statutory court on utility rate cases, took under advisement yesterday the petition of the Chicago District Pipe Line company for an injunction restraining the Illinois commerce commission from enforcing a recent order to reduce wholesale natural gas rates.

The Chicago Pipe Line company sells natural gas to the Peoples Gas Light & Coke company, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and to the Western United Gas and Electric company. A reduction in the cost of gas by the Chicago Pipe Line company would mean a lower cost to the three distributing companies, whose savings should be reflected in lower consumers' bills.

This morning the commerce commission will resume its hearing requiring the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois to show cause why its electricity rates should not be reduced temporarily pending an examination of the company's financial records for the fixing of permanent lower rates. It recently was charged that the company has been earning an excessive profit.

Girl Beaten on Street by Unidentified Man Dies

Miss Ann McFarley, 23 years old, 1420 Farwell avenue, a hotel employe, died at midnight last night in the Rogers Park hospital. On Oct. 14, while walking near Clark street and Belmont avenues, an unidentified man, supposedly a thief, came up from behind and struck her in the head several times with his fist, and then fled. He made no attempt to take her purse. Miss McFarley's jaw was broken and her skull also may have been fractured, police said. She was unable to give police any clew to the identity of her assailant.

Files Suit for Divorce from Restauarnt Owner

Mrs. Fannie Cordell, 7340 Ridge avenue, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court against John A. Cordell, proprietor of a restaurant at 1516 Morse avenue and a former wholesale grocer. They were married in 1923 and she says they separated two weeks ago after he struck her. Her attorney, Otto Baer, went before Judge Walter J. LaBuy and obtained an injunction restraining Cordell and the First State Pawners association from disposing of three rings which Mrs. Cordell charges her husband pawned after she had given them to him for safekeeping.

Allerton Men Win Strike; Halt Domestic Over-Work

Allerton, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Allerton dads took another successful step in their men's suffrage march here last night in demanding equal rights with their women. They complained they were tired cooking, doing the dishes and minding baby while Ma attended to civic affairs. As a result of the rebellion the Women's Civic association, founded to work with high school students, agreed to disband and include men in a new organization to include men.

WINDOW BREAKER STEALS COAT.

A burglar threw a piece of iron pipe through the show window of the fur shop at 4505 North Kedzie avenue and escaped with a fur coat valued at $450 early yesterday.

TRADE COMMISSION BARES INSULL LOANS BY MIDLAND UNITED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Loans of the Midland United company that never were authorized by the board of directors and issuance of a $100,000 check to Samuel Insull less than three months before collapse of the Insull companies was revealed today in the federal trade commission's examination of the company's affairs.

The commission is looking into the accounts and records of the company, and its principal sub-holding company, the Midland Utilities company, of the Insull group, which control a separate group of operating companies in central and northern Indiana.

GREEK LEGION ACTS.

[Copyright, 1933, By the New York Times.]

ATHENS, Nov. 15.—The American Legion in Athens tomorrow will deliver to Premier Tsaldaris a demand that he cause Samuel Insull to be given up to the American authorities by any means at his disposal. The Legion is composed of veterans of Greek birth.

Anthony Reganakos, the public prosecutor who pleaded for Insull's return to the United States, was assaulted on the street today by an armed man, who was arrested. Reganakos was not injured.

FILE ARGUMENTS AGAINST ENDING BIG INSULL SUIT

Briefs opposing the motion to dismiss the 20 million dollar suit against Samuel Insull and other officials of the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., were filed yesterday in the United States District court by Attorneys Lewis F. Jacobson and Harold F. White. The suit was brought by 29 debenture holders and is based on the contention that the defendant officials are directly responsible for the actions of the corporation. Attorneys for the defendants sought to dismiss the suit on the grounds that the investors contracted away any claim of personal responsibility on the part of the officers, a contention resisted in the brief filed yesterday.

"My mind was on my stomach instead of on my job"

BROWN, I'VE HAD YOU IN MIND FOR THE NEW BRANCH OFFICE. BUT YOU'RE SLIPPING LATELY. WHAT'S WRONG!
TO TELL THE TRUTH, SIR, I HAVEN'T FELT SO WELL. DIGESTION OUT OF ORDER
DINNER'S READY, TOM. I HOPE YOU'RE HUNGRIER THAN I AM
I DON'T WANT ANY DINNER. NOTHING AGREES WITH ME. I'LL PROBABLY EVEN LOSE MY JOB — MR. PRICE ASKED ME TODAY WHAT WAS WRONG
TOM AND I BOTH HAVE INDIGESTION ALL THE TIME. LAST NIGHT HE DIDN'T TOUCH A THING BUT COFFEE
COFFEE? MAYBE THAT'S THE WHOLE TROUBLE. IT'S PROBABLY STALE AND GIVES HIM INDIGESTION. GIVE HIM CHASE & SANBORN'S DATED COFFEE
NEXT DAY
WHY, TOM—HOME NOW? AND LOOKING AS HAPPY AS IF YOU'D HAD A RAISE
I HAVE! MR. PRICE WANTS ME TO TAKE OVER THE BRANCH OFFICE AT ONCE.. CHASE & SANBORN'S DATED COFFEE SURE RESTORED MY PEP!
TWO WEEKS LATER

FRESH Coffee "picks you up"

COFFEE speeds you up mentally and physically. But avoid stale coffee! For, science says, it often causes headaches, indigestion, "nerves." While fresh coffee gives you healthful exhilaration.

That's why Chase & Sanborn give you Dated Coffee. An expiration date on every pound—no can allowed on your grocer's shelf after its date has expired.

The new way to face winter is not only to look out for exposure but also to build up resistance!

It never pays to brave bad weather unprotected. But neither is it wise to stop with outward precautions.

If you want to avoid the chance of uncomfortable winter ills, you must also keep your physical condition at prime. You must build up your resistance!

This is a new idea which has taken strong hold among thoughtful people. They see the mistake in letting their resistance run so low that they cannot stand the slightest exposure, in waiting until they're actually sick to begin building up.

Two factors, they have found, contribute particularly to their well-being—Vitamins A and D.

People who fail to get enough of them are likely to need an extra abundance at this season.

Squibb Adex tablets differ from any other source of resistance-building Vitamin A and sunshine Vitamin D. They are specially protected to ensure you of their benefits.

Why VITAMIN A for COUGHS?

Find out why, and you'll be HEALTHIER!

Does every cough and cold make a "wreck" out of you? Does it sap your strength . . hang on and on? Then here is new hope for you!

Just since last winter an astounding advance has been made in the treatment of coughs and colds.

The way has been found to use Primary VITAMIN A. This vitamin is Nature's "Anti-Infective" agent. It is the weapon that your body must have to fight coughs and colds.

Smith Brothers Cough Syrup now contains this Primary Vitamin A.

Now Smith Brothers Cough Syrup not only gives you fast, pleasant cough relief. In addition its Primary Vitamin A aids Nature in DRIVING the cough and cold out of the system faster. And Vitamin A raises your resistance against re-infection with new coughs and colds. Nature herself leads you back to vigorous, "million dollar" health.

Remember: this only cough syrup giving you these benefits of Vitamin A is Smith Brothers'. Today, get a bottle. New health will be yours.

MORGENTHAU JR. WILL BE ACTING TREASURY HEAD

Secretary Woodin Given Indefinite Leave.

gold standard value. Pounds sold as high as $5.42¼ before dropping back to $5.40, a gain of 1½ cents on the day. The dollar in French francs was worth only 59.6 cents.

Worry About Bonds.

The decline in government bonds, some of which sold today at $95, and of which seven issues were selling below par during the day, brought worries of great concern to the federal reserve heads and the sound money men in the treasury. Although the reserve banks have been buying bonds in an effort to sustain the price, they were brought to voice genuine fear that the market will get out of hand and prevent the carrying out of the financing program of the administration.

But the President, through all this, has maintained a serene confidence in his program and he is satisfied that the people will not lose their confidence in government securities. He regards any other course in the present emergency impossible and is highly confident, on the basis of the working of the plan thus far, that it will eventually give him the "managed dollar" that he has striven to achieve.

Morgenthau Praises Woodin.

Mr. Morgenthau, who has sat with the President in many and varied discussions these last eight months, emerged this afternoon from a session at the White House with Mr. Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinov on the question of Russian recognition. Pressed for a statement on his policies, the new acting treasury head said:

"I think Mr. Woodin has done a perfectly grand job. He came in on the 4th of March with $10,000,000 in the treasury. He is going away leaving $1,400,000,000 dollars in the treasury. I hope when he comes back from this vacation he will find it in as good a shape as when he left."

Mr. Acheson, whose retirement was still so new to him yesterday that he was confounded when reporters asked him for a statement, said he thought "the President has done enough talking for all of us." He would not discuss his opposition to the gold policy.

Black Among Dissenters.

Eugene Black, governor of the federal reserve board, asked "what it is all about?" replied:

"I'm damned if I know." He has opposed the policy of the administration. For that matter, if Mr. Roosevelt intends that the treasury should be purged of dissenters, he must dispense with Gov. Black, with Adolph Miller, his old friend and a member of the reserve board; with Budget Director Douglas, with Oliver M. W. Sprague, executive assistant to the secretary of the treasury, and a number of minor officials.

So far as is known, none of these intended to resign without a nod from the White House to that effect. But Walter J. Cummings of Chicago, chairman of the Deposit Insurance corporation and close friend of Woodin, plans to retire after Jan. 1 for private business reasons.

The new secretary won the President's admiration for his expedition and efficiency in reorganizing the tangled affairs of several former agencies of the government, which had under former President Hoover been lending easy money to the farmers.

Consulted by Roosevelt.

Performing this task as governor of the farm credit administration, Mr. Morgenthau was frequently consulted by the President also on problems relating to the general agricultural program, and to the Russian situation. In his relationship with the President Mr. Morgenthau proved himself entirely loyal, amenable to the Roosevelt ideas, and capable in carrying them out.

Where other administration advisers, such as Acheson and Douglas, would argue and disagree with the President's policies, Mr. Morgenthau would sit quietly and listen, and when a hand was required to carry out a policy the young New Yorker was most frequently delegated.

But Mr. Morgenthau had long before convinced the President of his faithfulness, for he has been friend and consultant to Mr. Roosevelt since before the latter was governor of New York.

EX-BANK AID GETS ONE TO TEN YEARS AS AN EMBEZZLER

David Weiland, 37 years old, a former assistant cashier of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Michael Feinberg to serve one to ten years for the embezzlement of $113,000 of the bank funds. Weiland, who had pleaded not guilty, withdrew the plea and admitted his guilt after the state had finished its case, in which Assistant State's Attorney Robert E. Wright produced evidence that Weiland had juggled inactive accounts in order to obtain money to speculate in the stock market.

Roosevelt and Woodin Letters

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The following correspondence between President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin, leading up to the temporary retirement of Woodin, was disclosed today at the White House. Woodin, who addressed the President with the familiar title of "Governor," asked to be relieved of his post permanently.

"New York City, Oct. 31, 1933.

"My Dear Governor:

"It is so cheering to hear your voice over the telephone that I always feel better after talking to you.

"Last August, after a severe illness, I took up with you the question as to whether on account of my health I should relinquish the position I now hold in your cabinet. You suggested that I try remaining away from my desk for a few weeks and, as far as possible, forget the treasury, in order to give my system a chance for full recovery.

Offers His Resignation.

"Unfortunately, I am not exactly built that way, and it has been impossible for me, on account of the great responsibility I feel, to refrain from being almost as active in the affairs of the department when away as when I was actually at my desk. I have tried faithfully to carry out your suggestion, but it has been a failure, as evidenced by the relapse which I have just suffered. Therefore, I feel that I must tender my resignation and seek complete rest and a change of climate. My physicians have told me that unless I do this they will not be responsible for the outcome.

"I cannot express the intense regret I feel in writing you this letter. I have been so happy in serving you, and if I only could continue would be the most grateful of all people. You will know that every policy of yours has had and still has my devoted support, and I have never doubted that you are the one man that can lead this country out of its difficulties.

"Faithfully yours,

"WILLIAM H. WOODIN."

President Roosevelt's Reply.

"The President,

"The White House,

"Washington, D. C., Nov. 2, 1933.

"Dear Will:

"I do not need to tell you that I am deeply grieved at the thought of your not continuing, but, at the same time, as I have told you, I would not for anything in the world injure your health by any insistence on my part that you carry on the impossible task of running the treasury department and simultaneously giving full obedience to the doctor's orders.

"The first consideration is your complete recuperation, and this can only be accomplished by giving up all work for the next few months. If you will do this, it is not only my hope but also my sincere belief that in a few months you will be able once more to give to the government the fine, unselfish service which all of us in Washington have so greatly appreciated. We need you back again, and the country needs you back again.

Refuses Resignation.

"For this reason, I am going to ask you to withhold your resignation; to take a complete leave of absence, and to do all you can to get full health and strength, without any responsibility or thought of work.

"I hope that you will do this for me because of my own personal affectionate regard for you and because of the very great services which you have given to our country during a critical period of our history. While you are away I can well appoint some one with government and financial experience to be acting secretary.

"Very sincerely yours,

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT,

"President."

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGED AFTER AUTO FATALITY

Cab Driver Confesses Fleeing Scene.

John Beiger, 2101 South 47th court, Cicero, a cab driver, admitted yesterday to Cicero police that he had driven away early yesterday after his cab struck and killed Albert Berney, 60 years old, of 2230 South Harvey avenue, Berwyn. Berney was struck down at 52d avenue and 22d street, Cicero.

Beiger appeared in the Cicero police station shortly after the accident and told police that he had not stopped because he was the prisoner of bandits who forced him to continue driving. Later he admitted that this story was false. Beiger was charged with manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident and was held without bail.

Four deaths yesterday raised to 957 the number of persons killed in automobile accidents since the first of the year. The victims:

Mitchell Kapolonski, 51 years old, 5723 Newport avenue. Died in the Belmont hospital of injuries incurred Friday when he was struck by an automobile at Roscoe street and Central avenue.

Louis Bludorn, 72 years old, 6408 South Peoria street. Died yesterday of injuries incurred Tuesday when he was struck by an automobile at 79th and Halsted streets.

Mrs. Frances Liebl, 52 years old, 1155 Nelson street. Died in the county hospital of injuries incurred when she was struck by an automobile at Roscoe street and Harlem avenue on Nov. 12. The driver of the automobile, Ralph Johansen, 18 years old, 5825 Kenmore avenue, was notified by police to attend the inquest today.

Howard Koelling, 25 years old, 1603 East End avenue, Chicago Heights. Died in St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, of injuries he suffered on Nov. 12 when his automobile overturned when he was forced off the Lincoln highway by another car near Frankfort in Will county.

Aged Couple, Overcome by Smoke, Recovering

Ralph Bacon, 82 years old, and his wife, Amelia, 79 years old, were recovering yesterday in the County hospital after they had been overcome by smoke in an early morning fire in their home at 1939 Austin avenue. Their injuries caused the postponement of the funeral of their daughter, Mae, 49 years old, who died Monday at the Bacon home. The elderly couple was rescued from the smoke filled home early yesterday by firemen of the fifth battalion. The fire, started by an overheated furnace, caused damage of $1,000.

LISBON CHEERS LINDBERGHS ON HOP FROM SPAIN

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 15.—(AP)—An enthusiastic reception was accorded Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh on their arrival here today after a flight from Caldelas de Tuy, Spain.

Robert G. Caldwell, American minister; Sebastiao Ramires, secretary of commerce; Portuguese air commanders, and other officials were in the large crowd that greeted the American flyers as they put their seaplane down at the naval aviation base.

During their visit of several days the Lindberghs will stay at the American legation. The colonel will be received tomorrow by President Carmona and subsequently will attend several conferences. It is thought possibilities of establishing airways bases here or in Spain will be considered at these talks.

Here's Quickest, Simplest Way to Stop a Cold

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets.
2. Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours
3. If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of water and gargle according to directions in box.

Almost Instant Relief in this Way

It is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablets dissolve so completely they leave no irritating particles. Get a box or 12 tablets or a bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

. . . 3 to 8 Pounds in 12 Days OR NO COST! With New Natural Mineral Concentrate from the Sea

Here is a new way to add 3 to 8 lbs. in 12 days or it doesn't cost you a penny. Thousands of skinny, scrawny, rundown people have tried it and are amazed at this astounding new natural way to win back health and weight. Yet these results are not unusual. Doctors know how vitally necessary are natural food minerals, often so woefully lacking in even the most carefully devised fresh vegetable diets. Unless your system gets the proper amount of these minerals, many of them needed in only the tiniest quantities, even the best food fails to nourish you, fails to build rich, red blood, firm flesh and sturdy muscles. This lack of mineralization results in the failure to digest starches and fats in the normal diet. It makes no difference whether your appetite is good or bad, your food is converted into poisonous wastes instead of firm flesh and tireless energy.

Food specialists, however, have only recently discovered a marvelous source of practically every single mineral essential to body needs. It is known as Kelp-a-Malt, a pleasant, easy to take vegetable concentrate made from a luxuriant sea plant from the Pacific Ocean combined with diastatic malt extract, in delicious, pleasant-tasting tablets. It provides in easily assimilable form iron, copper and manganese for tireless vigor and vitality, calcium and phosphorus for strong teeth and bones, sulphur for proper elimination, sodium, potassium and magnesium to correct stomach gas, acidity and indigestion.

Supplies Newer Form of Food Iodine

And most important—Kelp-a-Malt is the richest known source of the newer form of food iodine, the lack of which experts in nutrition maintain is our foremost national health problem.

Scientists know that the blood, liver and vital glands of the body contain definite, determined quantities of iodine which heretofore have been difficult to obtain. A recent report indicates that 60 million people in the United States alone fail to get enough iodine in their daily food. To overcome this deficiency, dietitians suggest that we should all eat two plates of raw oysters —heretofore regarded as the best source of iodine —each week, to overcome this appalling iodine shortage. Yet Kelp-a Malt, this newest vegetable concentrate, contains thirteen hundred times more food iodine than oysters!

Gains 7 Lbs. in 10 Days

Read what Kelpamalt users say:

"I have gained 7 pounds in 10 days since taking Kelpamalt and have a continuous appetite."—W. C. F., Mt. Vernon, N. Y. . . . "I have gained 6 pounds on my first bottle of Kelpamalt. I am very much pleased."—D. E. G., Silvertown, Ga. . . . "Kelpamalt helped my nerves and blood."—M. E., Deer River, Minn. . . . "I find one bottle of Kelpamalt has put seven pounds on me already."—F. M., Dunkirk, N. Y. . . . "I have gained 5 pounds on your Kelpamalt."—L. L. R., Hannibal, Mo.

Try Kelp-a Malt for a single week. Watch your appetite improve, firm flesh appear instead of scrawny hollows. Feel the tireless vigor and vitality it brings you. It not only improves your looks, but your health as well. It corrects sour, acid stomach Gas indigestion and all the usual distress commonly experienced by the undernourished and the underweight disappear.

STORIES DIFFER OF PROFITS FROM SINCLAIR POOL

Rockefeller and Prairie Oil Officials Heard.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Bertram Cutler, financial adviser to the Rockefellers for 32 years, denied to senate stock market investigators that he or the Rockefellers had arranged for payment of $300,000 which William S. Fitzpatrick, then president of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, received from the $12,000,000 profits reaped in the Sinclair stock purchasing pool of 1929.

He also denied that the Rockefellers had arranged payment of an additional $149,000 given to Mr. Fitzpatrick out of profits made by Blair & Co. in their purchase of $38,000,000 Prairie Oil and Gas stock from several Rockefeller charitable trusts in 1922.

Mr. Cutler revealed to the senate committee that the Rockefeller interests at present have more than 1,000,000 shares in the Consolidated Oil corporation, formerly known as the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation. Harry F. Sinclair is now the chairman and William S. Fitzpatrick vice chairman of its executive committee.

Mr. Cutler, took the stand after Mr. Fitzpatrick had testified that he had been paid the $449,000, of which $300,000 represented Sinclair Syndicate profits, and that he had been told by Mr. Cutler that the Rockefellers had arranged "to do something for me," in recognition of his long service "for the Rockefellers," with the Prairie Oil and Gas company.

Expected Ten Per Cent.

Mr. Fitzpatrick was given to understand, he said, that he would receive 10 per cent out of the profits Blair & Co. received from Prairie Oil, which they bought from the Rockefeller trusts. He received two payments, one of $130,000 and another of $19,000, but he said this amounted to only about 2¼ per cent of the profits and that he was also given a 2½ per cent participation, without risk, in profits from the Cutten pool in Sinclair Oil shares.

After Mr. Cutler challenged the testimony of Mr. Fitzpatrick, the latter, considerably aroused, resumed the stand and insisted he had told the truth.

"I do not know what Mr. Cutler testified about," he explained. "I know Mr. Cutler's memory is not good."

"How do you account for the conflicting testimony?" Senator Couzens asked.

"I can't account for it," Mr. Fitzpatrick replied. "I got into this thing here at the suggestion of Mr. Cutler, and Mr. Hunter Marsden of Blair & Co., and whatever you gentlemen see fit to believe, whatever the public may believe, if it is to my detriment it is too bad. But I am going to see that the truth is laid before you."

His First "Suspicion."

"That," exclaimed Ferdinand Pecora, "is all we want."

"I do not care who disputes it," Mr. Fitzpatrick continued. "Mr. Cutler represents perhaps the most powerful influence in this country—possibly in the world. I served them for twenty some years and I have never heard anything from the lips of anybody connected with the Rockefeller organization until I heard this testimony, that impaired my confidence in them.

"When I told Mr. Cutler that these people had been very good to me—in fact, they had carried me in this matter and made me more money than my combined salary, the years that I have been with the Prairie Oil and Gas company, he said: 'I would not say anything about that.' That is the first intimation I ever had that anybody might think there was anything wrong about my taking that money from Blair & Co."

Mr. Pecora—Who said you shouldn't say anything about it? A.—Mr. Cutler.

Q.—That was when you first told him you had received that money? A.—Yes, sir. When I told him how much it was.

Q.—When you were in Excelsior Springs two weeks ago, with Mr. Sinclair, were you surprised to know he was ignorant of the reasons why you got that $300,000 out of that syndicate's profits? A.—I naturally was.

Once Small Town Lawyer.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, who was a lawyer in a little town in Kansas when he became general counsel for the Prairie Oil and Gas company in 1908, and became its president in 1928 when it was merged with the Sinclair Consolidated, testified he represented the Rockefeller interests. In 1928, he said, some of the Rockefeller trusts "to which Mr. Rockefeller had given stocks in the Prairie Oil and Pipe were about to be wound up, and Mr. Rockefeller's office force decided it would not be proper for Mr. Rockefeller to acquire those stocks from those trusts, and they arranged to sell to Blair & Co. those stocks which amounted to about half of what we called the Rockefeller holdings in our company."

Fitzpatrick wanted to know what the Prairie stock ownership would mean for himself. He was told "in Mr. Rockefeller's office in New York," he said, that "they had arranged to do something for me."

"Who told you that?" asked Mr. Pecora.

"Mr. Cutler told me he had done it," the witness replied.

Mr. Fitzpatrick said he understood he was to be given a participation in profits Blair & Co. got out of the Prairie stock they purchased from the Rockefeller trusts.

As to Syndicate Profits.

Mr. Pecora—Did you ever receive those profits? A.—Yes, from Blair & Co. The first payment was $130,000, and the next was nineteen—something.

Q.—That was something wholly apart from profits you received from a syndicate formed to purchase 1,130,000 shares of the Sinclair company? A.—Apart from the so-called Cutten syndicate.

Q.—So the promise made to you by Mr. Cutler in 1928 in behalf of the Rockefellers was redeemed when they paid you these profits of $130,000 out of some deal involving the Prairie Oil and Gas company? A.—The $130,000 was approximately 2½ per cent of the Prairie profits made on stock purchased by Blair & Co. from the Rockefellers, instead of 10 per cent. The other participation in the Cutten syndicate was arranged without suggestion from me. Why they did it you will have to ask them.

LAWYER KRESEL IS FOUND GUILTY IN N.Y. BANK CASE

Charged with Juggling Funds of Affiliates.

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Isidor J. Kresel, investigator of vice squad policemen and ambulance chasers, was found guilty today of misapplying funds of an affiliate of the ruined Bank of United States, of which he was counsel and director.

The jury, which had listened to the confusing story of the manipulation of $2,009,518 by directors of the bank since Sept. 15, returned its verdict to Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor at 6:55 a. m., after six hours' deliberation.

The tiny, birdlike defendant listened with no evidence of emotion as the jury foreman announced the verdict which may send him to join Bernard K. Marcus, former president of the bank, and Saul Singer, former executive vice president, in Sing Sing.

Prodded several times by Justice Taylor, Assistant District Attorney James G. Wallace reluctantly consented to continuation of Mr. Kresel's $100,000 bail and the convicted man left court, to return Monday for sentence.

Faces Seven Years in Prison.

The charge against Mr. Kresel, which carries a maximum penalty of seven years in prison, is that he willfully aided Marcus and Singer in misapplying $2,009,518 of the funds of the Municipal Safe Deposit company, one of the numerous affiliates of the Bank of United States.

These funds were used to purchase twenty-five shares of the Premier Development corporation, a second affiliate, from the Bolivar corporation, a third affiliate. This was part of an intricate shuffling of funds of the bank and its affiliates from one company to another, it was charged, to make it appear that loans of $12,000,000 to affiliates had been reduced to $4,000,000 on Jan. 13, 1930.

In this bookkeeping transaction real estate equities of dubious worth, which had been carried on the bank's books at a book value of $4,800,000, were unloaded on the safe deposit affiliates for $8,000,000, it was charged.

Kresel Noted as Prosecutor.

One of the protégés of District Attorney William Travers Jerome, Kresel won a reputation which led to his appointment as counsel to the assembly in the impeachment of Gov. William Sulzer in 1913.

He went from one investigation to another.

His greatest fame was achieved as counsel to referee Samuel Seabury in the Magistrates' courts investigations. He lit the fuse which finally blew Tammany Hall out of the city hall this month; but his work was scarcely done when the Bank of United States failed.

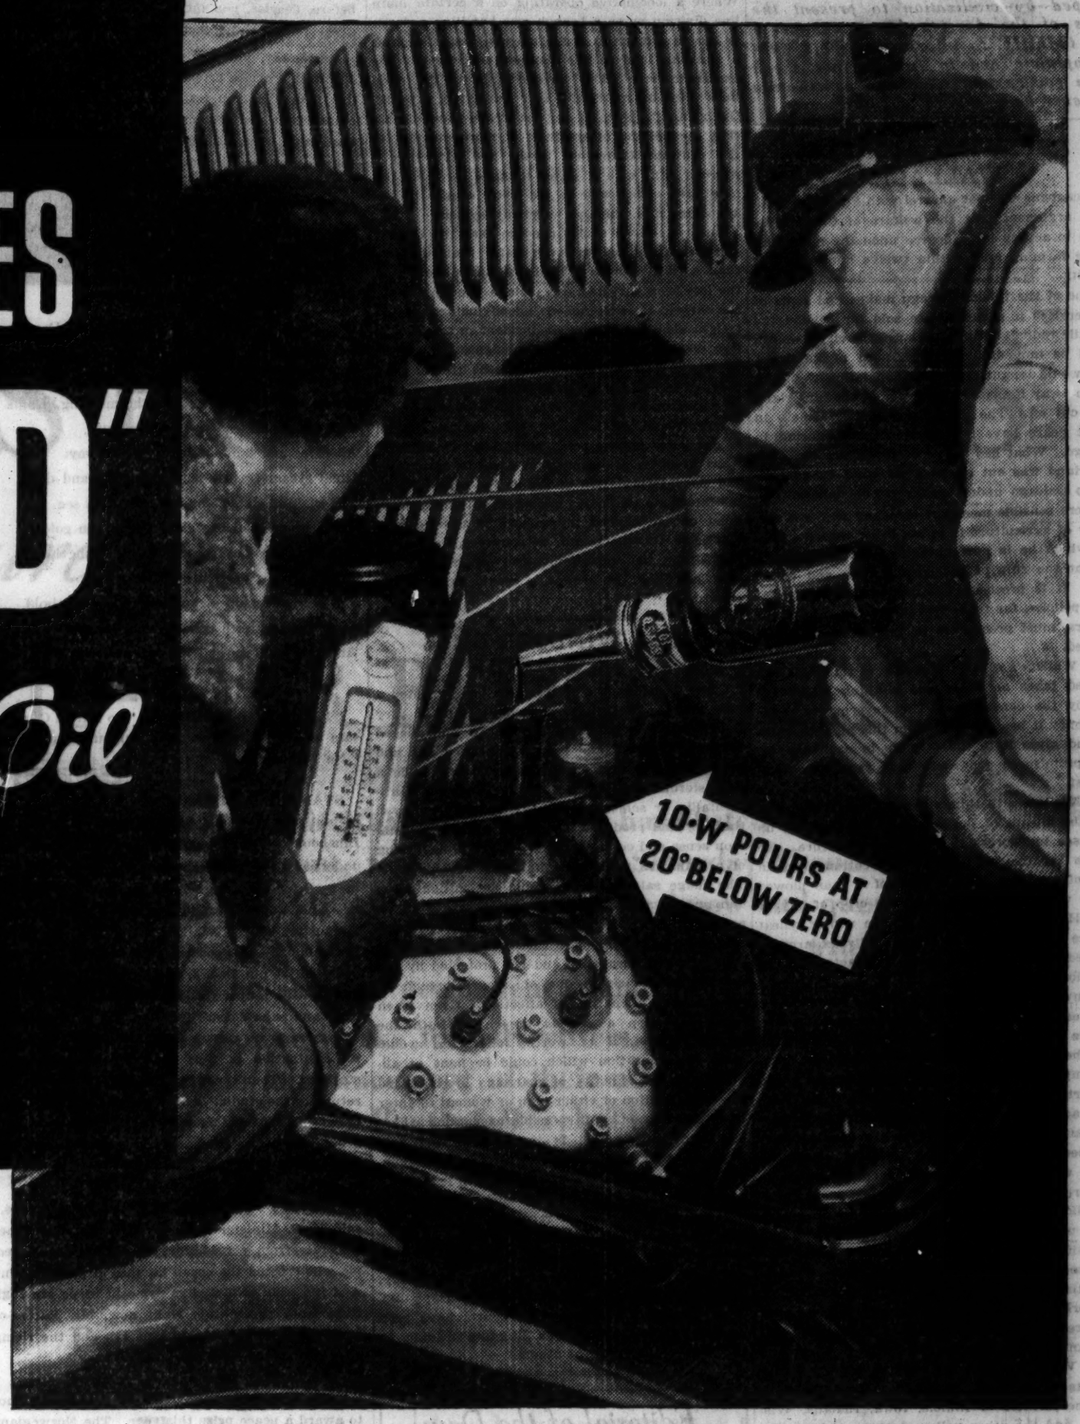
ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

TWO NEW WINTER GRADES
ISO-VIS "D"
Anti-Sludge Motor Oil
10-W and 20-W
Change Now!



They pour at sub-zero temperatures . . . Give easier starting . . . Yet could be used with perfect safety in mid-summer. Will not sludge.

Now ready at all Standard Stations

Get set for the easiest starting winter you've ever experienced. At all Standard Stations you'll now find two new winter grades of Iso-Vis "D" Anti-Sludge Motor Oil—10-W and 20-W. These new grades not only meet the latest recommendations of car manufacturers for winter motor oils, but 20-W pours at 5° below zero, and 10-W pours at 20° below zero. At those temperatures these oils let your motor turn over easily—give positive lubrication instantly. And you don't need to worry about these oils thinning out dangerously under the heat of driving. They are so little affected by high temperatures that they could be used with perfect safety in your motor on the hottest summer day, though they would give somewhat higher consumption in hot weather. Because these new oils do not sludge you will get just as quick, positive circulation of lubricant in your motor at the end of 1000 miles as when you first put them in your crankcase.

CAR MANUFACTURERS RECOMMEND NEW GRADES OF MOTOR OIL

After thorough study of common causes of difficulty in winter starting, motor car manufacturers have found, through investigations sponsored by the Society of Automotive Engineers, that most people use too heavy oil in winter, and that there is great variation in the starting characteristics of winter grade oils. They, therefore, recommend the use of two new grades for winter to be known as 10-W and 20-W, both of which are to have very definite viscosity specifications for starting at low temperatures.

YOU NEEDN'T WAIT
DRAIN—REFILL NOW

Don't get caught with heavy summer oil in your crankcase. Drain and refill now with the new winter grade Iso-Vis "D". You'll be safe if the weather turns cold—you'll get perfect lubrication even if the temperature rises.

PLUS FEDERAL TAX . . . . . 1¢ PER QUART
TOTAL . . . . . 26¢ PER QUART

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A REPLY TO SECRETARY WALLACE.

Chicagoans will not quarrel with Secretary Wallace's argument that the welfare of Chicago depends to a very large degree upon the prosperity of the farming area within twelve hours' ride of the city.

Some of the things Chicago makes and some of the services it performs are sold far beyond the 500 mile radius, but by and large the city's wealth would be immensely reduced, most of its industries would languish, and its population would be driven away if the buying power of the hinterland were cut off. The difficulties of the farmers in recent years have been reflected in suffering in Chicago. What has happened to Vienna since her hinterland was cut off suggests what would happen to Chicago under similar circumstances.

Where sensible men part company with the secretary of agriculture is in his belief that the policies which he is now pursuing are calculated to prevent the ruin of the corn, cotton, and wheat belts. It is precisely because of the belief that these policies, far from preventing the ruin of the farmers, must precipitate it, that Chicagoans are alarmed.

Mr. Wallace's scheme amounts to this: He has imposed taxes on foods and clothing which are paid by the consumers. The government takes the money it has collected from this gigantic sales tax and gives it to the farmers in exchange for their promise to grow less next year than they did last.

Mr. Wallace still thinks this scheme is going to raise the income of the farmers without piling up surpluses to depress the markets in future. He ignores the fact that this year's cotton crop, in spite of the fact that a third of it was plowed under, was about as large as the crop of a year ago. He ignores the fact that the winter wheat acreage sown this fall is substantially as large as last year's acreage despite his contracts for crop reduction.

Meanwhile the higher prices which Mr. Wallace has created must result in lessened consumption. That is what higher prices always do, assuming, as is the fact in this instance, that there has been no comparable increase in purchasing power on the part of prospective buyers. Even if Mr. Wallace's acreage reduction schemes worked, the accumulation of unconsumed farm products might be expected to increase as a result of his higher prices; without the expected reduction in acreage the surplus may grow to staggering proportions, as it did when Mr. Hoover essayed to fix prices. In the presence of such surpluses prices must fall.

To the farmers of the Mississippi valley the Wallace plan is particularly menacing. By and large the farm land in the valley is the best in the world and by and large the men who till that land are the best farmers in the world. The nation cannot get along without farms and farmers. If Mr. Wallace had done no more than let nature take its course there is every reason to think that the farmers of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, and the other valley states would now be working their way through to prosperity. The less productive lands in other areas would have been forced out of production or put to noncompetitive uses, as has happened before in our history.

What Mr. Wallace has done is to deprive our valley farmers of their natural advantage. His schemes have served to keep the marginal farms in less favored regions in cultivation. His associates in the government have made matters still worse by financing reclamation schemes to bring in still more farm lands to compete with the Mississippi valley. At the same time the NRA has forced higher costs upon manufacturers and merchants, with the result that our farmers have to pay higher prices for the things they buy.

Mr. Wallace shakes with indignation and his voice quivers with rage when he talks about the shortsightedness of Chicagoans who have disagreed with him. A good deal less emotion and a little more thought on his part would be welcomed by every one in the Mississippi valley, farmers and city dwellers alike.

POLITICS AND CRIME.

The chief bailiff of the Criminal court, James Gabriel, has withheld since last Friday service of a capias for the arrest of Maurice Barnett, who was ordered to prison last week by the Supreme court. Barnett was sentenced 32 months ago, and is said to be preparing to seek a pardon, although he has not yet served a day of his sentence of 5 years' imprisonment. The chief bailiff says that he withheld service at the request of State Representative John R. McSweeney [Democrat, 11th district]. He explains that Representative McSweeney told him the governor's secretary had said that service should be postponed pending the hearing by the parole board. Mr. Arthur O'Brien, the governor's secretary, denies that he had given such instructions or that he had any official contact with the matter. Representative McSweeney admits that he telephoned the chief bailiff to communicate the order or request of "the governor's secretary."

Whatever the responsibility for this delay, or rather the responsibilities, the proceedings carry on a little longer the very successful delay of justice of which Barnett has been the beneficiary for nearly three years. What is presented to the public is a typical example of the interrelation of politics and crime, the widespread web which enmeshes justice in this and most other jurisdictions, urban and rural. This web can be broken by the public if it will take the trouble to remember at the polls officials and politicians who operate it. Until it is broken justice will be tardy and ineffectual.

FOR SENSIBLE RAILROAD RATES.

Some years ago an attorney for one of the Canadian transcontinental railways, opposing an application for a general reduction in freight rates applying between the east and the prairie provinces, introduced traffic and accounting witnesses before the rate tribunal who essayed to prove that the railway actually lost money on every pound of wheat that it handled. The rates then in force were clearly shown to yield revenues actually below out of pocket costs. Within two years the president of the same railway was able to submit an annual report to his board of directors showing one of the most successful periods of its history. Cause—a bumper crop of wheat in the northwest.

To the lay mind this situation presents an anomaly. If a large manufacturer of a given commodity is producing at a loss, the natural conclusion will be that the more he produces the more he will lose. But the railway superintendent, producing transportation, knows the answer. Where a locomotive operating on a certain main line division or on a branch was handling a dozen or two cars of grain in the normal year it secured a capacity load in the bumper crop year. The excess tonnage added tremendously to the revenues without materially increasing the expense. Operating statistics of our coal roads show clearly that the volume of traffic is of more moment to the railways than rate levels, and also that a railroad can, with a given tonnage, produce ton mile costs comparable to the levels sought by the advocates of an inland waterway system.

Our regulatory bodies concede that the carload shipper is entitled to lower rates than the less than carload shipper. The reason assigned—that the less than carload rates include handling, while the carload rates do not—is unconvincing, because freight shed handling is an incident in transportation and of no value to the consignee, who could as readily call at the car as at the freight shed door. The real reason is wholesale transportation, so why stop at carloads when the economy of the trainload is so well known? Steel, lumber, and all of our great staples could be handled by the railways at lower transportation costs in trainloads, and the interpretation of the act as construed by the interstate commerce commission, that railways must not go beyond the carload in dealing with wholesale transportation, is merely fostering demands for the improvement of waterways that can, after all, serve but a small part of our country.

MISS WINDSOR GETS A NEW TRIAL.

Claire Windsor, the actress, has been granted a new trial by the judge in whose court a jury found a $75,000 judgment for a wife who alleged that her husband had been taken from her and her family life destroyed. The evidence made a preposterous case of it, but conventional sentimentality or something equally unworthy swayed the jury and produced a verdict injurious to common sense and common decency. The philandering of a man was made a capital asset for his wife. The judge said the court could not mitigate the damages because no one knew what was a standard of values in such injuries, but could recognize an injustice and send the case to another trial.

Marriage is cheapened and not protected by the damage suits arising out of alleged breach of promise and alienation of affection. Even when there has been a serious breach of faith the injured person, if of worthy character, would spurn compensation which could be none at all. So far as the sanctity of marriage is concerned the disinclination of either man or woman to enter into the contract, with possible exceptions where legitimacy of a child is involved, is the best evidence that the vows should not be taken. Whatever the hurt in a breach of faith it is likely to be less than the hurt of a luckless marriage. Persons of proper mind recognize this and the damage suit racket would be the most offensive thing in the world to them.

The law can compel a man to support his family. Often enough that is used to outrageous results, as in alimony. The American courts have been victimized by unscrupulous litigants trading in the errors and follies of others.

Editorial of the Day

MODERN HIGHWAY DESIGNATION.

[Peoria Transcript.]

Renumbering of Illinois highways so that motorists may know their approximate locations at every main cross road is proposed by the Chicago Association of Commerce. The plan is so simple that it is strange nobody has advocated it before.

All north and south highways would be given odd number designations and east and west highways even numbers. Route No. 1 would be the present route No. 1 along the Indiana border. Route No. 3 would be the present route No. 49, and so on across the state to the Mississippi river. Route No. 2 would be the first state highway along the Wisconsin border. Route No. 4 would probably be the present route 5. The even numbering would extend down to the Ohio river.

Diagonal highways would be designated as odd or even, depending upon their general direction. Thus, a road running northwest, but in general more northerly than westerly, would be given an odd number.

This plan is highly feasible for Illinois. Most major highways in this state have been completed or are definitely located. Road numbers given at this time would be retained for many years. The present numbering of roads is haphazard and without definite system. As the roads were completed they were numbered.

Changing all road signs in the state might entail a considerable expense. Most of the road markers are being changed at present, however, in the state's efforts to standardize road signs and to put in reflector signs where necessary. Thus the expense of renumbering the highways could be held to a minimum if the work were done now. . . . . .

The plan is worthy of the consideration of motorists, the state highway department, and the legislature.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

HELPFUL HINTS FOR THE NEW HOSTESS.

The prohibition plague, which is rapidly abating, has left several annoying little after-effects which the skillful hostess must circumvent by tact and decisiveness. It must be confessed that people generally have developed a liking for the only things readily accessible through the bootlegger—gin and hooch—and your guests at first will resent your efforts to train them to drink fine imported wines. When you serve Château Yquem, no matter how good it is, the fashionable young things at your table will take a sip and then say: "Hey, what's the idea giving me vinegar? Gimme the gin." Then in sweet, calm tones you explain that Château Yquem is the finest Sauterne in the world, and that Sauterne is considered by experts as the most delectable of all wine. "Never heard of it," the young will cry, pounding on the table. "Who's got a hip flask? Gin! Gin! Come on with the gin!"

This is the moment for the hostess to take the situation firmly in hand. "Listen, you poor illiterates!" she must say gently but firmly, "you are in great luck to have a chance to lap up some real, genuine Château Yquem, imported from France and setting me back nine bucks a bottle. Get that? Now, you either drink it or getthell outten here. What about it?" Of course, in time a liking for wine will return, and after a few years Americans may again develop the discriminating taste for the various kinds which they lost during the dry era. But it will take years, and, as I said before, dearies, you must, in the meantime, show great patience and tact.

Remember, you are fighting for principle—the restoration of the proper taste and appreciation of fine wines. If you feel now and then during the dinner that you just can't drink another drop of that damn wine, slip out quietly, murmuring something about the telephone or that you've got to see if the children are covered up, and take a hooter or two from the old hip flask. But don't let your guests suspect anything. Hold them to wine. They won't like it, but it'll do 'em good.

HOUSE OF DREAMS.

Now let us build, my dear, our House of Dreams,
Far from the crowd, far from the city's blare;
Where mighty forests breathe untainted air,
Where smoke can never dim the morning gleams.
This road shall lead to sweet Serenity,
All cares and burdens lightly cast away.
Great sycamores will shield by night and day;
The sun and stars alone our lives shall see.
There peace shall be: amid the garden gold
Our hearts shall learn of beauty's loving lore;
In daisy fields we shall again explore
The storied realms of youth, and blithely bold
Shall venture forth beneath a larger sky
And talk of faith and heaven, and feel God nigh!

STAND BY, PLEASE, for station announcements! Many people have written in saying the Linebook of 1933 must, it just must (they always underscore the must, thus, must) be brought out in time for them to send it to England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales, to say nothing of Zanzibar, Hindustan, or the Watling Island for Christmas presents. Be of good courage, mates! The Linebook will be out Dec. 8, and if you order promptly and tie it up properly and put the necessary stamps on it and papa doesn't forget to put it in the mail box there is no reason why it shouldn't arrive at its destination in time to go in the Christmas stocking. Thank you very much. We will now return to the studio. And if you have a bad cough or you need a new overcoat, or if you are looking around for a nice elephant or a kangaroo for a pet, then listen! . . . . . .

"NINETY-FIVE PER CENT of all Americans," said U. S. Minister Earle to Austria, "are either fugitives from persecution or descendants of people who crossed the ocean because of persecution." And it's true! Ninety-five per cent of us are fugitives from persecution right now, Mr. Earle—of course referring to the income tax and the rising cost of ham and eggs.

THE NORWAY COMMITTEE has decided not to award a peace prize this year. The Norwegians probably figure out that it would be their most embarrassing moment if they gave a silver butter dish or a lovely red plush album for a peace prize and then a half dozen countries in Europe commenced shooting all over the place. Oh, my dear, ee-mag-een my feelings! Honest, there we gave a peace prize and right afterwards a ten inch shell sailed right through the window, announcing that war had begun. You could have knocked us down with a feather. Embarrassing! Oh, darling, you don't know the half of it!"

"IT (LAKE MICHIGAN) may still exist, blue and stretching far out to the horizon, when some traveler from New York shall, in the midst of an endless pile of ashes, take his stand on a broken pylon of the Boul Mich bridge to sketch the ruins of what was once a mighty city."—Mr. Macaulay's famous essay as it would be if Secretary Wallace wrote it.

Smile, St. Peter, when she cries,
"Hello, sucker, where's my halo?"

Call the gayest angel band,
And, St. Peter, good St. Peter—

CHARACTER TRAINING OF CHILDREN.

"THERE is imperative need of nation-wide measures of character training." This quotation is taken from the thirteenth edition of Dr. G. Hardy Clark's "Care and Training of Children."

Dr. Clark has always emphasized training of children, placing it on a par with care. He has done so persistently, throughout this new century era when care has been so greatly emphasized, with splendid results, while training has been so minimized and with such dire effects.

He advocates beginning the training of the baby almost from birth and continuing until maturity, the methods changing with the age of the child. That many others have been at least receptive to the idea is proved by the fact that his small book has gone through thirteen editions, and without the backing of strong organizations or official positions.

"In view of the fact that in the United States approximately four and a half million children under 5 years of age are suffering from behavior problems, and three and a half million more will later develop such problems, it is imperative that measures preventive of this frightful waste be put into operation in a systematic and thorough going manner," says Dr. Clark.

The schools are not doing their part in the character training of children. There is not even satisfactory evidence that holding children in school in order to keep them off the streets promotes character training and prevents crime. Dr. Clark says that in a certain city in 1931 there were 7,700 boys between 10 and 18 years of age in the public schools. Of these 1,231 committed crimes of sufficient gravity to put them under the charge of the juvenile delinquency officer. Of the crimes, 458 were felonious in character.

Dr. Clark's method begins with training in care of personal needs. This type of training is begun in early babyhood. The second step is training in care of the family. This is begun within the first three years of life, and should be very well developed by 6 years of age. The third step is training in social relations. This should be well begun in the home, but the need and opportunities for this type of training are greater after age 6 than before.

A method of scoring character training is given by Dr. Clark. It can be used in either the home or the school, or both. One of the most difficult attitudes that a child needs to learn is his obligations to others. Society is now borne down by a rather general notion that is expressed by the words, "Society owes me a living." There is a rather general notion that the mass, for some reason or other, is under obligations to support the individual, even though the individual does nothing for the group and even attempts to harm it.

In "The Revolt of the Masses" this notion is accused of being responsible for one of the chief dangers with which civilization is confronted. The foundations for this notion are laid in lack of character training in the home and school.

ALCOHOL AND ANESTHETIC.

M. E. W. writes: What effect upon an alcoholic does a general anesthetic have which is not evident to an abstainer, other conditions being equal?

REPLY.

It is generally accepted that heavy drinkers do not get along well under general anesthesia. One explanation is that they are more subject to anesthesia acidosis. Another is that they have damaged livers which are subject to further harm from the drug used as an anesthetic.

From Across the Sea

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland.—Finnish drys were poor losers when the Finnish prohibition law was repealed, according to Pastor Kaarle Aro, chief of the temperance department of the government ministry of social affairs.

During fifteen years of prohibition 500 temperance boards had been organized throughout the country, each having from three to ten members. The boards were maintained by public subscription and all their workers were volunteers. When the law was repealed most of them disbanded and the members retired from active work, saying the wets should take it over and continue. The result has been that temperance work has ceased for the time being, and the pastor is now trying to persuade the "soreheads" to take up their work where they left off.

Pastor Aro also said he is working on a statistical report showing the results of the new law legalizing the sale of alcoholic drinks in Finland.

"The general trend indicated by the statistics I have collected is a very bad one," he said. "One significant fact I uncovered is that the sale of smuggled alcohol has increased more in the cities than in the country. With the government selling alcohol in eighty towns from its monopoly stores it should be the other way around.

"The first big mistake we made when we repealed the prohibition law was that the authorities acted upon the assumption that when the government legalized the sale of drinks smuggling would cease automatically. They laid up seven coast guard vessels and discharged 27 men. Exactly the opposite should have been done. The smugglers were frightened and thought their day had come. When they found out that their business was still profitable Finland entered a fresh deluge of smuggled spirits.

"Because of the bad mistakes we made in liquidating prohibition a reaction is setting in and some circles are again talking about trying to pass a new prohibition law. This is the worst thing that could be done. If the government does not know what it wants how can it hold the respect of the people?

"The results of the prohibition law in Finland showed that the country was not ripe for this step. I favored repeal of the law as a national necessity. It was impossible to enforce it. We must now concentrate our efforts on temperance work among the youth of today. They will make the laws of tomorrow. We must teach them not to make laws which are impossible to enforce."

LICENSING THE PRESS.

Bethesda, Md., Nov. 12.—When Gen. Johnson says that "the licensing section of the statute [NRA] must be read with the free press clause of the constitution" and thinks that "together they clearly preclude the idea of any intent of congress to create any right in the NRA to license the press," he forgets that the press is as subject to abuses as any other enterprise, and that in their effect on public opinion such abuses lead to most serious repercussions in our democracy. Even more, however, does he forget, and perhaps not inadvertently, the pleadings of administration attorneys before the District of Columbia Supreme court, that in this "emergency" matters have taken on a "public interest" that warrants violation, not merely of the freedom of the press, but of the even more basic constitutional guarantee of property rights. The court, at the behest of the administration's own attorneys, read the bill of rights out of the constitution, yet now the general is undertaking to read it back in, for the press, so that he may escape such bitter opposition from a group that has a chance of being heard outside the courtroom in the gentle game of politics. So he draws a red herring across the trail of his "dead cats and hobgoblins" by saying that "a few powerful men" desire "the benefits of the act but none of its burdens"—without adding that that is just about what they are getting. He thus conceals the fact that the pleas against licensing upon which the court actually relied were made by the forgotten man—the little fellow who was being squeezed out as a "chiseler" by the large interests that are really dominant in the "fair" codes of the New Deal.

ALDEN A. POTTER.

WHISKY ADVERTISEMENTS.

Oswego, Ill., Nov. 8.—At our first regular meeting following the publication of your decision to refuse liquor advertisements I was authorized by the Oswego Woman's club to express our appreciation of your decision.

I also express the appreciation of the other groups I represent as chairman of law observance. FRANCE DRANIE,

YOU GET THE IDEA.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Insofar as your insistence that our government sign a guaranty to you in the matter of the press is, to my way of thinking, inimical to true interest of the Press as Press, and, also, insofar I am unable to have one myself, I thought to tell you so will be all right. You, as a very, very rich, unable to imagine a sense of the reason in a very, very poor, may have justification to wish I hadn't do it, but, you, as a reasonable being having plenty of information that the same way as the gold is found inside of the dirt good sense may be found in the head of the poor, you will let it go at that.

The President's signing on publishers and editors dotted lines, that the government under his administration is going to respect the freedom of the press, is contrary to the nature of the law of its freedom, because, freedom of the press being subject matter of inalienable right of man, or, as Europeans call it, law of nature, is not subject to no agreement. You can no more legislate it than the kind of baby you would like to have you could.

Your claim that you do not want the freedom from constitution and law is, the way, I think it, not an honor to the freedom of the press, if a press is a court of public opinion, and not editor and publishers manipulation, the press is higher than even Supreme court.

STEVE BOSICH.

PROSECUTING RELIEF CHEATERS.

South Chicago, Nov. 12.—At last the relief authorities are on the right track in prosecuting relief cheaters, and I doff the hat to Judge Alfred O. Erickson for his courage and determination in sentencing a woman, mother of children, to serve 30 days.

As a grocer I have been disgusted with the relief system. Customers invariably prevail upon the grocer to substitute beer for the grocery order. At night they are found, many of them, about the taverns with a sandwich in one hand and a stein in the other, and, as I observed only last night, singing the old popular lyric: "What's the use of worryin'?" I know of one family on relief where three members of the family are working.

Now that there is no more lethargy and shamming, I shall proceed to Judge Erickson's court and lodge complaints.

JAMES MORGENTHAU.

HOME WORK.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—I attended two sessions of your very marvelous cooking school and appreciate very much your efforts to enlighten the modern housewife in the present day culinary arts.

Imagine my embarrassment upon arriving home after listening attentively to all the instructions and wishing to surprise my husband with a meal, the like of which he had never had before and after searching diligently all through the house to find I had failed to procure the name of the can opener the lecturer had used. MRS. H. O. HODGES.

THE SELF-TOOTED HORN.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Your editorial, "Chicago," in issue of Nov. 11, and "The Exposition of 1933," in issue of the 12th, suggest Proverbs 27:2: "Let another man praise thee, and not thine own mouth; a stranger, and not thine own lips." MARGARET THOMPSON.

PROPERTY SETTLEMENT.

Maywood, Ill., Nov. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been married ten years and worked five and one-half years, during which time I made as much money as my husband. We put our money together and invested it. When we were married I had $2,500 and he had $1,000. This has been pooled with the rest of our investments. Now we are about to get a divorce and want to settle money matters out of court. 1. What is the wife's share? 2. Who pays for the divorce? 3. Who is entitled to furniture and car? M. H.

1. If you wish to settle out of court the decision must be made by you yourselves. If you submit the question to the judge the decision would be largely within his discretion, depending on the equities of the parties. If blame for the separation tends to be equally shared, then it seems probable that the property will be awarded in proportion to the respective contributions.

2. Ordinarily the court orders the husband to pay.

3. See 1.

Presumably you will employ an attorney for divorce proceedings, and if so, he will be in a better position to answer your other questions than we are.

GENERAL ELECTRIC'S NEW 10-STAR REFRIGERATOR

THE GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY

authorizes us to quote them as follows:

"General Electric has always believed in the Post. As the principal channel of our national publicity, it has produced splendid results.

"But last March we had a new revelation of its power. We ran a double color page which appeared right at the time of the bank moratorium, and, except for a page in the Ladies' Home Journal, it was the only national or local announcement of the new G.E. 10-Star Refrigerator.

"Despite the gloom of the depression, thousands of people all over the nation went to the stores to see our new refrigerator. Wires came from dealers demanding rush shipments. Trade opened up everywhere. Naturally, we formed a new appreciation of the power of The Saturday Evening Post!"

TUGBOAT Annie, that soft-hearted, hard-fisted character of the waterfront, was born in The Saturday Evening Post on July 31, 1931. All America came to know and quote and follow her. For the Post possesses the power to win for its characters an army of permanent friends.

This power works for advertisers, too. General Electric ran a single announcement of their new refrigerator in The Saturday Evening Post of March 11—when all banks in America were closed. And from all over the country, at the low point of the depression, came letters, phone calls, wires from dealers, "Get 10-star refrigerators to us QUICK!"

Buyers await your product when you announce it in the Post, the friends of Tugboat Annie, of Mr. Tutt, of Charlie Chan, of all the characters the Post brings to life.

The Post creates national characters that become known, liked and remembered, just as the Post creates national CHARACTER for products that become known, preferred and purchased!

Out in front!

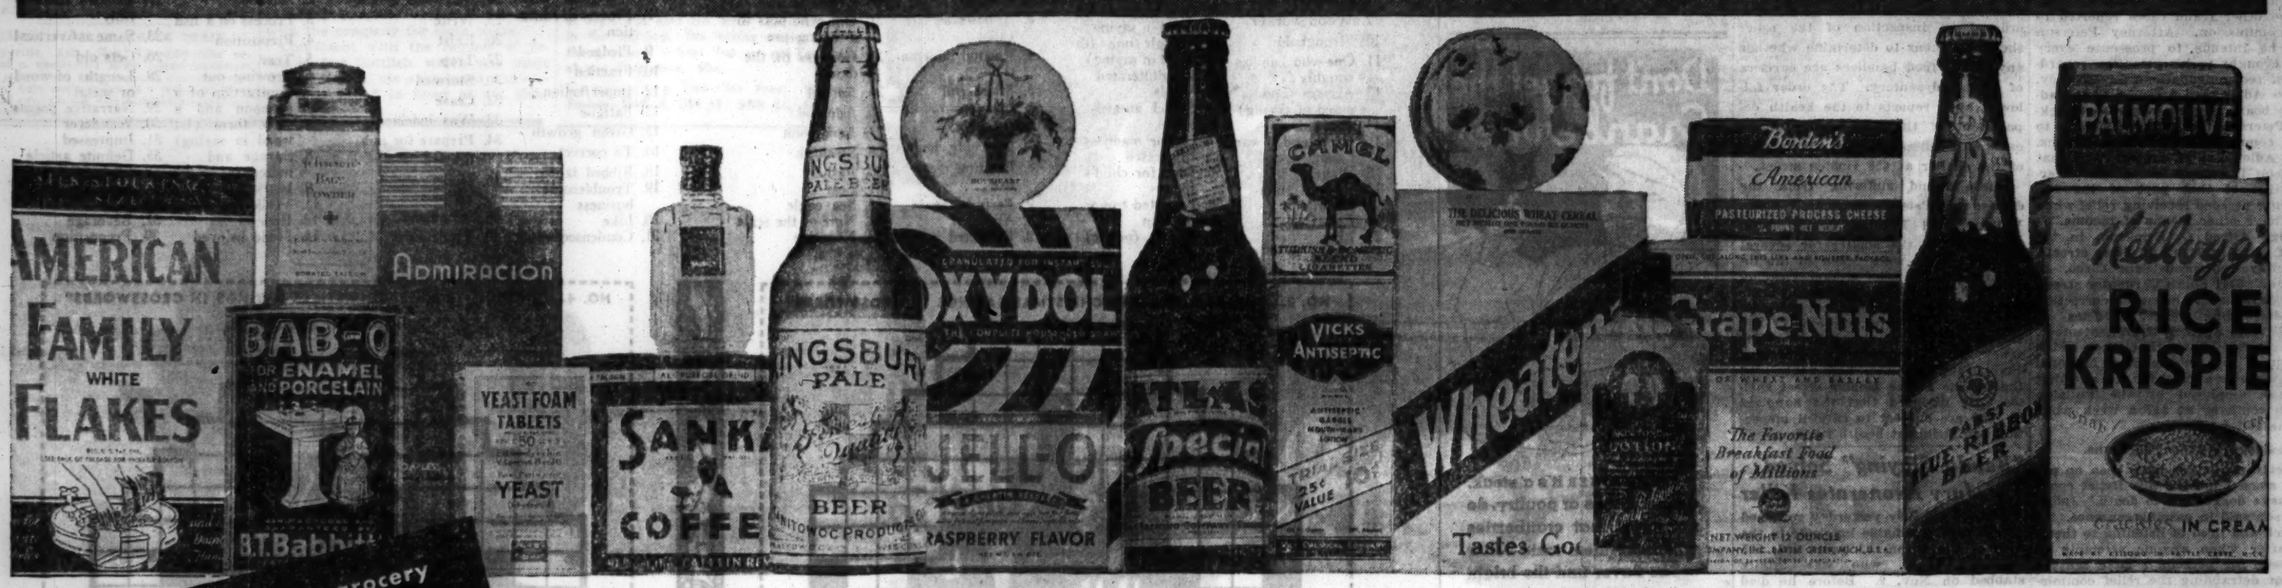
THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE



Go into any drug or grocery store in Chicago . . . check up on sales . . . and you will find these packaged goods out in front.

YARDLEY, Hills Bros., Canada Dry, Lifebuoy, Pond's, Jell-O, Rinso, Bab-O, Ovaltine—these and the other brands shown above enjoy wide acceptance and sale in this market.

And identified with the selling program of each product is one common factor—advertising in the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

Some of these products . . . within the past year or so . . . have elbowed their way up into the ranks of best sellers. In the face of business depression and the keenest competitive selling, they entered this market and won front counter position.

Others have been household necessities for years. They still are. No matter where else the advertisers may have cut . . . they have continued to use the Sunday Tribune.

These successful advertisers came into the Chicago market and bought the biggest circulation available in it. They drove hard for sales through the newspaper that reaches the most prospects—the able-to-buy, responsive market for nationally advertised products.

They bought the Sunday Tribune because through it they reach more women than they can reach through any other Chicago newspaper. The Sunday Tribune reaches every member of the family . . . when all are present and have ample time to discuss family purchases.

These advertisers pay more per line in the Sunday Tribune because it pays out more per dollar spent. They spend more in it—for black-and-white, color, roto, and comics—because they get more back.

The full story of the potentials of the Sunday Tribune is one which every manufacturer concerned about sales should have. Ask a Tribune representative for it. Write, wire or phone.

VOTES TO CURB PROSECUTION OF RELIEF FRAUDS

Welfare Advisory Board to Withhold Information.

The advisory board of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, which is composed of executives of private charities organizations, adopted a program yesterday in opposition to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission's campaign of prosecution against relief cheaters.

The advisory board, which met in the county board rooms in the county building, voted to withhold all information upon which the prosecution of relief frauds are based until "an agreement in writing" has been signed by relief commission officials to accept the recommendations of a subcommittee of the advisory board on what cases shall be prosecuted.

Legal Counsel for Cheaters.

Joel D. Hunter, chairman of the advisory board and director of the United Charities, disclosed that he has been developing a plan in secret to provide all relief cheaters with legal counsel, and to provide the defense with the same information that is furnished the relief commission for the prosecution. This plan was indorsed in principle by the advisory board.

The recommendations on prosecutions that relief commission officials are requested to accept before additional information on frauds is turned over to them are to be drafted by the central committee on relief frauds, of which Miss Lillian H. Adler, Hunter's assistant, is chairman. Of the 110 reports on fraud cases submitted to the relief commission in the last month by Miss Adler's committee only seven contained recommendations for prosecution and three were submitted without recommendations. In the remaining 100 fraud cases it was recommended that steps be taken to get back the money fraudulently obtained and to continue relief as needed.

Convicts 21 Cheaters.

In spite of these recommendations, Attorney James A. Peterson, who is prosecuting relief frauds for the commission, has convicted 21 persons of fraud out of 28 cases brought to trial. Warrants have been issued in most of the other fraud cases reported to the commission. Attorney Peterson said he intends to prosecute every case brought to his attention regardless of recommendations for leniency.

Miss Adler read a report at the advisory board meeting yesterday attacking Peterson for acting contrary to the committee's recommendations. Miss Adler's chief protest was that Peterson insists on a "literal interpretation of that part of the law covering persons receiving relief when they have other means of income."

Judge Alfred O. Erickson, in the Relief court at 11th and State streets, yesterday sentenced Sam Circo, 35 years old, 6341 South Carpenter street, to 30 days in the house of correction for defrauding relief agencies of $514.73 from April, 1932, to September, 1933. It was shown that Circo had a deposit of $500 in the First National bank when he applied for aid, and that he was employed by the Pullman Couch company at $17 a week while on the relief rolls.

Judge Warns Politicians.

"Petty politicians have been on my heels since I opened this Relief court and have dogged me to death," Judge Erickson said in passing sentence. "I am sick and tired of listening to them. Hereafter when anyone attempts to intercede for persons I have sent to jail for defrauding the relief commission, I will double their sentence."

Mrs. Bertha Delin, assistant to Attorney Peterson, prosecuted the Circo case. She said that social workers had told her they will not be allowed to appear in court as witnesses for the prosecution in the future, but that a representative will be available in each district to aid the prosecution from the point of view of the "social problems" of the family being prosecuted, and not to help prove the fraud.

Allied Charities Campaign to Benefit 101 Agencies

A total of 101 private welfare organizations are cooperating in the campaign, which started on Monday, to raise $4,000,000 for the community fund for Allied Chicago Charities. The sums raised will be used to supplement the budgets of these agencies, which have been curtailed by a falling off in donations.

HUNT SOURCES OF DYSENTERY IN RELIEF KITCHENS

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, yesterday ordered an inspection of the relief shelter kitchens to determine whether any of the food handlers are carriers of amebic dysentery. The order followed upon reports to the health department of the discovery of three cases of the disease among the inmates of the shelter at 659 Hobbie street.

These found suffering from the disease were Peter Bannerman, William Wilham, and Holland Conrad, who have lived at the shelter for several months. They were taken to the infirmary at the relief shelter clearing house at 308 South Green street. Their condition was reported as favorable.

Allen R. Carpenter, director of the shelter division of the Illinois emergency relief commission, expressed doubt that the men had contracted the disease at the Hobbie street shelter. He declared that the handlers of food are subject to careful inspection and stringent health rules.

"Bandit Slaying" Solved; Jury Exonerates Killer

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the case of Ole Olson, 32 years old, 525 Hartland court, who was fatally stabbed on Nov. 9. Before he died Olson had said that he was stabbed by a Negro bandit. Yesterday, however, John W. Davis, 1823 West Austin avenue, testified that he stabbed Olson with a pocket knife, in self defense, when Olson attacked him. He found Olson attempting to crank one of his trucks, parked in a lot at 1825 West Grand avenue. Davis was exonerated after his story was corroborated by John Ahern, 20 years old, 1635 Ferdinand street, a companion of Olson.

JUST FOLLOW THESE RULES:

1. Each day for 36 consecutive days (excepting Sundays) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a Crossword Puzzle containing certain missing words of a Christmas saying. The incompleted saying will be printed below the puzzle. You are invited to solve the puzzles and find the missing words of the sayings.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in cash awards to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved, complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. You do not necessarily have to solve each of the puzzles correctly to win. The awards will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do not send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 36. Then send them to "Christmas Sayings," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 36 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Elaborateness is not necessary.

6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. Based upon, first, accuracy in solving the puzzles and filling in the missing words of the Christmas Sayings; second, neatness of entry. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

PUNCTURED TIRES DON'T STOP NEW RAIL CAR IN TEST

Wheels Tried Out Under Shotgun Fire.

Speeding along the tracks of the Chicago and North Western railroad at 50 miles an hour yesterday, the pneumatic tires of a new rail car being tested by several companies were subjected to shotgun fire. Two tires of the vehicle were punctured by the shots.

The passengers in the car felt only a faint thud as the tires were punctured. The vehicle speeded on despite the fact that two tires were "flat."

Tested West of Evanston.

The test was conducted on the Chicago and North Western tracks west of Evanston. Representatives of several railroads and of the companies engaged in the manufacture of the vehicle were present. These included representatives of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, Chrysler Motors company and Fairbanks Morse & Co. pany.

The vehicle is to be known as the Fairbanks-Morse railmobile. It was built upon a Dodge truck 1½ ton chassis for trial purposes. It will carry 31 passengers.

It was explained that the pneumatic tires on the vehicles contain an aluminum alloy ring. If the tire is deflated, a drop of only ⅝ of an inch is caused until the car rests upon the inner wheel. The steel flange which keeps the wheel on the track also drops with the deflation of a tire and there is no possibility of a wheel leaving the track, according to engineers.

May Be Bus Competitor.

The new car may be a competitor of the bus lines which go to small towns, according to railroad officials. It will afford more frequent service to small towns on branch railroad lines, and fleets of the new cars can bring produce to the main lines more quickly.

The car can make a speed of 90 miles an hour, it was said, but such speed is not considered necessary with the railmobile because it is to be used mainly for freight and passenger service on branch lines. A governor restricting speed to 50 miles an hour is to be placed on most of the vehicles under the new system, it was learned.

ALLEGE PLAN TO WRECK TRAIN.

Booneville, Ark., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The engine of a westbound Rock Island passenger train overturned, and several coaches were derailed here early today as a result of what railroad officials say was a deliberate attempt to wreck the train.

HARTZELL GETS TEN YEARS, $2,000 FINE IN $1,000,000 CASE

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Oscar M. Hartzell, who lived for 13 years in London at the expense of about 50,000 American "investors" who put $700,000 to $1,300,000 into his Drake estate enterprise, was sentenced today to 10 years in federal penitentiary for using the mails to defraud.

Federal Judge George C. Scott pronounced the sentence and imposed $2,000 fine immediately after a jury found him guilty on 12 separate counts.

Carlos Goltz, defense attorney, said the case would be appealed and during that time Hartzell will be out on bond.

Throughout the trial, defense attorneys had contended that Hartzell had spent the 13 years in London prosecuting a claim to a share in the estate of Sir Francis Drake, who died in 1595, after being an admiral of Queen Elizabeth and first Briton to circle the world.

The government contended the estate had been settled in past centuries by Drake's will and codicil and that Hartzell had used the mails fraudulently in furthering his collections from donors to the estate fund.

The romantic thought of sharing wealth won from the Spaniards in bloody sea battles of Queen Elizabeth's day spurred the thousands of contributors.

Hartzell represented that when Drake died a minor son by a third marriage, unrecorded in history, was defrauded of his share in the estate, largely through the rapacity of Queen Elizabeth and her advisers. That money, with interest to the present time, Hartzell asserted, represents all of Britain's foreign investments and belongs legally to an heir of the unrecorded son. That assumed heir had assigned his claim to Hartzell, the promoter said.

POLICE SEARCH FOR INSURANCE OFFICE MANAGER

Police began search yesterday for Hugo Gottlieb, 47 years old, 2505 Cortez street, branch manager of the American Bankers' Insurance company office at 43 East Ohio street, who disappeared a week ago.

According to a report given to lieut. George De Mar of the East Chicago avenue station by H. C. Welch and E. E. Johnson, auditors from the company's home office at Jacksonville, Fla., Gottlieb's records indicate a discrepancy of $900. Gottlieb has been with the company for eight years.

Coincident with the request of police to find Gottlieb, which was made by his family, his abandoned automobile was found in front of 441 East Ontario street.

SLAYER REFUSES TO HELP STATE CONVICT PARTNER

Driver of Bandit Car Is on Trial for Murder.

Edward Weiss, 29 years old, went on trial yesterday before a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Harry B. Miller on a charge of murder. The victim, Theodore Zutaut, 55 years old, was beaten and shot to death in his home at 12017 Lowe avenue on March 16 by two men who were hunting for $4,000 which Zutaut was reported to have hidden in a cigar box.

Weiss, alleged driver of the bandit car, has made no denial of the charge. His attorney, James M. Burke, told the jurors in his opening statement that Weiss was an innocent victim of the actual slayers. He said that his client had been hired to take the two men to the Zutaunt home on the pretext they were going to collect a debt.

The state contends that Weiss knew of the planned robbery and reported his car stolen to escape arrest shortly after the crime. The alleged slayers of Zutaut are Arthur Barty, who has a long police record, and Mike Lepas, alias Mike the Greek.

Lepas has never been apprehended, but Barty, arrested shortly after the crime, has confessed and implicated Weiss. Barty was given a separate trial by the state in the hope that he would testify against Weiss. But despits an offer of leniency Barty has refused to do so.

Barty continued in his refusal yesterday, declaring that he "has a story that will fool the jury." Barty made his refusal in the face of urgings by his attorney, Assistant Public Defender Joseph Powers, to accept the state's offer to assure him a lesser sentence than death in the electric chair.

Meanwhile the state has gone forward with the trial in the hope that Barty will change his attitude before today, when his appearance on the witness stand would be necessary to successful prosecution of Weiss.

Four sentences yesterday brought to 574 the number of criminals ordered to prison since the opening of the war on crime. Those sentenced were:

BENJAMIN KREMEN, 25 years old, sentenced by Judge Joseph B. David to one to 20 years for stealing the automobile of Edward Stone, 3146 West 63rd street, on Aug. 15.

J. CONKLIN, 40 years old, sentenced by Judge Walter P. Steffen to one to 10 years for passing a bogus check for $25 on John Cally, 725 West Madison street, on Sept. 25.

EDWARD KEMP, 23 years old, sentenced by Judge David to one year for the statutory rape of a 15 year old girl.

CARY COLLIN, 35 years old, sentenced by Judge David to one to five years for the attempted burglary of an A. & P. store at 4655 West Lake street on Aug. 31.

$15,000,000 PUT AS TOP EXPENSE OF CAR MERGER

$10,000,000 Under Cost of Insull Plan.

Substantially less than $15,000,000 in cash will be needed to effect the merger of the street car and elevated companies into one unified system to be known as the Chicago Local Transportation company, according to Attorney Walter L. Fisher, who is conducting negotiations for a settlement of the transit problem.

In the original reorganization plan made by Samuel Insull four years ago, it was estimated that $25,000,000 would be needed to meet the expense of forming the merger.

Mr. Fisher pointed out yesterday that the merger will be effected primarily through a financial reorganization, including the exchange of the merged company's securities for the bonds and stocks of the surface and elevated lines.

Tells of Initial Costs.

In order to complete this transaction Mr. Fisher said $15,000,000 would be more than ample to clean up the receivership and foreclosure proceedings and to pay off any dissenting first mortgage bondholders.

Attorney Fisher said he thought the traction properties would be bid in at a small price at court sale, which would cut down the cash requirements.

The attorney also said that at least ninety per cent of the first mortgage bonds of the street car company properties have been deposited with the bondholders' committees preliminary to merger, so the cash outlay for security purchases will be small.

Must Pay Managers.

One important expense item which has to be considered is for the services of Halsey, Stuart & Co. As reorganization managers this La Salle street investment firm worked out the original Insull merger scheme, for which they have not yet been paid. Attorney Fisher yesterday declared that the firm in effect is still the reorganization manager, and that it has been assisting in the new settlement now being worked out.

Attorney Fisher was appointed some weeks ago by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to iron out the differences between the conflicting financial interests and draft a reorganization plan for the consolidation of the two systems.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

BANKER GRANTED STAY FROM 2 YEAR PRISON SENTENCE

M. F. Dunlap of Jacksonville, Ill., former treasurer of the Democratic national committee, yesterday was granted a writ of supersedeas against a two year sentence and $5,000 fine following his conviction of misapplying funds of the Ayers National bank of Jacksonville, of which he was an officer. The writ was granted by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which fixed bond at $10,000.

DRIVES AUTO INTO TRAIN.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Richard R. Mayne, 22, was killed early today when he drove his automobile into the side of a freight train.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Saves Big Dollars! No Cooking!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs only one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Why keep on worrying about pyorrhea, bleeding gums and other mouth threats? Put Squibb's Dental Cream on guard at The Danger Line... and laugh once more!*

FEAR and worry won't stop the very real dangers of gum-infection and tooth-decay that threaten neglected mouths. But when your teeth and gums have the care of a good dentist and the all-round protection of Squibb's Dental Cream, you can rest assured that they're as safe as it's possible to make them.

Squibb's cleans the teeth thoroughly and polishes them safely, with absolute freedom from grit. It helps to prevent bleeding of the gums by safe cleansing—not by the use of astringents or other irritants. It combats the germ acids that cause tooth-decay. And its use is true economy.

There's a satisfaction in using Squibb's Dental Cream that goes beyond its clean, refreshing taste—even beyond the delight of seeing your teeth sparkling and your gums healthy. It's the satisfaction of knowing your dentifrice is safe and reliable because it bears a name that, for 75 years, has been a symbol of scientific dependability.

Don't be a victim of needless fear! See your dentist. Have him make a check-up of your mouth. Then guard The Danger Line by brushing your teeth at least twice a day with Squibb's Dental Cream.

* The Danger Line is the area where the thin edge of the gum encircles each tooth, forming tiny ledges, difficult to reach by brushing. Here food particles collect and bacteria multiply, generating acids. Not one, but all your teeth are endangered by unhealthy gums. When you use Squibb's Dental Cream, you force into the sheltered areas countless antacid particles which combat the germ acids and protect the gums. Copyright 1933 E. R. Squibb & Sons

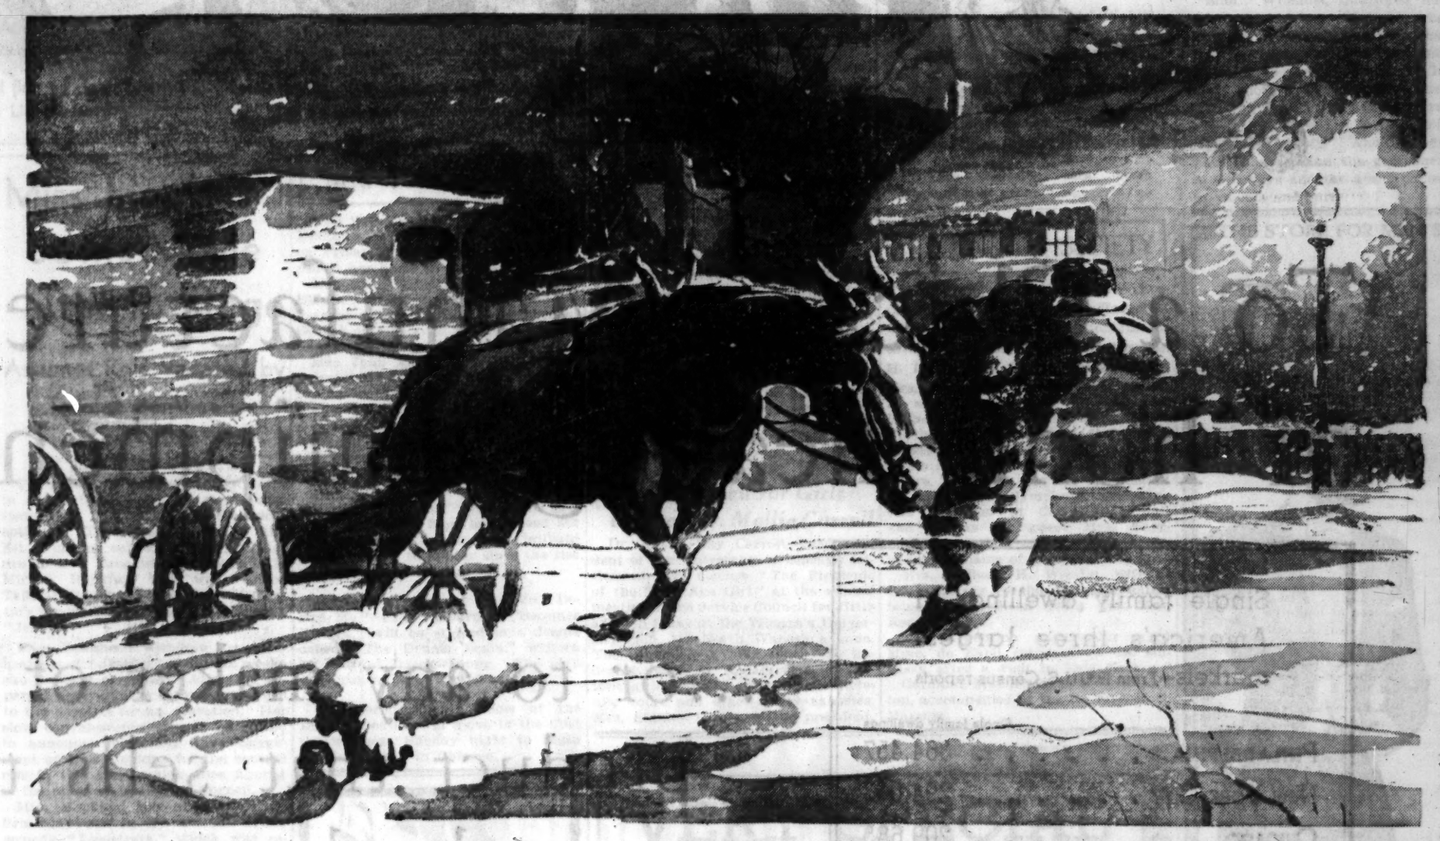
. . . What greater SERVICE than this



On February 9, 1933, the temperature dropped to 20 degrees below zero, the coldest Chicago had seen in 34 years. On February 7, 1933, this area suffered a blizzard which had been unequaled in a decade. In some drifts the snow was many feet high.

YET ON EVERY ONE OF THESE DAYS, AND ON EVERY OTHER DAY DURING THE YEAR, YOUR MILK WAS DELIVERED WITHOUT FAIL.

Rain or snow, heat or cold, it makes no difference to your milk dealer. He renders you service every day—never failing.

Naturally, a service of this type is soon taken for granted. People expect to find their milk at their door each day. Your milk dealer wants them to feel that way, and has spent nearly half a century building up his service to this point.

In the theater, the idea that nothing must stop the daily routine is a tradition. Among milk dealers it is a law!

Stop—and for a second let yourself realize what the bottle of milk delivered to your home has required in human effort.

	Single family dwellings
PHILADELPHIA	364,457
NEW YORK CITY	294,037
CHICAGO	209,685

....or to any maker of a product that sells to the home

Single family dwellings is your guide to potential sales! Individual homes -- each with its own heating plant to keep up-to-date.

Philadelphia is your first market. There are more single family dwellings here than in any other city in America. Seventy thousand more than in all of New York City! One hundred fifty-five thousand more than Chicago!

Any product that sells to the individual home has a greater potential sale in Philadelphia:

Washing machines, wringers, soaps and powders for each private home laundry; kitchen cabinets, new-model gas ranges, mechanical refrigerators, and all of the other modern equipment which only a full-sized home kitchen can accommodate.

More rooms to furnish than the average apartment. More rugs and linoleum; more furniture and draperies; more windows to curtain and screen. Porches to equip; lawns and gardens to keep up; home garages which reduce the cost of owning a car.

In Philadelphia nearly everybody reads The Bulletin. For a generation it has been edited for, and accepted by, the Philadelphia home.

Its 505,987 daily circulation (October average) is two and one-half times that of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, more than any Sunday newspaper, more than all morning newspapers combined.

Its circulation is all net paid, all the result of home preference--uninfluenced by premium, prize or contest, or by sensationalism in the handling of news.

Start your recovery drive in Philadelphia. Other national advertisers have discovered the importance and economy of this great home market. During the past twenty-one months they have bought more space in The Philadelphia Bulletin than in any other newspaper in America that is published only six days a week. Music Visitor Will Be Guest at Reception

Mrs. Osborne to Entertain for Paul Kerby.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ONE of the most distinguished affairs of a busy week-end which a great part of society will spend in entertaining and meeting visiting celebrities will be the rather small reception that Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne will give on Saturday night for Paul Kerby, the Briton whom Austria has sent to this country as a good will envoy, armed with a baton instead of a portfolio.

Mr. Kerby is to conduct the Chicago Symphony orchestra that night, and after the concert will go up to the State parkway residence of Mrs. Osborne's parents, the Henry Bartholomays, for the reception. Mr. Kerby has achieved outstanding success in Salzburg and in Vienna, where he has conducted the Philharmonic orchestra and the Opera.

Some of those who will meet Mr. Kerby at Mrs. Osborne's party are the Frederick Stocks and their son-in-law and daughter, the Alfred Wolfes, Dr. and Mrs. Otto L. Schmidt, Michael Girten, the Austrian consul, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, the Charles B. Goodspeeds, Mme. Sert of Paris, the Carl Brickens, the Thomas L. Marshalls, the William M. Spencers, the Thomas I. Underwoods, the Chalkley J. Hambletons, Victor Elting, and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham and her guest, Miss Sally Kirby of South Bend. Mrs. Upham often has Miss Marion Kirby, the singer, as her guest, so when Mrs. Osborne told us yesterday that Miss Kirby was coming with Mrs. Upham we jumped to the conclusion that it was Miss Marion who was here, but we were wrong, for it is a relative of hers.

Mme. Sert Sponsor for Famed Lifar.

Mme. Sert, who is a great sponsor of Serge Lifar, the Russian dancer, is arriving Saturday to be here for Lifar's performance at the Auditorium Monday night in the second of the concerts for the benefit of the Girl Scouts. Mme. Sert, who is a noted patroness of the arts, especially music, in Paris, is a brilliant pianist herself and a charming person, so her presence here will be of great interest to "the pretty world."

Lifar arrives tomorrow and, although every one here who has met him in Paris wants to entertain for him, the only party that has been planned definitely is a cocktail party that the Thomas Fishers will give Sunday from 5 to 7 o'clock at the Arts club. Mrs. Fisher, you know, is Ruth Page, the dancer, so it is peculiarly fitting that she and her husband should introduce the great Russian dancer to local society.

Lifar, who has been the ballet master of the Paris Grand Opera since 1930 and also its leading dancer, is recognized throughout Europe as the foremost classic dancer and the leading creative artist of the dance in this generation, so this, his first visit to Chicago—in fact, this is his first American tour—eagerly is anticipated by the dance loving public.

Mme. Elizabeth de Gramont, another well known Parisienne, who arrived last night to give several lectures both in English and in French here, is to be entertained at dinner next Tuesday night by Mrs. Welsh Dickinson, who later will take her guests to the opera intime at the Palmer house.

Mme. de Gramont is talking before Le Cercle Français that afternoon about "Chateaux et la vie de chateaux en France."

Reservations for the luncheon Le Cercle and the Alliance Française will give on Saturday at the Casino for Mme. de Gramont must be made not later than tonight with the secretary of the Alliance.

Kinsolving Musicals Will Open Today.

The Kinsolving Musical Mornings which for eighteen years have been among society's favorite musical events will start this winter's series this morning with Mario Chamlee, tenor, and Mischa Levitski, pianist, as the artists.

As usual, the musicals will be in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone and will start at 11 o'clock. Miss Gwethalyn Jones, Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. William O. Green, Miss Clara Gilbert, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener, Mrs. Arthur D. Bevan, Mrs. H. G. B. Alexander, Mrs. John W. Gary and Mrs. John F. L. Curtis are a few of those who attend the musicals every season.

The season's debutantes will have luncheon—and play bridge is they desire(at the Woman's Athletic club today as the guests of Mrs. Frederick K. Lawrence and Mrs. Ralph Hubbart, who are entertaining for their daughters, Barbara Lawrence and Charlotte Hubbart.

Thirty of this and last year's buds were entertained at luncheon yesterday by one of last season's debutantes, Miss Helen Johnson, who was giving the party for Miss Roslyn Paine, who made her debut early in the autumn. Both are Evanston girls.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

That idea we had that there couldn't be anything new in the musical revue line was wrong. "Footlight Parade" has three novelties:

1. It presents James Cagney as a song and dance man.
2. It has an original plot twist.
3. It displays one of the most unusual, intricate, stunning eye and ear hypnotizing ensembles that has been screened. I refer to the "waterfall" number.

So, you see, we don't know everything yet, you and I.

Warner Brothers are making a name for themselves in the musical production line. Theirs—"42d Street," "Gold Diggers of 1933," and now "Footlight Parade." Huzzas and handshakes!

One's so long been accustomed to Mr. Cagney as a bold, bad bozo and no respecter of persons that one forgets the fact he was a hoofer on the "legitimate" before the films snapped him up. In this picture he proves that he can throw a mean leg and that his voice raised in song is nothing to jeer at.

As Chester Kent he is the brains, push and director of the Gould company, an organization to which he has sold the idea of turning out chain stage prologues à la the Fanchon and Marco units. A rival company mysteriously tunes in on original Gould stuff and the tale's suspense has to do with Kent's getting up and selling overnight, as it were, three units to an exhibitor who controls a goodly chain of theaters—without the other company's being tipped off.

He accomplishes this feat in a Mussolini-ic manner never before heard of [that I recall of] in the annals of show production, and his exploit makes snappy seeing.

Assisting Mr. Cagney with their usual pep, personality, and ability are Joan Blondell, who plays his secretary; Ruby Keeler, who graduates from an office position to that of leading lady; Dick Powell, who resigns from his doubtful standing as Mrs. Gould's gigolo to become the leading man, and others of note. Frank McHugh, as the stage manager who cries "IT CAN'T BE DONE!"—and then does it—never once laughs his famous laugh. I missed that!

"Footlight Parade" is gorgeously accoutered. Close runners-up on the knockout waterfall number are the "Honeymoon Hotel" and "Shanghai Lil" ensembles.

All of these were directed by Busby Berkely—and long may he wave!

See you tomorrow!

Miss Hopkins Joins Movie Trek to Stage

Assumes Role Vacated by Tallulah Bankhead.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The return of motion picture stars to the legitimate stage is a striking feature of this season's theatrical activities. The latest addition to the list of cinema celebrities who will figure in new Broadway productions is Miriam Hopkins, who will replace Tallulah Bankhead in Guthrie McClintic's production of Owen Davis' drama "Jezebel."

Miss Bankhead withdrew from rehearsals of "Jezebel" about six weeks ago because of illness. After an apparent recovery she recently returned to the hospital for an operation. Her slow convalescence caused McClintic to announce yesterday the engagement of Miss Hopkins for the central rôle in this play, which once figured in the plans of Katharine Cornell.

Miss Hopkins' last appearance on Broadway was in the ancient Greek comedy "Lysistrata," which was revived with notable success three years ago. Since then she has become popular in films.

Katharine Hepburn, who has become a motion picture star of the first magnitude during the last year, is also ready to demonstrate that she has not been weaned away from the footlights. She will be the star of an English drama called "The Lake," now in rehearsal under the direction of Jed Harris. The first performance will be given in Philadelphia on Dec. 11. The New York premiere is scheduled for Christmas week.

The authors of Miss Hepburn's play are the late Dorothy Massingham and Murray McDonald. Her last acting on the legitimate stage was in "The Warrior's Husband," two seasons ago. Her work in the films has caused her to be regarded as the most brilliant young actress to appear since the rise of Katharine Cornell.

Judith Anderson, of "As You Desire Me" and "Mourning Becomes Electra," will be starred in a drama called "The Drums Begin," written by Howard Irving Young. The play will open in New York Nov. 24.

"Dangerous Corner," now at the Illinois theater, will move to the Cort theater next Sunday night to begin its ninth week in Chicago.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The Duchesse de Richelieu will give a tea on Friday for Mme. Valentine Thomson at her home in East End avenue.

Mrs. Henry Clinton Backus and Mrs. Elihu Root presided at a tea that followed a meeting of the International Garden club today at the home of Mrs. Cass Gilbert.

Mrs. John A. Logan returned from Youngstown, O., today and will be at the Savoy-Plaza for the remainder of the winter.

Mrs. J. Henry Lancashire returned from her summer home at Manchester, Mass.

Adele Jahncke Is Bride of Farmer City Attorney

New Orleans, La., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Miss Adele Townsend Jahncke, daughter of Commodore Ernest Lee Jahncke, former assistant secretary of the navy, was married here tonight to Charles William Dotson of Farmer City, Ill. The Rev. Dr. Charles L. Wells, theology dean at the University of the South, officiated. He had officiated also at the wedding of the bride's parents and at her christening. The couple will be at home in Farmer City after Dec. 1, where Mr. Dotson is an attorney.

Service Council for Girls to Hear Dr. Mollie Carroll

Dr. Mollie Ray Carroll, head resident of the University of Chicago settlement, will discuss "The Problems of the Teen Age Girl" at the annual meeting of the Service Council for Girls at noon today at the Woman's University club, 185 North Wabash avenue. The council is a "big sister" to underprivileged or maladjusted Protestant girls referred to it by the Juvenile court and other social agencies. Mrs. Stanley Gibson is the president.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt had a company at dinner tonight for their house guests. They are Norman H. Davis, Mrs. Charles Fayrweather, Mrs. Donner Roosevelt, Lieut. U. S. N. and Mrs. Victor F. Blakeslee of Philadelphia, Miss Farwell, and Mrs. Curtis B. Dall. Among the dinner guests were Miss Lilian Gish and Eddie Dowling.

Mrs. Roosevelt attended the concert of the Boston Symphony orchestra this afternoon in Constitution hall and had as her guest Mrs. Fayrweather, author of children's books under the name of Margaret Doane.

Mrs. William H. Woodin, wife of the secretary of the treasury, entertained at luncheon today for Mrs. Roosevelt.

Cardinal Mundelein is at the Carlton, accompanied by the Rt. Rev. R. C. Maguire.

Front Views and Profiles

A YOUNG man who has just entered the business world—at any rate, just got a job—was invited to a dinner given for a prominent industrialist. His parents were thrilled over their offspring's progress and not only sent him off with a pat on the shoulder but waited up for him so they could hear all about the affair. When he got back they asked innumerable questions, then got to the industrialist himself.

"Did he say anything?" his father asked.

"We played bridge," answered the youth.

"Did he say anything to you?" persisted the father.

"Very little, only two words," the son responded.

His father and mother leaned forward to hear the great man's message.

"What did he say?" they asked.

"'Your deal,'" answered the son laconically.

He stopped in the center of the room, looked over his cohorts, and announced:

"'Gees criminy, if I'd known there was this many left we'd still be fightin'.'"

PERHAPS you haven't noticed, but no taxicabs have rear-vision mirrors above the windshield. It's not an oversight nor is it an economy. It is an order of the company. It seems that cabs with mirrors above the windshield lost business. People wanted privacy and there was none. Possibly, also, there was the possibility that the driver might get interested in the back seat to the expense of safety. Anyhow, if a rear-vision mirror is attached to a taxicab now it is on the fender.

BELATED Fair note: Those who attended the World's Fair commissioners' reception in the Federal Lounge Sunday afternoon were pleased to observe that gaunt "Slim" Williams, untutored but wise child of the wilderness, who mushed from Alaska with his huskies to the Fair, had the sense to come to the reception not in store clothes and self-consciousness but in a gray flannel shirt, open at the throat, a leather belt, and laced boots. And nobody liked it more than the gentlemen in cutaways and the grand dames in velvets and furs.

SYNOPSIS.

Sheila, known as "Bun" O'Reilly, an American, makes a comfortable living abroad by helping fellow countrymen out of difficulties. Fred Crawford, a Paris newspaperman, is her friend and counselor. Bun agrees to help James B. Finlay, an elderly, wealthy American, find his young wife, Helène. He wants no publicity. He had met Helène after the war in Bucharest. He had installed her family, the Boblanoffs, in a villa on the Riviera at Grasse. Her brother, Ferenz, he had brought to America. No trace can be found of Helène and her parents since the last time she returned to visit them. Bun's suspicions are aroused by Finlay's niece, Mrs. Craymer. A recent newspaper picture, showing Helène standing with a tall woman in a group at Biarritz is the only clue Bun has to go on. That same night Finlay is murdered. The money Finlay had given Bun as advance payment is stolen from her apartment. Bun meets Finlay's son Robert at Cannes. She is attracted to him, but believes he's in love with Helène. She continues the quest with him. The tall woman with Helène in the group picture is identified as the Countess Vernadon, who has a villa in Grasse. Bun and Robert call on her at her dreary villa. She denies knowing Helène. As they are leaving they see a woman fall from a window. They send a doctor out from the town. Next day Mrs. Craymer, who had arrived in Cannes, is found dead. Fred Crawford joins Bun. Robert leaves for Bucharest after receiving a note he thinks is from Helène. Bun finds out that the young woman who fell from the window of the villa of Countess Vernadon is Helène, who had been held there captive. Bun gets to see her, through the doctor, just before she dies. Bun and Crawford fly to Bucharest where they are met by Fanchon of the Paris police. Bun and Crawford, with Fanchon and his aides, attend a masked ball that night given by Countess Vernadon in her Bucharest palace.

INSTALLMENT XL.

A CELEBRATION OVER DEATH.

They stopped before the palace, now illuminated with strings of red and yellow electric bulbs that ran off from both sides into the gardens beyond. Motors were rolling up behind them; others were in long rows on the opposite side of the street; a throng of onlookers crowded round the entrance gate; music floated out through the open window.

"Looks like a celebration," Crawford muttered.

"It is," Bun answered with a bitter tone. "The celebration over death that brings success."

"One moment, madamoiselle!" Fanchon's hand was on Bun's arm. "Would it be asking too much of you to play a rôle—at least during the first part of the evening? I mean—make yourself conspicuous by being gay—insouciante—in character with the costume you are wearing. We should endeavor to give the impression of having come to this ball to enjoy ourselves."

Bun nodded as they went up the steps, Fanchon and Crawford on either side of her. Two footmen in livery and powdered wigs demanded entrance cards. While he was handing them out, Fanchon looked back at the street. A car with his colleagues had just driven up to the gate.

"Let us wait a moment in the entrance hall until they have come in," he counseled. "It would be easy to become separated in this crowd."

When the others had joined them, though without any sign of recognition, they all moved towards the grand staircase, which carried them up to the series of reception rooms and further on to the large ballroom which opened onto a terraced garden. The effect of the rooms, hung with mirrors and crystal chandeliers, formed a setting that was wholly of a past century, and the throng of guests, all in masks and costumed, accentuated this effect. It might have been a scene from a Goldoni comedy.

"What name shall I give, madame?" he asked, without appearing to look at Bun.

Fanchon pushed into the crowd and made a way for Bun to follow. Taking his suggestion, she pirouetted now and then up to some of the guests, blew a kiss to others, and managed laughter that had the ring of carefree gayety. Only when they were well into the ballroom and were approaching a group at the far end of the room did her forced laughter die on her lips. There, standing regally in a sort of receiving circle, was the Countess Vernadon. She wore no mask and was magnificently dressed in the period of Henri II.—a costume evidently copied from one of those of Catherine de Médici. A suitable selection, Bun thought grimly, as she approached her. When she was actually facing her, she pirouetted again, made an elaborate curtesy and tripped off to one side, followed somewhat heavily by Crawford and Fanchon. A little later they, with the four men, met at one end of the terrace.

"What is it, madamoiselle?"

She drew him to a window from which they could look directly into one of the crowded reception rooms. In the midst of the throng several footmen were passing around glasses which they carried on trays. One of these footmen, a head taller than the others, appeared to be directing the service, and now and then took a bottle from one of the other men and poured it himself. Though wearing a powdered wig, as the others, his face was not sufficiently disguised to hide an ugly scar across his cheek.

"Mrs. Craymer's butler," Bun said. "I think I know a way now of sending a message to the countess."

Without further explanation she pushed into the crowded room, made her way towards the group reaching for glasses, seized one and held it out to be filled by the man with the scarred face. While he was filling it, she spoke to him in a lowered voice.

"Tell Madame la Comtesse that I am here and must see her at once."

The man continued to pour out the champagne without giving any sign that he had heard her. "What name shall I give madame?" he asked, without appearing to look at Bun.

Bun was ready with her answer. "Madame Boblanoff."

The man spilled a little of the wine and apologized. Then, while reaching for another bottle, he said: "Follow me."

He emptied the bottle, gave it to one of the footmen and moved away followed closely by Bun. Just as they reached the door into the hall, she looked back. Fanchon and Crawford were close behind her. The man glanced about the hall, made a further signal to Bun, and started up the wide staircase that led to another floor. Groups were along the staircase, some seated some leaning over the rail throwing confetti on the heads of those below. Only when they reached the upper floor were they alone. The man went on to the front of the house and threw a door open. He switched on a light, looked about carefully, and motioned to Bun to enter.

"It may be some time before Madame la Comtesse can come. Will you wait here?"

"Tell her I bring news from the Villa des Roses. I think she will then come at once."

The man bowed, sent a furtive glance at Bun, went out and closed the door carefully behind him. She heard the key turn in the lock with a start of alarm. She hurried to the door and found it locked. Her heart sank. Why had she been so stupid as not to have foreseen such a step. Such practiced criminals would risk nothing. Here she was trapped, as Finlay must have been. She crossed to the window, tried it, found it unlocked, and went out on a balcony from which there was a sheer drop of fifty feet to the street below. No chance of escape there. She drew back in dismay. But as she did so she noticed a group on an adjoining balcony—apparently other guests amusing themselves by throwing confetti down on the crowd of onlookers in the street below. Should she call to them for help? While trying to reach a decision, she heard a peal of laughter from below and looked down. The crowd was staring up at the next balcony. There was a burst of cheering as one of the masked figures swung from the adjoining balcony to the one on which she stood. In a few moments all six were beside her.

"I should have prepared you for this," Fanchon explained in an apologetic tone. "I have been studying an old plan of this house all afternoon. There is not a spot in it we do not know. But—quick! There—there—there!" He indicated certain directions to the others which they followed as if the whole procedure had been rehearsed. Two men took up places on either side of the door behind tall screens. Two others went behind the tapestry that filled the opposite wall. Fanchon hid himself successfully beneath a long gilded table in the center of the rooms and Crawford squatted behind a large desk in one corner. Bun remained in the center of the room near the table. When she saw the others were hidden, she took the pistol from beneath the folds of her costume and slipped it under a portfolio that was lying open on the table. In this way it was within quick reach. Thus they all waited.

It was not more than five minutes later when the key in the door turned and the countess swept into the room. Closely following her was a man in the costume of a courtier, wearing a narrow black mask that concealed only his eyes. The lower part of his face, his mouth, and thin black mustache were left exposed. Even before Bun's glance had taken in his elaborately manicured nails she had recognized him. But this did not surprise her. It was all so exactly fitting in with what she had found out. Of course, he would have been there. While he closed the door and locked it, the countess came slowly forward. Bun had to admit she was superb in her cool assurance, in her carriage, in the contemptuous fearlessness of her pose.

"You asked to see me. You say you come from the Villa des Roses. You gave the name of Madame Boblanoff." She made each statement in a low incisive voice that carried tremendous force with it. "What does it all mean? Of course, you have made a mistake."

"If I have made a mistake why did you leave your guests to come to me?"

Mrs. Osborne to Entertain for Paul Kerby.

At 10 o'clock this morning 50 or more prominent residents of the north shore village will report for duty as saleswomen. The rest of the day they will spend wrapping the precious linens and laces made by the Italian women whom the settlement serves and making change across the counter.

At the noon hour Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. James L. Houghteling and Mrs. Morris K. Wilson will be luncheon hostesses to all of the sales staff.

The Needlework and Textile Guild, which usually has such an interesting exhibition of work done by the members at its annual meeting, isn't going to have such an exhibit this year, for it has been decided to wait and display the members' handiwork later in the winter for more than one day.

The exhibit really such a remarkable one that it always has seemed too bad that it lasted only for a few hours. This year at the meeting to be held next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift's home at 1551 Astor street samples of needlework as suggestions for Christmas gifts will be displayed and explained. The samples have been made in the guild rooms at the Art institute.

Mount Vernon Seminary Alumnae to Meet.

The young women who went to the Mount Vernon Seminary in Washington will meet next Tuesday for their annual meeting and luncheon at L'Aiglon on the near north side. Plans for raising money by a second hand book sale will be discussed. Miss Jeanne Street, whose debutante sister, Marjorie, finished at Mount Vernon last June, is president of the Chicago Alumnae association; Mrs. George Fargo is the vice president; Miss Ilma Jane Theurer, treasurer; Mrs. Lawrence Nelson Jr., recording secretary, and Mrs. Albert Hansen Jr., corresponding secretary.

Miss Katharine Street also went to Mount Vernon, but the youngest of the four sisters, Harriet, is going to Vassar. She is a freshman there this year.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Mallery were aboard the S. S. Majestic last night when it left New York for Cherbourg and Southampton.

Dartmouth Alumni Will Hold Reunion.

Sons of Dartmouth are reserving Nov. 25 for a genuine old fashioned reunion in the Grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. The day of the 25th the Dartmouth football team is coming to Chicago to play the University of Chicago.

The evening reunion will be in the form of a ball, with Samuel Banning, who heads Chicago's Dartmouth association, as the host. The evening before there is to be a stag banquet for the same group, also at the Drake. President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago will be one of the special guests at this affair. And so will Dean Craven Laycock, who retires from office this coming June.

The members of the Alliance Francaise will get out their needles and thimbles this afternoon to sew for the Red Cross at their second causerie this fall in the Alliance library in the Fine Arts building. The middle of the afternoon Mlle. Dorcas Perrenoud, directress of the Maison Française at the University of Chicago, will read one of Daudet's short stories. Then Mrs. George L. Cragg, Mrs. A. J. Van Thielen, wife of the chancelier of the Belgian consul; Miss Virginia Winston, and Miss Saith Harnegnies will be hostesses at tea.

Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger is giving a tea next Wednesday at her residence, 1400 State parkway, for the directors of the woman's auxiliary of Grant hospital. The auxiliary will hold its annual Christmas sale on Dec. 6 at the residence of Mrs. Otto L. Schmidt of Dearborn parkway.

Announce Musical for Next Thursday.

Members of the Woman's Athletic club received cards yesterday inviting them to a musical at 11 o'clock next Thursday in the club's blue and gold ballroom. The artist will be Agnes Conover, pianist.

Mrs. Albert H. Wetten, Mrs. Joseph A. Capps, Mrs. T. Kenneth Boyd, and Mrs. Robert P. Heald will pour tea this afternoon at the meeting the Chicago Wellesley club is to have in the Georgian parlors of the Electric club atop the Civic Opera building.

Mrs. Ralph E. Church will call the meeting to order at 2:30 and then introduce Miss Mary B. Gilson, assistant professor of economics at the University of Chicago, who will describe the Wellesley Institute for Social Progress held on the eastern campus last July.

As soon as the members of the Arden Shore board have learned how much money they have taken in the last year and announced the new members of their board at a business session tomorrow morning they will sit down to luncheon in one of the private dining rooms of the Chicago Athletic association. The business meeting is called for 11:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Kingman Douglass, as president of the board, will preside at the meeting and be the hostess for the luncheon to follow.

Flower Winners Are Announced.

Miss Elizabeth R. Howland, a member of the Garden club of Barrington, and Mrs. Edward Roos, whose membership is in the Oak Park and River Forest Garden club, are the two garden enthusiasts proudly displaying blue ribbons as the result of the lectures given by Mrs. William H. Cary of New Canaan, Conn., at the Palmer house before the members of the Garden Club of Illinois.

Mrs. Cary invited the members of her audience to bring sample flower arrangements to her final lecture. She awarded Miss Howland first prize in the dramatic class and Mrs. Roos the top prize in the harmonious class.

Other winners were Mrs. Arthur Durand, a member of the Ravinia Garden club; Mrs. Eldridge Murray, who is one of Hinsdale's junior gardeners; Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen, and Mrs. Frank Barrett, whose stunning New Orleans garden at the annual flower show on the Navy pier a year ago has not yet been forgotten.

Mrs. Edwin Eisendrath is opening her home at 546 Hawthorne place at 4 o'clock this afternoon for a tea for the board members and students of the Chicago Teachers' college. Irene Rich is to attend. Dr. Mabelle Blake, former director of personnel at Smith college, has come to Chicago this year to serve as president of the Teachers' college.

Velvet Belts Are Stiffened This Season

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Belt buyers will oh and ah over the new evening velvets, not the squashy limp things of former years, but stiffened affairs of the most delectable shades you ever clasped around your waistline.

The belts are about two to two and one-half inches wide and fasten with a most soul satisfying shining buckle of brilliants. They come in peach, pink, pale green, old and baby blue, and fascinating tints of yellow and raspberry rose. What they will do for a dull evening frock depends upon your ingenuity in combining belt and gown and color.

Then there are some daytime belts that are stunning . . . wide, snappy affairs of leather with the all time record of out size buckles . . . buckles that will practically cover half the waistline. Chromium is still shining on black and brown and gray suede belts . . . huge hardware clasps that positively clank as you fasten them but do handsomely as decorative motifs for simple black wool or silk dresses.

Cords and rope effects that also fasten with glittering blobs of metal are fatally interestig to the belt shopper . . . vivid scarlet cords, at least six in a row, hang about the waistline held with nickel or chromium belt buckles . . . huge belts studded with gold or silver discs do grand things for fuzzy wool costumes or suits, streaking around the outside of the jacket or reposing circumspectly around the skirt top.

Black suede belts steal the show. Never have there been so many unusual "black and" combinations from which to choose . . . look for the frosty silver gadgets that twine together against black suede as a belt buckle . . . or the knockout combinations of tawney gold clasps with inky black suede. White enamel or smoky prystal gleam entrancingly better with black than any other contrast.

Adrian Claims Fashion Won't Sanction Fat Below Waistline

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

HOLLYWOOD.—[Special.]—Adrian, the famous Hollywood dress creator, says: "You may talk all you want about curves coming back, but fashion will never evolve to the degree that fat will be included in its design."

"Curved bustline, yes; but the slender hipline is too necessary to smart clothes ever to be abandoned. Women never will go in for big hips again. There are certain things that cannot go out of fashion. Because they are basically sound, they stay—as the bobbed hair and the slender figure. Bern a fad, they become a fashion!"

Incidentally, Adrian prefers his bobbed heads beautifully sleek and groomed. The flowing bob, or complicated headdress, of which you see a great deal here in the cinema colony, he does not like.

Though Adrian is accused of establishing styles readily adopted by a movie going public, he warns that screen clothes are not always clothes for wear off the screen. Young women, for example, seeing Jean Harlow wearing startling clothes suitable to a mad and hectic character she is portraying, should realize they are "character part clothes." Or, clothes for screen wear may be designed for dramatic moments, and unless one had similar dramatic moments in real life, the dress might be all wrong. And there are certain things worn for romantic moments that would not be appropriate off screen in non-romantic atmosphere.

Intelligence, and more intelligence. Adrian subscribes as the one and only basic formula for a well dressed woman. And imagination! The kind of imagination that allows for a little something wrong which makes the costume exactly right, an intangible, unexpected thing as a jewel note, a bag, the knotting of a tie or sash, and so on, or an unusual color note introduced somewhere.

Women who go in for matching everything have no imagination, Adrian says. So often a little of an off shade makes the ensemble just right, gives it a sophisticated note. Alice Brady, highly intelligent, has this dress sophistication. Mrs. Reginald Fellows has a way of incorporating into her dress this personality note. Ina Claire, Adrian credits with great intelligence about dress, giving her clothes a great deal of dash. She knows what to do to give them her own individual stamp. Joan Crawford, he says, wears clothes with a great deal of style. From the creative standpoint Garbo is distinct. She does not walk in other footprints.

The dressy type of woman [we were talking of the chiffon and lace club woman type] Adrian says represent enthusiasm without clothes knowledge. They're dressy without being smart.

"Give me a woman with a mind and without beauty to dress in preference to a beauty without mentality and I'll turn out a better dressed one. Business woman, professional, society, you cannot find a really well dressed one unless she is an intelligent person!"

Velvet Stands Ace High with French Designers

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The elect of society are picking out their clothes right now in Paris, and evening parties are beginning to be the scene of style parades with the smartest women flaunting their sartorial acquisitions. Some of the ultra-ultra ladies go in for clothes that stop little short of the bizarre, like the evening outfit with a modest white front and a blazing purple back, but the real fashion makers are still wearing clothes that make them just as beautiful as clothes can, and the pick of the season in this sense is the simple, trailing dress of velvet with flowers set on somewhere about the bodice, or with fur applied in place of flowers.

The model in our sketch is from Molyneux and is typical of the most fashionable Paris evening gown this winter. It is the choice of lovely Lady Castlerose. It is made of black "panne sauvage," or in other words black panne velvet with a crêped surface.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Avery of Fort Collins, Colo., announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to William H. Hollweg, son of Mrs. William Hollweg of 1631 Touhy avenue. Both Miss Avery and Mr. Hollweg are graduates of Northwestern university, where Miss Avery was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and Mr. Hollweg a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

The engagement of Miss Alma B. Auw of White Cloud, Mich., to Daniel John Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Klein of 3927 North Hamilton avenue, is announced today. Miss Auw is a graduate of the Davenport-McLaughlin college in Grand Rapids.

Huge Salaries of Films Don't Count for Much

BY DORIS BLAKE.

HOLLYWOOD.—[Special.]—There's another side to the tale of huge salaries earned by screen stars, brought into the limelight by the recently proposed government regulation.

Huge salaries are earned, but in few instances does the huge salary earning power last long. There are a few, called the Old Guard, who have managed to retain their popularity against newcomers, as Richard Barthelmas, Gloria Swanson, John Barrymore, Mary Pickford, and Douglas, Wallace Beery, Bebe Daniels, Harold Lloyd, but the number is small, indeed, compared to the number of those who have come and gone since Gloria Swanson was a Mack Sennett bathing beauty.

As one of the studio executives said, "over a period of years, a good milliner's income represents a bigger total than a few sensational salary years. Anyway, the milliner is in a better position to live within her income, and save for a rainy day. When you're making a large income, it is psychologically impossible [judging from most of them I've seen come and go] to imagine bad weather."

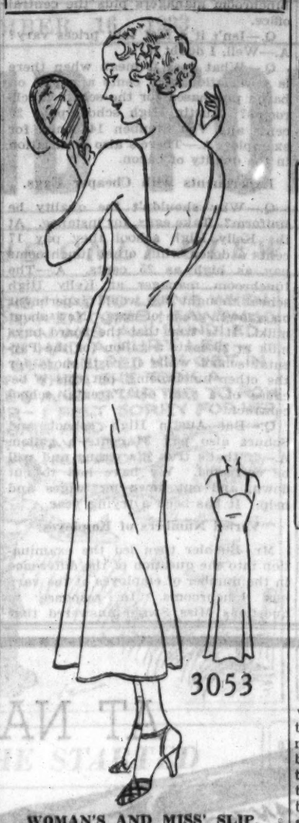
The Motion Picture Relief Fund has a story to substantiate this. From officials there you'll learn that actors and actresses, who were as great in their day as Beery, Norma Shearer, Garbo, Robinson and Crawford, are receiving money now for food and shelter from the organization. The rise and fall of motion picture celebrities and their short lived huge salaries is one of the dark shadows that stalks this game.

Bad investments is put as one of the reasons for the quick disappearance of motion picture wealth. Actors are not, as a rule, business people. The huge salaried actor or actress, target for indigent relatives and friends, is offered as another reason for evaporating wealth; household expenses run high. "Swank," they call it, the biggest, most dangrous thing of all, but necessary in a measure to preserve one's place in the Hollywood sun, has made many a legend of huge salaries.

Few contracts are written for fifty-two weeks of the year. And the free lance artist is deemed lucky if he gets sixteen weeks work a year, though he may be rated a $1,000 a week man. This would average around $300 a week, but only for a few years. "When the parade passes a celebrity, he is through in 99 cases out of a hundred, and be can't get back as can a business man."

Maybe government interference would help stabilize the big salaried, but we comment only to spare you pangs of envy, in case you think all is gold along the great Kleig way.

Silhouette Slip Is Easy to Make, Nice for Formals



WOMAN'S AND MISS' SLIP.

Here is an easy slip to make, and it will give you the new slim line you need beneath your new frocks. It would make a charming Christmas gift also, and there is nothing more satisfactory for lingerie than crêpe de chine.

The pattern, No. 3053, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11:10 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

There are two chief and sorrowful wails I hear from young cooking-for-two foodsters, as well as from their more experienced large family neighbors. One is the wail about having to buy just enough, and the other is that of using up the leftovers when they didn't. We've already discussed and dissertated about the marketing and. So let's now take a running glimpse of the leftovers and a few of the most convincing ways of disguising them.

One of the chief means of putting new life into cupfuls of what was too much for the family is with the magic of white sauce. But make it a white sauce a chef would take pride in! The speediest way is to heat the milk first. Then melt the fat and stir the flour into it smoothly. Add the hot milk slowly at first, stirring constantly. If by any ill fortune lumps should arrive, beat the sauce with an egg beater or strain it.

Better use creamed dishes as the main course; begin with a clear soup, carry on with a salad, and end with a light, fruity dessert.

Bread, cake, and crackers are great at being left around. Buttered toast dried and made into crumbs must be used up pronto, as the butter turns rancid. Completely dried, unbuttered crumbs keep for many weeks. Whole wheat crumbs and cheese cracker crumbs demand a little more speedy use. Cake crumbs are something too few cooks keep on tap, though they're great for garnishing the top of whipped cream, strewing over many sorts of puddings, and whipping into mousses and desserts of beaten egg and fruit purée.

And don't you dare despise garnishes. While some meat and potato males may assert that the idea is all tripe, I still insist that the majority of mankind is tempted more by a dish which tickles the eye and then the palate, than by one which tastes good only if and when you can work up your courage to attack it. Creamed soups smile when adorned with a few floating croutons or a sprinkle of fine chopped parsley. They also are flattered by a touch of whipped cream and a dash of paprika. Macaroon crumbs, a flash of whipped cream, and a cherry now dress up cream desserts which yesterday came to the table unadorned.

A good omelet adds to its own charm and gobbles up leftovers when chopped meats or half cupfuls of vegetables, grated cheese, or jellies are spread within just before folding. Border the foldup with a nosegay of watercress and see if artistry plus goodness doesn't make a grand slam with the family.

Film Producer Tells How to Avoid Censor

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Among a group gathered in the home of Winfield Sheehan, the Fox production boss, conversation turned to American censorship. "Will there be more or less censorship of films in future?" one inquirer asked the shrewd looking, smiling, florid faced, chubby fellow who has the most Napoleonic silhouette of all the producers in Hollywood.

"I don't know," said Sheehan, who weighs his words and then says what he thinks. "It seems to me as though it is up to the good taste, the far-sightedness, and the standards set by the producers. Censorship flourishes because there has been some past reason for it. As a matter of fact, it is fairly simple to produce motion pictures which will not violate good taste; there are only three or four rules that would have to be observed, but in the past some of these rules were broken, and when that is done the industry cannot avoid censorship."

Sheehan's attitude directly confronts that taken by the great majority of others arrayed on the film making side of the industry. Most of the others decry all censorship as stupid and unnecessary.

Buster Crabbe will have a new screen monicker in the future—Larry Crabbe. Buster is a little too undignified for a hadsome, well paid movie star, and neither Buster nor the studio had any liking for his real first name, which is Clarence.

Gary Cooper, whom Sam Goldwyn "discovered" in the ranks of extras on Poverty row in 1926 and cast in his first big rôle—a lead with Vilma Banky in "Winning of Barbara Worth"—has now been signed by Goldwyn again. While Gary is on leave from his steady employment at Paramount Goldwyn will co-star him with Anna Sten in "Barbary Coast" when Gary gets back from England in December. Gary's first job with Goldwyn netted him $50 a week. His present salary is nearly one hundred times that.

TRACKS OF DEATH.

The single unbroken bicycle tracks from the edge of the concrete path circling Passari's house down the unfrequented lane running north and south to the macadam highway a mile distant were easily observable by Prof. Fordney.

Passari's body had been found that morning lying in some underbrush. There were two bullets in it.

"What I want to find out, professor," said Sergt. Frumkin, "is whether Passari was murdered on his way to or from his house; that might help us some. Those are the tracks of his bicycle all right—I know them well. He used it daily to ride to work, but it's Sunday and we can't get any time check on his movements so far. His is the only place on that lane and he lives alone. Didn't know he had an enemy in the world and . . ."

"Let's take a look inside his house," suggested the professor.

After looking around the small but neat living room of the little cottage Fordney sank into a chair and from an end table picked up a handsome volume of Benvenuto Cellini's works.

"Odd thing to find here," he remarked turning its pages. "I'd say, too, it had been much read. But, pardon me, sergeant. You wanted to know whether Passari was murdered on his way to or from the house. Odd the bicycle has not been discovered!"

He turned a few more pages, put the marker where he found it, and said: "Whoever last rode his bicycle along the lane rode north. Does that help you any?"

WHY DID HE KNOW THIS?

STEVENS HOTEL PAYS BACK TAX, BUT NO PENALTY

Refused Receipt in Full by County Officials.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $1,121,732, making a total of $87,879,451 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Nov. 15.....$	39,002 $	343,261
Uncollected	16,433,951	43,798,030
	1930.	1931.
Nov. 15 .....$	543,308 $	196,161
Uncollected	69,404,040	71,155,871

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $37,635.

The Stevens hotel paid its delinquent tax bills for 1929 and 1930 yesterday, but county officials refused to recognize the order under which Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson instructed Arthur Hall, receiver for the hotel, to pay only half the penalties that have accrued on the delinquent bills. As a result, the hotel paid only the original bills, totaling $672,899, and was refused a receipt in full.

County Judge Jarecki has authority under the law to remit half the penalties to delinquent taxpayers in cases where it is his opinion that they have entered objections to their taxes in good faith. He refused to place the hotel in that classification, however, because it had paid only 40 per cent of its 1929 bill while objecting, and none of the bill for 1930. A payment of at least 50 per cent is necessary to convince him of good faith, Judge Jarecki had ruled.

Get Wilkerson Order.

After failing to get a reduction from him, the receiver's attorneys went before Judge Wilkerson, before whom the hotel is in receivership, and gained an order instructing the receiver to pay only half the penalties. Judge Wilkerson, in issuing the order, expressed doubt as to his own jurisdiction in the matter.

Yesterday Receiver Hall's attorneys returned before Judge Jarecki, and again offered to pay half the penalties, in accordance with the federal court order. Judge Jarecki refused this on the ground that an appeal may be taken from that order.

The attorneys then offered to pay without any penalties at all.

"That's all right," Judge Jarecki told them, "but you won't get a receipt in full."

When Attorney Paul Hassell went to the tax warrant office of County Treasurer McDonough to make the payment he was informed that the treasurer would refuse a half penalty payment, and accordingly paid only the original bills. Penalties of $153,979 have accumulated on the hotel's bills for the two years, so that it will save $76,989 if county officials are prevailed upon to accept Judge Wilkerson's ruling.

Edward J. McCabe, secretary to Treasurer McDonough, announced yesterday that Nov. 21 has been set as the penalty date on the second installment of 1931 taxes on the 438,000 properties affected by the now invalid 15 per cent cut order of the board of tax appeals. The date fixed is 31 days after the state Supreme court ordered the board to expunge its order.

Judge Jarecki will rule Monday on the petition of the Chicago Real Estate board asking him to issue a blanket order granting the 15 per cent reduction to all of the owners of homes and small flat buildings.

During the day Judge Jarecki appointed County Treasurer McDonough receiver for 26 properties under the Kerner-Skarda act to enable him to collect delinquent taxes aggregating $73,000.

RECEIVER ORDERED TO EXPLAIN FAILURE TO PAY TAX ARREARS

Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Circuit court yesterday ordered the Metropolitan Trust company, as receiver for an office building at 6 North Clark street, to file a report by Nov. 22 to explain why $108,577 in taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930 remain unpaid. The report will be presented to Judge Philip J. Finnegan, who appointed the trust company as receiver.

A survey of tax receivership petitions filed before County Judge Jarecki has revealed that the trust company is named defendant, either as receiver or trustee for properties, in more than seventy cases. County Treasurer McDonough has stated that the aggregate of delinquent taxes owed by this real estate amounts to more than $1,000,000. The trust company is successor to the Cook County Trust company. The name was changed when the company was sold in the spring of 1932 by Moe Rosenberg, ex-convict and Democratic political power, who is under federal indictment on charges of income tax evasion.

BAR BEGINS PROBE OF SONSTEBY'S EXPENSES TODAY

The Chicago Bar association today will begin an investigation of the charges that Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court has expended money illegally. The charges have been made by Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas.

In a letter addressed to John D. Black, president of the bar association yesterday, Judge Jonas said:

"In have repeatedly charged that the office of the chief justice is overloaded with unnecessary help and it is the duty of any public official to expose this injustice to the people. All I am asking at this time is that the Chicago Bar association appoint an impartial committee to hear evidence with a view of determining whether the charges I have made concerning the pay roll of the chief justice and his expenditures of money are proper."

The board of managers of the bar association will meet this afternoon to consider Judge Jonas' charges.

BARE WIDE RANGE OF PRICES PAID FOR SCHOOL FOOD

Board Aroused by $9,884 Deficit in Month.

Wide differences in the prices paid for food and indications of wasteful methods in the "million dollar a year" lunchroom business of the school system were disclosed at a hearing by members of the board of education yesterday. Supt. William J. Bogan and Frances L. Swain, director of household arts and lunchrooms, were questioned on the situation by the school trustees.

"We have had a lot of complaints about the lunchrooms," said James B. McCahey, president of the board, at the end of the hearing. "The members of the board are interested only in cutting down the waste that results when 51 high school lunchrooms do their buying as separate units. Mr. Bogan said there was central buying, but now it develops that there isn't."

The school board had quietly investigated the lunchrooms since a deficit of $9,884 resulted from their operation during September. Armed with data, Ernst Buehler, vice president of the board, took up the questioning of Miss Swain.

Q.—What does it mean when there is a variation of 6 cents a pound on bacon purchased for the school lunchrooms? Austin High school pays 20 cents and Von Steuben 14 cents, for example. A.—There's also a variation in the quality of bacon.

Experiments with Cheaper Eggs.

Q.—Why shouldn't the quality be uniform? Take eggs, for instance. At the Kelly High school they pay 17 cents a dozen while other lunchrooms pay as high as 25 cents. A.—The lunchroom manager at Kelly High school thought she would experiment on a lower grade of eggs. Now about milk. It is true that the board buys milk at 25 cents a gallon for the Parental school while it costs more for the other lunchrooms, but this is because of a year old Parental school contract.

Q.—But Austin High school and Schurz also pay 34 cents a gallon. A.—If that's true it's wrong and will be corrected. We have had to cut down, and cut down on wages and help. It has been a trying year.

Varied Numbers of Employes.

Mr. Buehler then led the examination into the question of the difference in the number of employés at the various lunchrooms. In response to questions Miss Swain answered that she didn't have the figures with her, but would be glad to get them.

"At the Kelly there are served an average of 460 lunches daily," said Buehler, "and they have 12 employés. But at the Roosevelt with 650 lunches a day they get along with 10 employés. And at the Steuben 800 lunches are served with 8 employés."

"I'll be glad to study it," said Miss Swain.

Asked about the creation of a central buying agency, Miss Swain declared that she doubted that it would aid matters. Mr. Buehler then picked up a copy of the report on the survey of the Chicago school system, conducted by Dr. George D. Strayer of Teachers' college, Columbia university.

"In connection with lunchrooms," said Buehler, reading from the report, "the Strayer survey says that in the purchase of staple and perishable goods it would make for greater economy if there was a central buying agency."

Answers Strayer Report.

"I don't think the Strayer people spent enough time on the lunchrooms," said Miss Swain.

In his discussion of the situation Mr. Bogan declared that the lunchroom system was a "fundamental educational activity."

"At the thought of closing lunchrooms in the poorer districts that have deficits," said Mr. Bogan, "the picture comes to me of the poor children driven into the streets into unthinkable haunts."

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, lone woman member of the board, declared that the question was whether the business or the educational department should run the lunchrooms.

"That question doesn't enter into the matter and shouldn't be injected into the discussion," asserted Mr. McCahey. "The lunchrooms will be left in the hands of the educational department."

Miss Swain promised to bring in recommendations at the resumption of the hearing in three weeks and the board adjourned.

ROB OFFICE AND SEIZE ELEVATOR FOR GETAWAY

Two robbers took $30 yesterday in a holdup of the office of the C. I. T. company, automobile finance concern, on the twenty-first floor at 333 North Michigan avenue, and escaped by commandeering an elevator, in which they cowed the operator and several passengers with revolvers.

The bandits were after a larger sum of money, between $3,000 and $4,000, which had been removed a few minutes before the robbery by guards of the Brinks Express company. Miss Borghild Mess, a clerk, was working alone in the office which they robbed. In an adjoining office was A. D. Nast, executive chairman of the company, and a hundred other employés were working in a larger room nearby.

After robbing Miss Mess the bandits hurried to an elevator, where one held up the operator, William Muryan, with a revolver, and the other stood guard over several passengers. Meanwhile Miss Mess had reported the robbery to John Smith, manager of the building, who pressed an alarm button summoning the police and automatically closing all exits of the building.

The bandits escaped before the doors closed, however. Spectators reported that several lookouts escorted them to an automobile, in which they fled.

OPPOSES BUYING OF NEW LAND FOR COUNTY FORESTS

County Commissioner Amelia Sears yesterday announced her opposition to the recommendation of the real estate sub-committee of the county board that seven pieces of property be purchased for the forest preserve in the Skokie valley territory. The purchase price of the tracts would be approximately $120,000.

"This is certainly no time for the county to consider buying new land when we are confronted with defaults on the forest preserve bonds and cannot pay our employés," Miss Sears said. "We might possibly consider the purchase of one piece of property which is necessary to the development of the Skokie valley area, but such a need will have to be fully investigated."

The real estate sub-committee is headed by Commissioner Maurice F. Kavanagh. President Emmett Whealan of the board concurred in the recommendation of Commissioner Kavanagh that the tracts be purchased or that condemnation proceedings against them be dismissed. The committee proposed to pay for the properties with forest preserve bonds. Further discussion of the proposed purchases has been continued until the sub-committee meeting next week.

The county board a year and a half ago resolved not to purchase land for the forest preserve district while the district's finances were unsatisfactory.

BIG LEAGUE TEAMS BID FOR STAR MINORS

WHAT ARE ROSS, FULLER FIGHTING FOR? LET'S SEE

Mitchell Started It Way Back When.

BY FRENCH LANE.

After Sammy Fuller had knocked down one sparring partner and had hammered the stuffin' out of another at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday afternoon, a fan in the bleachers raised the question—what is this junior welterweight championship Fuller is trying to take away from Barney Ross?

"Well, I'll bite, what is it?" said a fellow behind him.

"What is it?" jibbed in Mr. Jim Mullen. "Well, I'll tell you what it is.

"Few fellows who were not real fighters ever held the title. When Pinkey Mitchell of Milwaukee, an idol up there in what then was a hotbed of fights, fighters, and fight fans got too heavy to win the lightweight crown, some overheated fan got excited one night and offered to wager any amount that Pinkey could whip and fighter in the world at 140 pounds.

Mitchell Won.

"A tournament was arranged for all the good 140 pounders in the nation. Sure enough Pinkey won—that was about 10 years ago—so he became the 140 pound champ of the universe and the rabid Mitchell fans in Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Oshkosh and other points north began to call him the world's junior welterweight champion. Pinkey wasn't heavy enough to become a full fledged welterweight and fight at 147 pounds so "junior welterweight champ of the world" looked much better on the big red, white and blue four sheets than 140 pound champion.

"The next junior welterweight champ to bob up was Mushy Callahan of Los Angeles. He became too ambitious and traveled to London. 'I can whip any guy in the world that doesn't weigh more than 140 pounds." Mushy shouted to the Britishers. They dug up a lad by the name of Kid Berg, matched him with Callahan and along about the tenth round Kid Berg gave Mushy's chin a vigorous massaging with some lefts and rights. Mushy went down for the count.

And Was Berg Popular!

"The new junior welter champion of the world was Kid Berg of England.

"And didn't the American fight promoters stage a wild rush to sign Kid Berg up for a fight?"

"Our promoters on this side—and I think I was one of them—shouldn't have lost so much energy.

"Somebody offered more money than I did. I think it was Nate Lewis. So Kid Berg came sailing over the Atlantic, rushed on to Chicago and squared away against Tony Canzoneri in a battle on April 24, 1931, which was to bring the junior welterweight championship of the world back to America.

"It came back all right. The third round was just under way when Canzoneri landed on Berg's chin first with a left, then with a right. Berg fell forward on his face and was down and out.

Tony Wins It Back.

"Canzoneri was now the world's junior welterweight champ. He lost it some time later to Johnny Jadick of Philadelphia. Jadick was an ambitious kid, so soon afterwards fought Battling Shaw of New Orleans with his title at stake. Shaw pounded the chin off him and took the title. Then along came Canzoneri to fight Shaw. He gave Shaw an unmerciful beating and took back the crown.

"When Ross whipped Canzoneri at the Stadium for the world's lightweight championship last June he also took away Canzoneri's junior welterweight title. Now Ross is going to let 'em toss the crown up in the ring at the Stadium Friday night and see whether he or Fuller comes out with it."

Mr. Mullen apparently had explained to all the ringsiders at Trafton's gym just what this fight is all about.

They began to scurry for tickets. Mr. Mullen, who always seems to be putting his heart and energy into the struggle to improve the breed of cauliflower ears, wondered where he could get a couple of Annie Oakleys.

COL. BRADLEY TO GIVE ORPHANS $10,000 AGAIN

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Col. Edward R. Bradley, Lexington turfman, will distribute to orphanages, children's homes, hospitals, schools, and other institutions the sum of $10,000, prorated according to the number of wards, for the purchase of Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners, toys and other articles, it was announced today.

Col. Bradley's practice of remembering unfortunate children dates back for many years. For eight years prior to his charity race meetings he contributed $10,000 annually in this work and during the four years that his race meeting was held, he distributed the entire earnings, amounting to $104,000, or about $26,000 annually.

Gary Players Ineligible; Valparaiso Game Off

Valparaiso, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The football game between Gary college and Valparaiso university scheduled for Saturday at Gary has been called off because of ineligibility of Gary players.

THE GUMPS—THE ONLY CLEW

TELL ME, LITTLE MAN, DID YOU KNOW THE GIRL AND THE OLD FISHERMAN WHO USED TO LIVE IN THIS CABIN?
SURE, ME AND HER, WE USED TO PLAY TOGETHER, HERE WHEN SHE WASN'T TOO BUSY WORKIN!
WELL, COULD YOU TELL ME WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO THEM?
YEAH, THEY HAD TO LEAVE WHEN THE WORKMEN COME, I SAW 'EM GO. THE OLD MAN WAS ALL BUNDLED UP AND HE HAD A HURT LEG— THE LITTLE GIRL HELPED HIM GET IN THE ROWBOAT— THEN SHE TOOK A COUPLE BUNDLES AND STARTED TO ROW DOWN THE RIVER— I FELT SORRY FOR HER WITHOUT NO HOME AND ROWING THAT HEAVY BOAT ALL ALONE
SO— I WAS TOO LATE— I MISSED HER— POOR BRAVE LITTLE SOUL, WANDERING SOMEWHERE HOMELESS AND FRIENDLESS, AND THE OLD FELLOW INJURED— I COME WITH MY GIFTS AND HELP, BUT I'M TOO LATE— SHE MAY NEVER SEE THEM— THIS IS MY WAY OF REPAYING HER FOR SAVING MY LIFE— HEAVEN HELP THE POOR CHILD— I'LL NEVER REST TILL I'M ABLE TO REPAIR THE WRONG THAT HAS BEEN DONE HER—

In the WAKE of the NEWS

Football Whoopee.

To its gridiron fundamentalism of "a punt, a pass, and a prayer," the Michigan oard in control of athletics now requires purchasers of football tickets to subscribe to the creed, "Thou shalt not become intoxicated and annoy thy neighbors."

That's all right, but why did Phil Pack, director of public relations, send a full text of the order to us? In the first place, our assignments this fall haven't taken us to Ann Arbor. Secondly, when there, Paul Buckley allows us to bed down in the Michigan Union and we always conduct ourselves decorously, even if Michigan has the most exposed and most breeze ridden press coop in the Big Ten, if not in the world.

Yet for others we furnish the text of the ukase:

"With the personal habits and tastes of those who attend football games at the Michigan Stadium, the board in control of athletics frankly concedes that, generally speaking, it has no concern. When, however, indulgence in such habits and tastes results in conduct disgusting or offensive to other patrons, the board does feel a very deep concern.

"A very large percentage of those who attend the games do not look upon the occasion as one calling for throwing off all restraint in the use of intoxicating liquors. Unfortunately a certain percentage, relatively small, do seem to look upon attendance at a football game as excuse for drinking in manner and extent beyond the limits of propriety and decency.

"We wish to take this opportunity to give general notice that ushers and officers are being instructed to receive complaints regarding the offensive use of liquor in and about the stands. We shall not hesitate to revoke the license conferred by the ticket and to eject from the stadium grounds any one against whom a reasonable complaint is made.

"It is more than probable that you who receive this communication are not one of those directly affected by it. At the same time, you will be interested in knowing that this effort is being made for your protection. We earnestly request the cooperation of all our patrons."

With this text we heartily agree, especially where it says that we are probably not one of those affected. Michigan is within its rights. While "drunks" we have seen at football games usually were good natured and often even very funny, there have been nuisances. That is the type, no doubt, intended for the exits.

The only surprise is that such a notice was considered necessary. Undoubtedly it was, for athletic authorities at Ann Arbor are conservative and do not go off half cocked. The order certainly can do no harm.

North Dakota U. Halts Dixie Rally to Win, 13-12

GOPHERS SEE BIG ZERO SATURDAY—ON THERMOMETER

Drill Indoors on New Plays for Michigan.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The University of Minnesota football squad was forced indoors again today by a blanket of snow and zero temperature. The squad apparently will have to oppose Michigan Saturday in similar weather with little outdoor preparation. It leaves for Ann Arbor tomorrow night.

New plays continued to occupy most of practice. Once more newspaper men were excluded, representing the most secretive practice since the days of Dr. Henry L. Williams.

Bierman revealed that Bob Tenner, end, hurt in the Northwestern game, would oppose Michigan. Tenner did not work in the dummy scrimmage today. A crowd of 3,000 will follow the team to Ann Arbor. Special trains will leave here Friday afternoon, arriving in Ann Arbor just before game time.

MICHIGAN INDOORS, TOO.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Another workout in Yost field house today by the Michigan team was devoted to new plays and further study of the Minnesota attack. Coach Harry Kipke had hoped to take the team out of doors, inasmuch as one of the playing fields had been cleared, but decided that a temperature of 16 degrees was no weather to drill in.

Wistert appeared at left tackle for a few minutes and John Kowalik was back at right guard. Jacobson spent most of the time at left tackle, leaving the impression that coaches are counting on using him Saturday. Ford alternated with Bernard at the center position.

Kipke said today he still figured on starting his old back field, although he had Heston running at half on the second team, along with Westover, Oliver, and Triplehorn. Renner, Everhardus, Fay, and Regczi made up the varsity quartet.

It was said today that 188 stations would broadcast Saturday's game. This is said to be the largest number of stations that has ever taken a single football game.

HOOSIERS IN PASS DRILL.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Indiana university football players began preparing to stop Xavier passes here this afternoon, and, after a stiff scrimmage against frosh elevens, a long pass defense drill was held in the fieldhouse.

A number of reserves are showing outstanding improvements and indications are that Coach Hayes will send a different starting eleven against Xavier at Cincinnati Saturday than he has tried at any time this season.

A back field which is getting lots of work this week includes Yoder at quarter back, Dauer and Sutherland at halves, and Keck at full back.

SHAMROCKS WIN IN LAST MINUTE WITH FIELD GOAL

A field goal by Full Back Bill McWilliams, former University of Iowa player, in the last minute of play last night gave the Chicago Shamrocks eleven a 3 to 0 victory over the Wisconsin Blackhawks of Fort Atkinson, Wis., at the 124th Field Artillery armory. A crowd of 3,000 saw McWilliams' successful effort from the 23 yard line, after a long pass from McWilliams to Stan Saluski had put the ball in position.

The Shamrocks had the advantage throughout the opening half, several times carrying the ball inside the visitors' five yard line. The Blackhawks made their best scoring attempt in the second half, when a 60 yard march on passes and end runs brought them to the Shamrock 10 yard line, where they were halted.

Detroit Hockey Team Buys Robertson, Defense Man

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings, National Hockey league club, has announced the purchase of Freddie Robertson, defense man of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who played last season with the Syracuse Stars. Club officials said Robertson was purchased as a precautionary measure in view of the illness of Johnny Gallagher, regular defense man last year, who may not be able to play this season.

Walkathon Favored for Title of Lowest Sport

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

(Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, Nov. 15.—A dispute has arisen in Austin, Tex., as to whether an event known as the walkathon, which is about to be produced there, is the lowest form of athletic or sporting endeavor. Some persons are holding out for the shot put and a scattered few insist on the heel-and-toe race, a strange depravity in which the competitor agitates his hips and torso in a manner to suggest that he has discovered a burr inside his shirt and is trying to twitch it out.

These are all good nominations, to be sure, but unless the winner is to be railroaded through and a decision reached arbitrarily and without due regard to the merits of all deserving sports, the list ought to include all track and field events between women, chinning the bar, single handed as well as two handed, and contract bridge.

I have never seen a walkathon, but if it is what I think it is it is a very low pursuit and certainly has a chance of winning the title of lowest in any fair competition. It is my impression that the walkathon is a somewhat degenerate version of the dance marathon which was invented, or perhaps revived, in this country during the boom when the whole world was goofy and pining for goofier things to do. The first one I saw was produced in the old Chicago Coliseum, the scene of many significant events in the life of the republic and the city.

Finds It's Habit Forming.

Afterward Jack Curley, the promoter of wrestling bouts, undertook to elevate and, as he said, delouse the sport of marathon dancing, and established a chain store system of these contests in the east from which he derived a large fortune. Mr. Curley had a feeling, however, that even though his purpose was noble he had better not publicly exploit the fact that he was connected with the dance marathon business. He thought it might sully his reputation as a promoter of wrestling, which fact may suggest something about the character of marathon dancing.

Moreover, this comparative secrecy enabled Mr. Curley to ease his profits into investments. Ordinarily a sports promoter is subject to much personal and political drainage, but the wrestling shows were not making much money at the time and the demands on him were in proportion to the size of his wrestling shows, ignoring his profits from the dance marathons.

Mr. Curley discovered that the dance marathon was a habit forming vice which kept the customers coming night after night and in increasing numbers for months. The aggregate receipts were large and the expenses small. He had to feed his marathon dancers, but there was no salary list for them, the only pay being a scale of prize awards to the last four or five couples.

Some one made an effort to promote a talkathon or marathon talking contest at an armory in New York at the height of the national goofiness, but it was just a trifle too goofy for the popular taste. The contestants, who naturally included a number of ladies, were required to take positions in pulpits and talk constantly day and night, barring occasional brief intermissions and they were compelled to speak at lib and not permitted to read their remarks out of books.

Senator Lyons Declines.

There were some very promising Huey Longs in the contest and friends of Senator [Wild Bill] Lyons, the current assistant postmaster general, tried to induce him to enter the talkathon. The senator declined, however, on the ground that if he did enter then all his friends would know where he was and would make a point of remaining away from the armory. Under normal, free conditions he always had a chance of catching a friend unawares somewhere and launching into a discussion from which the friend could not conveniently flee.

However, the talkathon did not succeed and was abandoned. The customers decided that one certain way of escaping at least some of the worst bores in New York was to keep away from the talkathon and practically the entire city was of the same mind.

In the early days of the old Madison Square Garden, according to a very old file of the Police Gazette, which I have read with morbid interest, there was great popular interest in a large variety of contests which are not known to present da/ fans.

And Cat Petters, Too.

There were wood chopping and nail driving contests, oyster opening and oyster eating tournaments, coffee drinking competitions and tests of strength and endurance in which the claimant of the championship would find a backer to bet $1,000 that he could pet a cat longer and faster than any other cat petter in the world.

These sports and hog and husband calling all are forms of flagpole sitting and the effort to determine which of them is the lowest is merely another of the infinite variations of the same depravity.

N. U. BRINGS OUT THAT OLD "BEAT NOTRE DAME" CRY

Wildcats' Defense to Get Test Saturday.

The "beat Notre Dame" slogan which annually echoes across Northwestern's campus is in full cry this week as the Wildcats prepare to meet their rival of many years' standing at Dyche stadium Saturday.

A victory over Notre Dame is one of the few unrealized football ambitions at Northwestern. Next to winning the Big Ten title the Wildcats would cherish a triumph over the Irish. Now that the conference championship is beyond their grasp the Wildcats hope to salvage what glory remains by turning back Notre Dame.

N. U. Outscores Rivals.

Although the Wildcats have lost three games, have been tied twice, and won but one game, they still have scored more points than their opponents. The Purple ran up 25 points against Indiana, while only 22 points have been scored against them. In the first game of the year Iowa pushed over a touchdown, the only time the Purple have been scored on from scrimmage. Ohio scored twice from fumbles, while Illinois kicked a field goal.

The defense which has made all of this low scoring possible will be put to its greatest test by the Notre Dame back field, which has been grinding out a lot of yardage all season, but which has failed to do much scoring.

Practice in Gymnasium.

The cold weather drove the Wildcats indoors yesterday. The basketball floor in Patten gymnasium was removed, giving the squad sufficient room to conduct their workout in warmth and comfort. The team will practice indoors until the weather moderates.

K. L. [Tug] Wilson, Northwestern athletic director, announced yesterday that plenty of seats were still available in the concrete stands for Saturday. He also said the bleacher seats at the north and south ends of the field will be placed on sale the day of the game at $1.50 for adults and 55c for children 17 years old and under.

NOTRE DAME INDOORS AGAIN.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—More snow today forced the Notre Dame varsity to work indoors again, rehearsing plays and defenses for Saturday's game with Northwestern at Evanston.

Coach Hunk Anderson's only hope of getting an outdoor workout tomorrow or Friday lies in a possible cessation of the snow, after which it will be necessary to clear a portion of the practice field. This was the procedure last Friday, when Anderson was able to give his squad its only outdoor practice of the week preceding the Purdue game.

ASSOCIATION TO PLAY 154 GAMES NEXT SUMMER

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 15.—(AP)—President Thomas Hickey of the American association announced today his league would play a schedule of 154 games next season, starting April 17 and closing Sept. 16.

Opening games will send St. Paul to Kansas City, Minneapolis to Milwaukee, Indianapolis to Toledo and Louisville to Columbus.

Kieckhefer Takes 300-274 Lead in Billiard Match

In yesterday's afternoon game Augie Kieckhefer ran his 50 points out in 44 innings while Art Thurnblad was scoring 44. Kieckhefer leads, 300 to 274, in their special ten point match.

In the evening game Thurnblad ran his block out and went on to 52 while Kieckhefer was getting the required 50. At the completion of the sixth block, Kieckhefer is averaging a little better than one, 300 points in 293 innings, while Thurnblad has scored 274 in 292 innings.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Ralph [Moon] Baker, who brought Northwestern out of the football wilderness in 1924 and 1925, was married recently to Miss Dorothy Buell Edwards of Oakland, Cal. The bride is a daughter of George P. Edwards, publisher of the Coast Banker, and a niece of Henry P. Edwards, director of the service bureau of the American league. . . . They say Max Baer does some good acting in his new movie. If he improves a little he can become a wrestler. . . . Dr. Eddie O'Brien, eastern football official, says Alabama Pitts of the Sing Sing eleven could make any team in the country. . . . Barney Ross will go to Excelsior Spring., Mo., after taking in the Northwestern-Notre Dame game to train for his bout in New York with Billy Petrolle Dec. 5.

Al Simmons claims the lake breeze, not the long fields, has handicapped his home run hitting, but he opines nothing can be done about it. What does he mean—nothing can be done about it? . . . Couldn't President Comiskey turn the diamond around, putting home plate in front of the bleachers, giving the boys out there a break? . . . The unpleasant publicity emanating from Ohio State seems to be traceable to the size of Columbus. If it were a metropolitan community the newspapers wouldn't attempt to make mountains out of molehills. If it were a village the university probably could control the items.

The promoters of the proposed national championship football game in Chicago Dec. 9 are courageous men. If they are successful in signing the two outstanding elevens, which they will not be, all they will have to worry about is December weather on the lake front. . . . David T. Hedges, full back on the Dartmouth team which plays Chicago here Nov. 25, is the son of H. G. Hedges, Big Ten official who was a star at Dartmouth more than 20 years ago. His home is in Cedar Rapids, Ia. . . . What's Hunk Anderson trying to do, set a new record at Notre Dame? His team already has lost four games, which ties the mark of the 1928 eleven. They had a yokel named Rockne coaching Notre Dame in those days. . . .

Tug Wilson and Dick Hanley are open for suggestions as to an opening opponent on the 1934 football schedule at Northwestern. . . . But they don't mean Iowa. . . . Chicago district ping pong tournament will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 222 South Wabash. . . . Coleman Clark, Paul Pearson, Ed Lewis and John Lehman are among the players seeking Max Rushakoff's title. . . . The spectators seemed to like the electric time clock tried out at the Chicago-Indiana game Saturday. . . . Second guessers have been trying to figure out why Illinois did not attempt a place kick against Michigan in the fourth quarter when it had the ball on the six yard line, two yards to go for a first down, and only a minute to play. . . . Cummings, a kicking specialist, was sent into the game but he didn't kick. . . . Coach Zuppke explains that Quarter Back Beynon was so tired out by that time that he did not notice Cummings was in the game until after the fourth down had failed. . . . That's no reflection on Beynon. . . . The team was so keyed up it probably was too tense and without the necessary poise for smart football. . . . The showing of the Illini in that game pleased everybody. . . .

When Clyde Devine of Oregon State saw the Oregon kicker drop back to punt in last Saturday's game he hoisted a teammate on his shoulders just as the ball left the Oregon man's toe, enabling his pal to block the kick. . . . In all the years of football no one had attempted such a stunt. . . . There is no rule against it.

Those Bears are afflicted with the same ailment that troubled the Cubs. . . . They can't win away from Wrigley field. . . . The Knights of Columbus basketball league will be limited to three sections this winter. . . . A few years ago there were five. . . . Wisconsin scouted Notre Dame last Saturday. . . . Spears is getting ready for next year when the Badgers open a two game series with the Irish. . . . Frank Dickinson of Illinois, originator of the Dickinson rating system, suggests that on windy days the average punting distance be computed with the wind and against the wind. . . . Charley Harvey asked $3,000 for Steve Hamas to box Dick Daniels at the Stadium. . . . Maybe that's the answer to what's wrong with boxing. . . . Bob Jones, who was converted from full back to guard, is a member of Indiana's wrestling squad. . . .

The Northwestern athletic department would be on easy street financially if it were not for the stadium debt. . . . Another boom day venture that must be paid for out of depression receipts.

GALVESTON GETS 5 PLAYERS FOR MOLESWORTH

Jimmy Wilson Goes to Phillies.

Baseball news bearing on the situation in many sectors broke yesterday coincident with the opening of the three day minor league convention in Galveston, Tex.

1 The trading of Catcher Jimmy Wilson by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Philadelphia Phillies for Catcher Virgil [Spud] Davis and Utility Infielder Eddie Delker.

2 The trading of Keith Molesworth, quarter back of the Chicago Bears and last year shortstop of the Galveston club of the Texas league, to Baltimore of the International league in exchange for five players.

3 The purchase by the Phillies of Henry Oana, Hawaiian outfielder, last year with Portland, for cash, Pitcher Frank Ragland and Infielder Jimmy McLeod.

4 Revival of the Chuck Klein-Cubs rumor in its original 1933 form, which had Klein coming to the Chicago Nationals in exchange for cash, Babe Herman, and another player, probably Pat Malone.

5 Reports of the closing of a deal through which Augie Galan, second baseman of the San Francisco Seals, will come to the Cubs in exchange for players now on the Cub-controlled Los Angeles club.

6 Announcement by Joe F. Carr, promotional director of the minors' association, that it is virtually certain that three new minor leagues will be in operation next year and that plans are being discussed for the formation of still other leagues.

7 Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox, denied that the Chicago club would operate or be financially interested in the Fort Worth Cats as reported in dispatches from that city.

CARDS GET DAVIS

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 15.—(AP)—In a deal with the St. Louis Cardinals the Phillies today took another step in their reconstruction work for 1934, while rumor persisted that Chuck Klein, slugging outfielder, would be involved in the next transaction of the local National league club.

The trade brings Catcher Jimmy Wilson back to this city, where he started his rise in the big leagues, and sends Virgil [Spud] Davis, also a catcher, and Eddie Delker, utility infielder, to St. Louis.

Wilson's transfer is the second addition to the Phils' roster this week. Three days ago Henry R. Oana, Hawaiian outfielder, who has been pounding the ball consistently in the Pacific Coast league, was obtained from Portland for Jimmy McLeod, third baseman, and Pitcher Frank Ragland.

Don Hurst May Go.

Reports about Klein have the Chicago Cubs heading the list of his possible destinations. Baseball observers say they expect Klein, who led the league in batting last season, will wear a Cubs uniform in 1934, while Babe Herman, another player, and some cash will come to Philadelphia.

Still another deal talked of is one that would involve Don Hurst, the Phillies' big first baseman, who was a holdout for several weeks at the beginning of last season.

The Cards-Phils trade in catchers gives back to each club the backstops they exchanged in 1928 when Wilson was sent to St. Louis and Davis came here with Hurst and Homer Peel.

Wilson at that time had been playing with the Phils five years after his purchase in 1923 from New Haven of the Eastern league, where he broke into organized baseball three seasons before. Noted for his ability to handle pitchers, it is understood Wilson will have, as part of his chores here, the development of the young hurlers.

Davis Second in Hitting.

The Cards, in return, are getting back a heavy-hitting young catcher, who finished second to Klein in the 1933 batting race. Davis batted .349 for 141 games, while Wilson hit .256 in 113 games. Davis has been in organized baseball since 1926 and has played the big league game since 1928 when the Cardinals obtained him from Reading, of the International league, and sent him to the Phils.

A comparative newcomer, Delker was obtained by the Phils from the Cards in 1932. He was hurt early last season and saw little action.

MOLESWORTH TRADED

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Galveston of the Texas league announced the trading of Keith Molesworth, shortstop, to Baltimore of the International league today at the opening of the annual meeting of the minor leagues. He was sent to the Orioles for five players—John [Moose] Claybaugh, outfielder; Claude Linton, catcher; Glenn Liebhardt, shortstop; Harry Gumbert, pitcher, and Harold King, shortstop.

Owner Moody of the Galveston club refused to say whether there was a cash consideration. Molesworth was one of the leading Texas league short

SOUKOP STOPS MERIA IN WEST SIDE C. Y. O. BOUT

Sectional Trials Continue Tonight, Tomorrow.

West side sectional trials in the Catholic Youth organization's amateur boxing tournament opened last night with 43 bouts at the Community Recreation center, 4711 Madison street. Approximately 1,200 saw favorites advance toward the quarter finals in which west side winners will engage qualifiers from the north, south and Joliet districts Nov. 20. The west side bouts comprise the last of four sectional trials and will continue tonight and tomorrow until only 32 of a field of 500 survive.

Soukop Stops Meria.

Al Soukop, 1931 Golden Gloves flyweight champion, opened a comeback campaign for his second major amateur title by stopping Phil Meria, Filipino bantamweight from St. Mary's parish in the second round. Soukop, representing Lady of Mercy, fought cautiously the first round, but opened up a right hand attack in the second round, cutting Meria so severely about the face the bout was halted.

Frank Beran, St. Ludmilla, and Barney Ryan, St. Mary's, favorites in the lightweight division, had little difficulty winning their opening bouts. Beran, 1933 West Section Golden Gloves champion, beat Edward Finn, Lady of Angels, while Ryan stopped Leo Simonich, Working Boy's home, in the first round.

Wozniak Whips Russo.

Ray Wozniak, who captured the C. Y. O. 160 pound title last year in the novice division, and who is fighting as a light heavyweight this year, won a three round decision over Charles Russo, Our Lady of Angels. Wozniak was impressive in his first bout in the title division.

THREE TIE FOR FIRST PLACE IN MID-SOUTH GOLF

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 15.—(AP)—For the second straight year, the mid-south open golf tournament here wound up in a triple tie today, with Willie Macfarlane, Paul Runyan, and Joe Turnesa each turning in a score of 143 for 36 holes.

Out of the money were Jimmy Hines, Timber Point, N. Y., and Joe Kirkwood, Chicago, with 146's.

Turnesa took a two stroke lead in the morning with 69, but slipped to 74 in the afternoon after taking a 6 on the par 4 home hole.

National Table Tennis Meet to Open Tomorrow

Plays for the United States men's singles championship in table tennis will start tomorrow night in the grand ballroom of the Sherman hotel. Sidney Heitner, American champion, and Marcus Schussheim, former titleholder, are in the field which will seek the title and the right to represent the United States in the international tournament at Paris, France, Dec. 2.

Chicagoans in the tournament include George O'Connell, George Jennings, and Johnny Shostrom, leading tennis players. A team from New York, captained by Fred D. Thompson is expected to arrive today. Among the eastern players is Rudolph Rubin who is ranked No. 3.

The finals of the meet will be held Saturday night.

Lake Shore to Hold 1st Pro Show Tonight

The Lake Shore Athletic club will present its first professional boxing show tonight at the club gymnasium. Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., middleweight, will meet Bill O'Connell of Streator in the eight round windup bout. The six round semi-final will bring together Puggy Weinert, Brighton Park welterweight, and Kelly Kulak. Supporting bouts are:

Young Geno vs. Johnny Fitzpatrick [6].
Eddie Ward vs. Jacquotte Elverrilo [6].
Fred Kohler vs. Zack Malikov [wrestling].

E. M. Loftus, athletic committee chairman, announced yesterday that the public is invited.

Jack O'Brien, local 157 pound fighter, will be Johnny Liston's opponent in a five round bout tomorrow night at the Rainbo Fronton. Scotty Sylvano and Young Scotty, welterweights, are matched for the second time for four rounds. Preliminary matches:

Al Schiarato and Art Mitchell [5], 133; Pete Verri and Art Donovan [4], 140; Frank Walsh and Hassen Ahmed [wrestling].

Johnny Coulon will arrange one more bout today.

Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, and Tony Cancela, Tampa, Fla., signed yesterday to meet in a 15 round bout next Tuesday at the opening show at the Arcadia garden. It will be their second contest. They fought a 10 round draw at Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 16. The Arcadia match will be the second here at 15 rounds since boxing was legalized in 1926. Johnny Pena defeated Varias Milling at Mills stadium last June 14 in the first.

Frank Misko faces Bill O'Connell in a six rounder on the card. Four round matches bring together Mickey Joy and Phil Pernice and Frank Elverez and Lenny Cohen.

A Periscope Adds to Your Fun When Hunting Geese

BY BOB BECKER.

An interesting accessory used in war has been introduced into the wild goose hunting game near Cairo, Ill. When we visited the wheat fields to which geese are decoyed a short distance from the little village of Miller City, we saw our hunting partner draw a short periscope from his hunting coat and get ready for a long look at a flock of wild geese.

One incident will demonstrate that the periscope is an interesting accessory to have in a blind, although it probably will have no effect on the number of geese which a hunter can shoot in a day.

We were in a pit blind with Dr. Edward Miller, a resident of Cairo, Ill. This pit blind, which is nothing more than an underground compartment big enough for two hunters, is boarded up on the sides. It is recessed so that when it rains one can sit back under a waterproof roof and thus keep dry. Over the opening of this blind is a screen decorated with long strips of artificial grass to match the green rows of winter wheat growing in the field. This cover is left over the opening while the hunter watches a circling flock of birds. When it is time to shoot he throws this screen high, wide and handsome, then rises up to use his gun.

This is theoretically a sound procedure. The trouble is, however, that wild geese may swing into the field, without giving anybody a shot and then light out of range. The excitement in our blind when such a thing happens runs our temperature high. The natural inclination is to want to peek at those big honkers sitting on the ground. But you can't do much peeking without scaring the birds. Here is where the periscope is handy.

The other afternoon Doc Miller gently slid back the cover of the blind, grabbed the small periscope and eased the top of it above the ground level of the blind.

The two of us took turns at looking into the periscope for some time. It was possible to see how the geese apparently left the job of watching for danger to one or two birds in the party, while the rest of them began to gobble up the green wheat. However, one crafty old goose never dropped his head. He was standing at the end of the line of eight birds and he kept guard every minute. Eventually he caught sight of the top of our periscope when we moved it too much. The periscope was of no help to us in outwitting this or any other flock of geese, but it did give us a fine chance to watch the wild birds.

New Amateur Hockey Loop Starts Play

The Chicago Amateur Hockey association will open its first season this evening at the Coliseum with a game between the Baby Ruths and the Blue Ribbons.

The game will be preceded at 8:30 o'clock by the flag raising. Admiral Wat T Cluverius, accompanied by Mrs. Cluverius and his staff, will officiate at the ceremony.

Lieut. Col. Frank Mouso will toss the puck in and the eighteen team league will be on its way in the longest and most diversified amateur hockey season Chicago has known.

Play Canadian Teams.

The players in the senior group have been recruited from the best amateur teams in this country and Canada. They have been practicing daily at the Coliseum.

The enrollment of six teams from the Catholic Youth organization makes the association the largest amateur hockey league in operation.

Emil Iverson, former coach of the Chicago Blackhawks, who is in charge of the league, has made arrangements to bring the best amateur teams in Canada here. Several outstanding university sextettes also will meet association teams.

Play Tourney Sunday.

Following the opening game there will be a league game scheduled each Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday evenings, with a tournament scheduled on Sunday afternoons.

This tournament will consist of four games played by the members of the junior section. In this group will be found the Chicago players who have just taken up the game.

Tonight's lineup:

BABY RUTH.		BLUE RIBBON.
Pauline	G	Harris
Musicle	L	Koddel
Sprieter	R. D	Macfayden
Saxberg	R. W	Murphy
Deacon	C	Kuzma
Semec	R. W	Peterson

Spares.

Baby Ruths—Hill, Lampas, Nickols, Beda, Gresnick, Kapach, Smith, Willjanem.

Blue Ribbon—Stewart, Tolenen, Ukalla, Bigin, Wettlaufer, Jewlin, Hiliste, Smith.

Exit Buster Crabbe; Movies Name Him Larry

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Hereafter Buster Crabbe, Olympic swimming champion, will be known on the screen as Larry Crabbe. His studio believed "Buster" wasn't quite dignified enough and that his real given name, Clarence, was too much, hence the compromise.

BLACKHAWK SIX INVADES OTTAWA RINK TONIGHT

Team Blames Officials for Defeat at Montreal.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Manager Tommy Gorman and the Chicago Blackhawks arrived here today ready for their first game of the season with the Ottawa Senators at the Auditorium tomorrow night. The Hawks were in a fighting mood, as they did not relish the beating they took at the hands of the Montreal Canadiens Tuesday.

Hawks Blame Referees.

To some extent the Hawks laid their defeat on the shoulders of the referees who, they asserted, were entirely too free and drastic in meting out penalties in the third period. They pointed out that Georges Mantha was the instigator of the brawl which ended when the referee sent Mantha to the cooler for two minutes and Lionel Conacher for five, a major penalty. All Conacher deserved, they stated, was a minor penalty. Two goals were scored while the Hawks' big defense man was serving his time. The story of the game is told in the penalty column. The Hawks received 15 minutes for rule violations and the Canadiens four.

The Blackhawks are meeting a very confident crew in tomorrow's game. The hockey public of Ottawa is wild over the Senators' easy victory over the powerful Montreal Maroons Tuesday night and already are seeing the Stanley cup back in their town.

Boucher Is Ex-Hawk.

George Boucher, the Senators' manager, who is the only new pilot in the National Hockey league this season, played defense for the Blackhawks two seasons ago. He has a greatly strengthened organization this season and critics state that Boucher, who was one of the greatest players the game ever produced, has the necessary amount of managerial ability to mold them into pennant winners. To date they are the surprise team of the league. They have won the two games they have played, making six goals while their opponents have scored only twice.

Two Chicagoans Get Beloit Varsity Letters

Beloit, Wis., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Bob Bloom and Arch Kelso, both of Chicago, were among the 19 recommended for varsity football letters at Beloit college today. Others include: Capt. Billy Fitzgerald, George Kelley, and George Hilliard, Beloit; Nathan Runge and Reardon Kellogg, Evanston, Ill.; Jack and Marsh Samuel and Noble Gibson, Hinsdale, Ill.; Bob Scott and Osborne Griggs, Rockford, Ill.; John Martin and Dick Griffith, Racine, Wis.; Leroy Sebastian, Aurora, Ill.; Les Kuplic, Manitowoc, Wis.; John Gach, Berwyn, Ill.; George Saar, Mayville, Wis.; Bob Smith, West Allis, Wis.

MOVIES TURN UP AN OLD FAVORITE; IT'S CHIEF MEYERS

BY PATRICK DWYER.

Occasionally American sports have been represented by real Americans, our red brothers. From reservations or Indian schools these copper colored luminaries have burst into sports arenas and confounded the short haired pale faces by their brilliant actions on gridiron, track, and diamond.

Every one has heard of Jim Thorpe, who hung up records in nearly every field of athletic endeavor. Chief Myer used to swat Mr. Christy Mathewson's screw balls out of the lot with distressing regularity—that is, distressing for Christy. One Tom Longboat was an Indian runner who always gave his competitors an opportunity to study his heels when he galloped briskly over cinders, macadam, or ordinary turf.

All They Wanted Was Eat 'n' Drink.

These Indian athletes resembled their white competitors in that they seldom provided for the rainy day, but this trait was in keeping with generations of savage philosophy. If they received their rations of fire water and victuals regularly they never worried about the future. In these modern days, however, athletics is a major industry and the participants are big business men.

Returning to the red warriors and the wheel of fortune, let us check their later careers. Jim Thorpe wound up in California, flat broke and begging for work. His massive frame has lost its spring, and when last heard of he was devoting his strength and agility toward the excavation of ditches in Los Angeles.

Tom Longboat practically vanished from mortal ken. Several years ago a metallurgical journalist dropped into a foundry in Buffalo, made some notes on a process the inner mysteries of which were known only to the elect, and eventually sauntered over to a sand pile. He became interested in a grimy gent mixing sand, wheeling scrap, and generally making himself useful. The superintendent, noticing the journalist's interest, lit a cigar and observed: "See that bird? That's Tom Longboat. Used to be a great runner one time."

The Chief Gets Back in the Spot.

Chief Myer—ah, ha! That's a different story. When the chief wearied of baseball or was finally released from the big leagues he became one with the phantoms of yester year. His features trailed in the dust of the past, his medicine lost its potency, and he retired to his wigwam, not by Gitchi Gumee, the Big

ILLINI WARNED TO STOP ZIMMER IN MAROON GAME

Chicago Back Field Star Worries Zuppke.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Coach Bob Zuppke today showed by deeds as well as words that he is not underestimating Chicago's Maroons and is bracing Illinois for a tough struggle in its last home football game Saturday.

The regulars were put through a brisk scrimmage, with especial emphasis on a defense for the passing and running attack used by the Midway squad. Freshman backs impersonated Zimmer, Berwanger, and other Maroon ground gainers.

Watch Zimmer, Zuppke Warns.

Pointing out that Zimmer is one of the most dangerous backs in the Big Ten and recalling that he scored on Illinois last year after three minutes of play, Zuppke warned his men especially against the elusiveness and speed of the Maroon leader.

The Illini also rehearsed new plays designed for this game, while Dave Cook and Bart Cummings practiced assiduously at place kicking. Cook's performance at Evanston decided the long contest between him and John Snook form the first string full back post, but the Aurora senior will probably get a chance also. John Fischer was worked as another relief full back.

Walser May Play.

George Frederick, sophomore center, was groomed as understudy to Bob Bloom, and there is a prospect also that Capt. Herm Walser will be able to play part of the game. Walser has suffered from an injury jinx. There is general hope on the campus that he will get some kind of chance in his last home game.

MAROONS OUT TO WIN.

Chicago's football team is preparing to capitalize, if it can, on the underdog rating with which it will enter Saturday's game at Champaign. The Maroons are ready to carry the fight to the Illini, and as evidence thereof they galloped through a successful scrimmage in the Midway field house yesterday.

The varsity line opened holes in the defense of a mixed freshman eleven and showed an encouraging improvement in coördination. Roaming through the gaps were Jay Berwanger and Pete Zimmer, with Ewald Nyquist and Ed Cullen doing the blocking. John Baker and Bill Langley continued to hold the end positions while Gordon Peterson, gangling center, subbed for Ell Patterson. Later in the day a freshmen team coached in Illinois plays demonstrated the end sweep[24] and short passes which Maroon scouts have noted.

"Chicago will be fighting for seventh place in the conference standings, and a victory probably would allow it to finish ahead of Northwestern, Indiana and Wisconsin.

The Maroons will enjoy a weight advantage of a few pounds, and will have a backfield of at least equal speed to that of Illinois.

DARTMOUTH READY AGAIN.

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Having completed its tour of the Harvard, Yale and Princeton gridirons with the rugged Tiger game of last Saturday, the Dartmouth eleven will play host to Cornell this weekend before going west to meet Chicago in the final game of the season on Nov. 25. The traditional battle with Cornell will be the fifth major contest in a row for the Indians and will drop the curtain on the 1933 home season.

Stars Back with Team.

Practically all of Dartmouth's man power will be available this week, for the Indians fared pretty well in the terrific struggle which Princeton won, 7 to 0. El Camp, sophomore right end, who was held out of action because of a bad ankle, seems to have recovered enough to take over his regular job, and Jack Hill, back field star who has had more than his share of bad breaks this season, is running with less effort than at any time during the last few weeks. Hill can still kick and pass despite his long layoff. Other recent casualties, including Ike Powers, the fastest back on the squad, seem to be in shape again.

Lacked Offensive Punch.

Against Princeton the Green eleven played its best defensive football of the year, but failed to continue the offensive punch which was uncovered in the Yale game. Against Harvard the Indians had defense without offense, against Yale offense without defense, and against Princeton defense again without any offense to speak of.

If this state of affairs continues the big Green eleven is due to get rolling again this week-end, but the question also arises whether it can stop Cornell at the same time. The Indians are confident that they will turn up one of these Saturdays with both the offense and defense clicking, and that if this doesn't happen against Cornell they feel it is bound to happen against Chicago.

STEARNS VICTOR IN MILE IN N. U. FRESHMEN TEST

Candidates for the Northwestern university freshmen track team competed in the opening meet of the indoor season at Evanston Tuesday night. In the mile run Marvin Stearns won by two feet from Fred Derinck. His time was 4:29.3. Summaries:

100 YARD DASH—Won by Iarussi; Collens, second; Trotter, third. Time, :10.3.
440 YARD RUN—Won by Fowley; Donovan, second; Bleser, third. Time, 52.4.
TWO MILE RUN—Won by Forty; Briscoe, second; Chandler, third. Time, 9:56.
ONE MILE RUN—Won by Stearns; Derinck, second; Segers, third. Time, 4:29.3.
HIGH JUMP—Won by Gasen; Derinck, second; Ruckel, third. Height, 5 feet 6 inches.

stops last season. He is now playing quarter back for the Chicago Bears, professional football team.

Officials of the Chicago Cubs and San Francisco Seals conducted negotiations for the transfer of Augie Galan, Seal second baseman, to the Chicago club.

Cub officials said San Francisco had not yet accepted their terms. Los Angeles players controlled by the Cubs were involved in the prospective deal. Galan hit .346 last season, finishing fifth in the Pacific Coast league batting standing. He led the circuit in triples.

Portland traded John Monroe, second baseman, to Albany of the International league today for Frank Packard.

Buzz Arlett, outfielder, and John Prudhomme, pitcher, went from Baltimore to the Birmingham club of the Southern association, in exchange for Woodley Abernathy, outfielder, and Bill Atwood, catcher.

Guy Sturdy, Little Rock manager and first baseman last year, was traded to Baltimore for Guy Cantrell, right handed pitcher formerly with the Boston Braves.

Hits Playoff Plan.

The minor league magnates heard William G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, assail the Shaughnessy pennant playoff plan and "shoestring operators," and then waited for a report from an executive committee.

The executive committee retired behind closed doors to consider an appeal from Art Shires, Jim Lindsey, Gordon Slade, and Charles Wilson, formerly members of the Columbus club of the American association, who were fined and banned from the circuit last summer for allegedly making false reports concerning salaries. Shires and Lindsey were here personally to present their cases.

John D. Martin, president of the Southern association, was named to replace Warren C. Giles of Rochester at the hearing on the American association players. Giles was ineligible because of his connections with the Rochester club, the team with which Shires and Lindsey now are playing.

The executive committee is composed of Giles, J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league, and Dale Gear, president of the Western league.

"No Test of Merit."

The ideal assistance to be rendered the minors by the majors, or smaller classifications by larger classifications," he said, "is for a stipulated sum to be paid in cash with the right of selection by the aiding club of a player or players from the roster of the club aided."

The president asserted that "shoestring operators" constituted the "greatest hazard confronting the game."

"They play on civic pride of communities to raise funds through civic operations for training expenses," he said.

He asserted that such operators frequently stalled off players and creditors and fattened their own coffers, winding up with abandoning the franchise.

Of the Shaughnessy plan, which provides for a pennant playoff among the first division clubs, Bramham said: "It is not a test of real merit. It is commercializing the sport to a degree that must inevitably meet with popular disfavor."

SPARTA-LEADER SOCCER TEAM TO MEET ST. LOUIS

Chicago will see two of the leading soccer teams in the country Sunday when Sparta-Leader of the west side meets the Stix, Baer & Fuller club of St. Louis at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue. The kickoff will be at 2:30 o'clock.

Since the Stix won the National soccer football title last year they have strengthened their lineup through the return of veterans and the addition of new players. Sparta-Leader has signed up new stars.

STADIUM ADDS DUTCH HEFNER TO MAT CARD

Dutch Hefner of Texas has been added to the Jim Londos-Jim McMillen wrestling card at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night.

Hefner weighs 235 pounds and stands well over six feet. His opponent will be selected today after the Stadium's wrestling department goes into a huddle to find out just how good Hefner is. The Texan, it is reported, is the original bad man of the mat and George [Weeping] Zaharias copied his rough tactics from Hefner.

20 at Purdue Near End of Football Trail

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Twenty senior members of Purdue's football squad, including eight of the eleven men who bore the brunt of the battle against Notre Dame last Saturday, will play the last home game of their collegiate careers against Iowa here Saturday in the Dad's day feature.

The 20, all of whom have been important factors in the Boilermakers' successes of the last three years, have played 24 games with only one defeat and two ties, sharing the title in 1931, being undefeated last season, and undefeated so far this year.

The seniors who will make their final home appearance Saturday are:

ENDS—George Duggins, Emmett Lowery.
GUARDS—Fritz Febel, Byron Huggins, Robert Peters, George Engisch.
CENTER—Arthur Lawrence.
QUARTER BACKS—Paul Pardonner, James Poelin.
HALF BACK—Lloyd Pekelsma.
FULL BACKS—Fred Hecker, Butch Keesan, Dexie Moore, Thomas Roy, John Sexton.

IOWA ON OFFENSE.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Coach Ossie Solem switched his attention to offense for the Purdue game today, the University of Iowa football squad working outside for the first time this week.

Dick Crayne, sophomore full back, was in uniform and worked with the regulars. He was removed from the lineup during scrimmage, however, as was Bernie Page, right end. Crayne has a charley horse and Page a twisted knee., but they are expected to start against the Boilermakers Saturday.

The Hawkeyes will hold a workout at Stagg field, Chicago, Friday morning, after arriving in the city about 7 o'clock. About 33 men will leave here for Lafayette, Ind. tomorrow night. They will continue their trip from Chicago Friday afternoon.

Expect Battle Against Metric System in A. A. U.

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—As an indication of which way metropolitan delegates to the national convention of the Amateur Athletic union in Pittsburgh next week will vote on the question of retaining the metric system, the annual announcement today of the Millrose A. A. listed all the events in yards for its meet Feb. 3 in Madison Square Garden.

Last year the Millrose meet, one of the major events of the eastern indoors season, was conducted on the metric scale in all except two traditional events, the Wanamaker mile and the Millrose "600."

Several Millrose officials are high in the councils of the Metropolitan association of the A. A. U. and it appeared unlikely they would have taken action at this time unless they knew what the majority attitude was hereabouts.

There have been reports that the Metropolitan association and the New England association would lend the fight against Meters at Pittsburgh and attempt to swing the convention back to the traditional yardage system.

Any action taken by the convention is binding only as to the national championship meets the A. A. U. itself conducts, but most of the major athletic organizations through the east shifted their meets to meters last year. The Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. shifted to meters for its outdoor meet at Cambridge last spring and has voted to hold its indoor meet in meters this winter. However, the National Collegiate A. A. is still on the yardage standard.

The 1932 A. A. U. convention adopted the metric system in the belief it would help standardize world records and give a better index to the comparative abilities of athletes of all countries. The Olympic games use the metric system. However, the fact that Great Britain and its dominions still adhere to the old linear system blocks any effort to make the metric system a universal standard.

Badger Frosh Stops Varsity in New Plays

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin Badgers today sought to perfect several new plays introduced by Coach Clarence W. Spears especially for the game with Ohio's Buckeyes Saturday. The varsity had difficulty timing the plays and freshmen defense was highly successful.

The inability of the Badgers to block effectively, a fault which coaches have been trying to iron out since the beginning of the season, continued to be one of the varsity's outstanding shortcomings. Varsity passes were no more effective than their new running plays. An alert freshman back field intercepted more than its share of passes.

BUCKEYES DRILL IN SNOW.

Columbus, O., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—The Ohio State football team worked out in several inches of snow again tonight with the temperature hovering around 16 degrees in preparing for the game with Wisconsin at Madison Saturday.

Coach Sam Willaman could have taken his team under the shelter of the Ohio stadium, but decided that his men may meet the same kind of weather at Madison and all of the intricate backfield plays used in the Buckeye offense were rehearsed with special emphasis being placed on passing.

Willaman announced that he would hold no hard scrimmage for the first stringers previous to the Wisconsin battle in an effort to prevent further additions to his injured list. Lud Yards, guard; Dick Heckin, halfback, and Sid Gillman were excused from drill today with minor injuries which will not keep them from the Wisconsin game.

Coach Gives Harrison Prep Eleven Rest

The Harrison Tech football team, which meets Schurz in a semi-final game for the Chicago Public High School league championship at Mills stadium Saturday afternoon, was given a rest yesterday by Coach Bob Dougherty. Coach Bob Koehler, however, sent the Schurz squad through a light workout in preparation for the game.

Lindblom and Morgan Park, who meet at White City in the other semi-final contest, also held practice. While Lindblom suffered its first defeat last week at the hands of Tilden Tech, Coach E. L. Moore believes it will have a good chance to defeat Morgan Park, defending champion.

Harrison Tech is rated as the strongest squad in the semi-finals. It is undefeated and was tied by Lindblom, 6 to 6, in a pre-season game. In league competition Harrison Tech piled up 71 points in four games to its opponents' 13.

Mount Carmel concludes its sectional schedule in the Chicago Catholic High School league against De La Salle at Soldiers' field in a charity game Sunday afternoon.

Plans for a post season game between the Suburban league champion and the Chicago Public High School league titleholder, the proceeds to go to charity, were abandoned yesterday. Reports that an all-star Catholic league squad would meet a selected team of players from the City league in an indoor game were denied by A. H. Pritzlaff, director of athletics of the Chicago Public High School league.

Whether Loyola academy will have an opportunity to capture its first Catholic league football title since 1929 will depend on a victory over De Paul at De Paul field Sunday afternoon. A triumph would give Loyola the east division championship and the right to meet the winner of St. Ignatius-Fenwick contest at Mills stadium for the league championship.

Postpone K. of C. Basket Opener Until Nov. 26

Because of three important Catholic High School league football games scheduled for Sunday, officials of the Knights of Columbus basketball league have decided to postpone the opening of the circuit's twenty-first season until Sunday, Nov. 26. De Paul vs. Loyola, De La Salle vs. Mount Carmel and St. Ignatius vs. Fenwick are the games and rather than conflict with them, the K. of C. teams have stepped aside for a week.

The K. of C. loop will again stage its games this season at White City, West Side clubhouse and Calumet High school. Opening contests have been drawn as follows:

WEST—Barry vs. Hennepin-Shields, Damen vs. Setters, St. Cyr vs. Carrol, Hughes vs. Tonti.

SOUTH—Loyola-Hyde Park vs. Englewood, Auburn Park vs. McHale, La Rabida vs. Calumet, Dowling vs. Aquinas.

SOUTHERN STARS LEAD BROOKLYN AGAINST CARDS

Cagle Plays Quarter Back in Friedman's Absence.

Players who starred in the south during their collegiate careers will handle prominent roles for the Brooklyn Dodgers when they meet the Chicago Cardinals in a National Professional Football league game at Wrigley field Sunday afternoon.

The players from below the Mason-Dixon line include John [Shipwreck] Kelly, one of the owners of the club and star half back, and Ralph Wright and Dick Richards, formerly of the University of Kentucky; Van Rayburn and Norman Hickman, Tenn.; John [Stumpy] Thomason, and Saul Mielzinzer, Georgia Tech; Bruce Jones, Ala.; Stuart Worden, Hampden-Synney; Lester Peterson, Tex., and Tom Nash, Ga.

Nash formerly played with the Green Bay Packers and was purchased by the Dodgers this season. He is one of the outstanding ends in the league. Paul Riblett is expected to play the other end for the Dodgers. He started with the Dodgers last season after playing with the University of Pennsylvania.

One of the leading stars of the Brooklyn line is the veteran Milo Lubratovich, who starred in the Big Ten conference while attending the University of Wisconsin.

Coach Paul Schissler of the Cardinals sent the squad through a two hour drill yesterday despite the cold weather. The practice was devoted to play against Brooklyn line plays, since the Dodgers' star forward passer, Benny Friedman, will not be with the club. Chris [Red] Cagle, half back and co-owner with Kelly, will take Friedman's place at quarter back.

CIVIC LEADERS AND NOTRE DAME TO HONOR HURLEY

Requiem Mass to Be Held in Cathedral Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Edward N. Hurley, financier and manufacturer, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the Holy Name cathedral at State street and Chicago avenue. A solemn requiem mass will be sung by the Right Rev. Msgr. Thomas V. Shannon. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Mr. Hurley, who was wartime head of the United States shipping board and once chairman of the federal trade commission, died Tuesday evening in Passavant hospital after a brief illness of leukemia and pneumonia. He was 69 years old. His body was taken yesterday to his apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

C. A. C. to Send 43 Leaders.

The Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday announced the names of forty-three prominent members, headed by President George W. Rosseter, who will attend the funeral services as honorary pallbearers. Many of this group were closely associated with Mr. Hurley in civic movements or in business.

From Notre Dame university, to which Mr. Hurley donated the $200,000 building housing the domestic and foreign commerce college, will come a delegation composed of the Rev. John F. O'Hara, vice president; Dean James E. McCarthy, of the college of commerce, and Comptroller Francis W. Lloyd. Mr. Hurley was given the honorary degree LL. D. by Notre Dame in 1918 and was awarded the Laetare medal in 1926.

Cites His Work on Factory Costs.

"Perhaps more than any other individual," said James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, "Mr. Hurley aroused American industry to the importance of systematic study and reform relating to production costs and distribution. His book, 'The Awakening of Business,' is still the standard text for factory cost problems."

Mr. Hurley is survived by three sons, John, Raymond J., and E. N. Hurley Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. William A. Ryan. Mr. Hurley's wife was killed in an automobile accident in September, 1932.

HEAD OF SHELTER SEEKS $200,000 IN ASSAULT SUIT

Mrs. Margaret Collins, 3100 Sheridan road, head of the Tower Town shelter at 666 North Wells street, yesterday filed the praecipe of a suit for $200,000 in the Superior court against the American National Bank and Trust company, William Blatt, former process server for a law firm employed by the company, and Sheriff Meyering. The declaration, according to Mrs. Collins' attorneys, will allege that Blatt assaulted her on June 8, 1932.

Mrs. Collins brought disorderly conduct charges against Blatt at that time. She alleged that he had driven his automobile in front of hers at Wells and Oak streets and forced her to stop. Then, she charged, he took the ignition keys from her automobile and threw them away, striking her as he jerked out the keys.

Blatt had stopped Mrs. Collins' automobile to serve a summons on her in a suit started against her by the Straus National Bank and Trust company, which later became the American National Bank and Trust company. Sheriff Meyering is named codefendant in the action because he deputized Blatt.

BRITAIN CONVICTS TWO FINANCIERS; SENT TO PRISON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Martin Coles Harman, financier, and Berkeley Conigrave, an associate, were convicted and sentenced to prison terms here today on charges of defrauding stockholders of the Chosen [Corea] corporation, controlled by Harman. Harman was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment and Conigrave to six months' imprisonment. Two other defendants, Herbert H. Pounds and Emile G. Changeat, were acquitted.

The fraud charges arose from the practice of Harman and his associates of using money earned by the Chosen corporation to purchase shares of other companies controlled by Harman which were in financial difficulties at prices far above the market prices. The money should have been used to pay dividends to shareholders of the Chosen corporation. It was also charged that Harman diverted some of the dividend money into his own pocket.

The defense asserted that Harman's financial maneuvers were "the only means of averting another Hatry crash."

Judge C. R. Freeman Dead of Pneumonia

Menomonie, Wis., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Municipal Judge Charles R. Freeman died in his home here tonight, after a four days' illness with pneumonia. He had been municipal judge since the death of Judge P. H. Clark in 1930. He was county judge for Dunn county from 1918 until 1925, when he resumed his law practice. A widow, a son and a daughter survive.

George E. Maxfield Rites Tomorrow; Police Veteran

Funeral services for George E. Maxfield, 73 years old, a retired policeman, of 51 East 59th street, will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow in Shiloh Baptist church, 62d and May streets. Maxfield, colored, and a policeman for twenty-three years, was fatally injured in an automobile accident on Sunday. He will be buried in Lincoln cemetery.

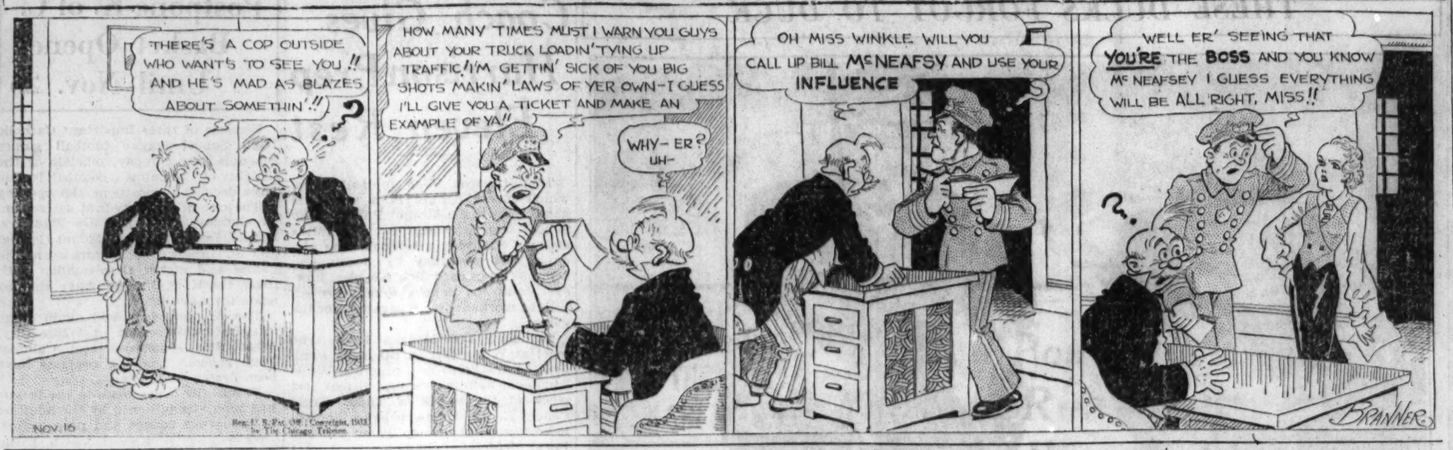
WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Knowledge Is Power



VITS, WISCONSIN MANUFACTURER, G. O. P. CHIEF, DIES

President of Aluminum Goods Company.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Manitowoc, Wis., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—George Vits, president of the Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company, the city's largest industry, and Republican national committeeman, died in his home tonight after an illness of more than two years. His physician said death was due to sclerosis or hardening of the arteries. Mr. Vits was 56 years old.

GEORGE VITS

For several years, under the Hoover administration, Mr. Vits yielded more power in the way of political patronage in Wisconsin than the two senators representing the state, and his influence and aid were sought by many office seekers, particularly those wanting to be postmasters.

Unusual power was his, because Senators La Follette and Blaine, both Progressives, did not stand in favor with President Hoover. Mr. Vits never sought a public office by election except membership on the school board, where he served years ago.

President of Concern.

Mr. Vits for many years up to his death was president of the concern founded by his father, the late Henry Vits, which grew to be the largest of its kind in the world. The elder Vits founded the company, then known as the Aluminum Novelty company, for the manufacture of combs, pin trays, and other small articles.

Today the concern has three mammoth plants, here and in Two Rivers and makes cooking utensils and automobile accessories, which are shipped to cities in every part of the world.

His health started to fail more than two years ago and reached a serious state in the latter part of 1932. He spent much time at his summer home at Pine lake, near Milwaukee, and also went to Battle Creek in an attempt to recuperate. For the last several months he remained at his home on North 6th street. He was generous in private charity and was responsible for several young men acquiring university educations and then positions in the office of the company.

Backs Hospital Project.

A few years ago when the city needed a large addition to Holy Family hospital, he took active charge of a campaign to raise funds amounting to about $300,000 and was a liberal donor to the cause. With his brothers he gave the people the Vits Natatorium, built at the Lincoln High school, in memory of his father. The cost was about $100,000.

He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Norman Ott, Milwaukee; two brothers, Albert and Hugo, and two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Topic and Mrs. William F. Pflueger, all of Manitowoc. A son, George, Jr., met a tragic death in Salt Lake City last spring.

The funeral will be held from Sacred Heart Catholic church with the Rev. Father William Grace officiating.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning from Sacred Heart church.

Col. Howland, U. S. A., Dies in San Francisco

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Col. Harry Howland, U. S. A. retired, died of a cerebral hemorrhage today at Letterman General hospital. He was 54 years old. A native of Chicago, he worked as reporter as a young man. He enlisted in the Spanish-American war, was decorated for bravery and remained in the army. In the world war he was cited for bravery under fire and was twice wounded.

DR. C. B. HALL FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for Dr. Charles Berrien Hall, for fifty years a practicing physician in Chicago, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home at 9720 Prospect avenue. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery. Dr. Hall died Tuesday night of heart disease in his home. He was 73 years old. Dr. Hall, the son of Amos Tuttle Hall, pioneer Chicagoan and secretary and treasurer of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad from 1853 to 1881, contributed material to THE TRIBUNE feature, "When Chicago Was Young," by Herma Clark. Dr. Hall is survived by his widow, Jessie, and two daughters, Mrs. Hashan Hassan and Priscilla Hall.

FUNERAL TO BE HELD TODAY FOR LOUIS B. LEHMAN

Funeral services for Louis B. Lehman, retired glove merchant who died suddenly Tuesday at the Standard club, will be held at 936 East 47th street today at 2 p. m. Mr. Lehman was 79 years old. A native of Germany, he came to Chicago in his youth. For ten years, preceding his retirement, he was head of the glove department of the John V. Farwell company. Mr. Lehman is survived by his widow, to whom he was married forty-nine years ago, a son and a daughter. The family home is at the Shoreland hotel.

EXCESS WEIGHT IS DANGEROUS -DOCTOR WARNS

Many Disorders Caused by Fat —Says Prominent Doctor in Radio Address

Speaking over radio Station KYW recently, a well known physician and authority on obesity, pointed out that many people who are overweight suffer from headaches, fatigue, sluggishness and loss of ambition. "The tendency of excess fat," the doctor said, "is to attach itself to vital organs and should be a matter of concern to those who are overweight."

Women everywhere are losing ten pounds or more as they see fit without taking dangerous drugs (which should only be taken under the direction of a competent physician), or weakening diets. No need now for anything that rushes half digested foods through your intestines. No need for punishing exercises or painful massages.

"Now Science has come out with a new discovery," says the medical authority, "which has none of these faults. It is Vannay, a tablet containing certain absolutely harmless natural elements that act on the liver and gall bladder . . . stimulate and regulate the digestive juices . . . prevent formation of excess fat . . . and restore metabolism (body balance). Vannay contains no thyroid, no iodine, no laxative drugs at all."

You can eat three meals a day without fear of fat because Vannay helps dissolve this fat before it can harm you. Follow directions in package circular. Start the Vannay treatment today and you should never again be a slave to overweight.

This remarkable product is for sale at all Liggett Drug Stores. Come into our store and ask any of our clerks for the booklet, "How to Reduce With Absolute Safety."

C. A. BOWMAN'S $60,000 ESTATE LEFT TO WIDOW

Chauncey A. Bowman, vice president of the Quaker Oats company, who died Nov. 3 of injuries incurred in an automobile accident, left an estate valued at $60,000, it was learned yesterday when his will was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. The estate is left to the widow, Mrs. Ella Bowman, 5300 Hyde Park boulevard. Mr. Bowman was 64 years old and had been associated with the Quaker Oats company for 45 years.

Four other wills were filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin in the Probate court yesterday, and were approved as follows:

PROCESSING TAX BRINGS SHIFT IN FOOD PURCHASE

Consumers Turn to Eggs and Cheese.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Efforts of the farm adjustment administration to set up a structure of processing taxes on food commodities and to curtail production are serving to bring about a basic shift in consumer's purchases, reports received from Chicago food industries revealed yesterday.

The processing tax on pork products, without such a tax on other meats, is causing one shift of major proportions even before the tax scheme is in full swing. It was applied as of Nov. 5, and although at the rate of fifty cents a hundredweight on live hogs at present, is to be increased from time to time upon regulations issued by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, up to a possible 2 cents pe pound of live weight.

Consumers' Price Increased.

Addition of the processing tax to retail pork prices has added from ½ to 4 cents a pound to consumers' prices. The increase has been going on since the tax was first announced in October, so far as consumers are concerned, yet farm prices have not advanced. Packers and meat merchants of the city interviewed yesterday declared pork and lard sales have fallen off already.

They report that there has been an increase of 16 per cent in meat production in the last six months, compared with a year ago, and an increase of between 10 and 11 per cent over the average of the last five years. With consumer buying power still curtailed, meat merchants and packers contend the only way to increase consumption is to lower prices or see a glut in meats.

Much Meat Farm Killed.

Added to this problem is the fact that one-eighth of all meat consumed in the United States is farm killed, by farmers or by small butchers. The recent rise in meat prices to consumers is said to be increasing the direct farmer to consumer volume of sales.

If pork sales are decreasing, and beef and lamb prices are still low but sufficiently high to cause stocks in reserve to pile up, what products are being substituted? Eggs, for one thing, and cheese for another, both protein foods that have been cheaper than others, relatively, this fall.

Low egg prices to farmers this year caused a curtailing of production. The movement of eggs out of storage in the last six weeks has been 82 per cent greater than a year ago, 7 per cent above the five year average, and the greatest on record since the government started egg reports in 1916.

Egg Exports Increasing.

Egg prices have dropped to the point where in the last week 25,000 cases were exported through Canadian ports to England, and export demand is increasing. Mercantile exchange authorities predict the carryover of storage eggs next spring will be the lightest in many years.

"The picture of what has happened in a commodity where the law of supply and demand has had free run, without artificial price pegging, is all the more striking when compared with the butter market," states Samuel Sugar, economist for the John F. Clark company.

Consumption of butter, he estimates, is now 7 per cent below that of a year ago. Wholesale prices are 22½ cents a pound, compared with 20 cents a year ago. Buying by the federally financed relief corporation is supporting a market that is declining gradually in the face of record storage holdings.

It is estimated that the carryover of butter stocks for the new season next spring will be 100 million pounds in spite of the consumption of some 25,000,000 pounds by the unemployed this winter in addition to butter they were given last winter.

Production has not abated in dairy districts as is normal at this season

HURLEY'S POST ON MIDDLE WEST NOT TO BE FILLED

The position of co-receiver of Middle West Utilities company, vacated by the sudden death of Edward N. Hurley, will not be filled, Charles A. McCulloch, co-receiver with Mr. Hurley, will continue as sole receiver for the far flung "Insull" holding company, Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley said yesterday.

Messrs. Hurley and McCulloch were made receivers by Judge Lindley in the spring of 1932. A comprehensive reorganization of the company's executive personnel and operating policies was effected by the two men. Both men have been giving all of their time to the task of reorganizing the company. With the selection a few months ago of D. C. Green, an experienced utility operating executive, as president of the company, much of the preliminary work has been accomplished.

Judge Lindley said that the company's affairs have progressed to such a point that Mr. McCulloch can handle them alone.

Inflation Fast on Way, Belief in La Salle St.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Slipping of the dollar to a gold value of less than 60 cents and the appointment of Henry Morgenthau as acting secretary of the treasury yesterday deepened La Salle street's conviction that further inflation is fast on the way.

Old heads in the financial district, while still going through the motions of explaining the dangers of currency inflation, have just about resigned themselves to what they regard as the inevitable.

The sound money advocates, although despairing of early stabilization of the dollar, take the stand that even though they cannot talk Washington out of further inflation experiments they can perform a service by continuing to talk against inflation and thereby possibly help apply the brakes to some degree.

"How can they possibly do anything but inflate as long as they go on lending and spending," says one old timer. If the government continues to spend large amounts in excess of its income; if it continues to lend the farmers more on their crops than those crops are worth, and if it continues to grant loans on city homes and farm mortgages in excess of their present appraised valuations the only alternative is an attempt to force prices up to a point where these operations will be supportable. The only known means of thus jacking up prices is a resort to inflation."

For a time the inflation program can be effected by the official pegging of gold and gradually rising prices in terms of dollars.

If the market for government bonds continues to slip, however, the inflation program would immediately be forced into a second phase. Government bonds weakened again yesterday.

With the federal budget out of balance and the vast lending and spending campaign just getting well under way, the treasury will be called upon to sell hundreds of millions of dollars of new bonds. In addition, there are large issues maturing during the next few months which will have to be taken care of by the sale of new bonds. The next important maturity is one of $727,000,000 on Dec. 15.

If anything should happen to prevent the sale of government bonds in large quantities the treasury's financing needs could only be met by the issuance of paper money. That would be the second phase of the inflation program.

The financial community is still hanging on to the hope that something in the direction of stabilization will occur before that phase is reached, but it has nothing tangible as yet on which to base this hope.

For several months the President's advisers have been split in two groups. The college professors in the "brain trust" have urged such new experiments as the gold pegging scheme and the commodity dollar. Another faction, principally in the treasury and the federal reserve system, has urged a return to sound money.

The resignation of Assistant Secretary Acheson and the placing of Henry Morgenthau in the key treasury position yesterday was interpreted by financial men as a definite indication that the sound money boys were being shoved into the background. Apparently traders in the world markets arrived at a similar interpretation because the dollar fell to a new low level despite the fact that the gold committee in Washington failed to make its daily boost in the price of gold.

All eyes are on the market for government bonds. Last week while prices of such bonds were slipping transactions in them reached the highest total for a five day week in more than nine years, the record going back to June 14, 1924.

If government bond quotations continue to fall the treasury might market new issues by raising the interest rate substantially. This, however, would bring complications. The 22 odd billions of government bonds already outstanding would become less valuable, thereby cutting into the funds of banks, insurance companies, and private investors who hold such bonds. About one-tenth of the government's outstanding debt is now held by the 12 federal reserve banks. Another tenth is held by banks in New York City.

Drop in Steel Production Is Seen Checked

Steel production, according to the Iron Age, has apparently reached "at least a temporary resistance level."

Public works have expanded and structural steel lettings, amounting to 35,400 tons, are the largest since the first week in May. Automotive requirements have moderately improved. The export business, particularly in tin plate, has quickened.

But the combined gains have not been large enough "to foreshadow material increase in mill operations," adds the review.

Ingot Output Steady.

While the scheduled rate of ingot output at the beginning of this week, according to the American Iron and Steel institute, was 27.1 per cent against 25.2 the week before, "reports of current operations assembled by the Iron Age reflect no perceptible change in production" from last week. The present rate is at 26 per cent of capacity, identical with last week's estimate.

Stimulated by releases of full furnished sheets for Chevrolet bodies the rate of operations in the valley rose 5 points to 30 per cent. In the mills at Buffalo, the rate was 3 points higher at 24 per cent. At Cleveland, Wheeling, and Pittsburgh operations were unchanged at 40, 38 and 21 respectively. Declines occurred of one point to 17 in eastern Pennsylvania, two to 27 at Chicago, and seven to 25 in the south.

Buy for Autos in December.

"The automobile industry will not get into volume production on new models until late in December and is not expected to buy additional steel in quantity before January or February," declares the Iron Age. "Similarly impending orders from the railroads for rails and rolling stock are not likely to affect steel output materially during the remaining weeks of this year. Steel releases from miscellaneous consumers are holding up fairly well."

Included in the structural steel lettings for the week were 8,000 tons for the elevated highway in New York.

The review says that no action has been taken yet on large scale railroad purchases, save by the Pennsylvania, which has requested bids Nov. 23 on 159,000 tons of steel.

WIGGIN'S BONUS TARGET IN SUIT FOR ACCOUNTING

New York, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A suit for an accounting was begun today in Federal court by Harry B. Epstein and Minnie Sperling, small stockholders in the Chase National bank and the Chase Securities corporation, against Albert H. Wiggin, former chairman of the governing committee of the bank and of the board of directors of the corporation.

No specific amount was asked in the complaint, but it was indicated that the plaintiffs believed Wiggin should be required to restore many millions of dollars to the bank and the corporation.

The complaint charged, on information and belief, that between April 1, 1928, and the early part of 1933, Wiggin caused the bank and corporation to pay him in salary and bonuses an amount in excess of $2,000,000, and that the plaintiffs have endeavored to cause the bank and the corporation, which are named co-defendants with Wiggin, to bring an action to recover "excessive salary and bonuses," but have failed.

North Western Gives Free Street Rides to Shoppers

A plan under which suburban patrons will be given free round trip bus and street car rides from its Madison street station was announced yesterday by the North Western. The free rides will be given to purchasers of shoppers' tickets which will be for use after 8 a. m. The prices of shoppers' tickets are reduced 10 to 20 per cent effective Dec. 1.

JUDGE VALUES BORAX AT $20, THEN 15C, SO BRITISH GET MONOPOLY

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Bankruptcy transactions which he said had tied an American industry into a hard knot and temporarily established a British world monopoly were disclosed today before a senatorial committee investigating receiverships by H. F. Laugharn, trustee for the Suckow Borax company.

Laugharn named Borax Consolidated, a British concern, as the benefited corporation and the Suckow firm as the American company that has been thrown into bankruptcy, its operations in its rich deposits near Mojave, Cal., halted.

Laugharn related that what he understood to be the richest deposit of pure borax in the world, in the Kramer district thirty miles east of Mojave, was discovered by Dr. John K. Suckow of Los Angeles. Dr. Suckow sold a half interest to the Pacific Coast Borax company, a subsidiary of Borax Consolidated, he testified, which afterward refused to develop the property or to consent to its development by Suckow.

Later, Laugharn said, Suckow proceeded to develop and operate the mine, but was fought bitterly by his co-tenant, the subsidiary of the British concern.

Laugharn said that in a suit by the Pacific Coast Borax company for an accounting, United States District Judge Harry A. Hollzer decided the borax in the mine was worth more than $20 a ton and in the bankruptcy proceeding the same judge affirmed a decision that the same borax was worth as an asset only 15 cents a ton.

"The first decision made it impossible for Dr. Suckow to buy out the interests of his co-tenant," Laugharn testified, "and the second justified the court in declaring the American company a bankrupt."

SILVER RALLIES AFTER DECLINE; BARS OFF ¼ CENT

Silver futures fluctuated violently yesterday with sales again establishing a new record. The pause in the upward movement in gold prices started a profit taking movement which carried the market sharply lower, but this was followed by an advance of over one cent per ounce from the low, with the finish at intermediate figures.

Closing trades were 0.15 cents lower to 0.30 cents per ounce higher. December sold between 43.85 and 45.30 cents and closed at 44.70 cents. January was 44.97 cents; February, 45.24 cents; March, 45.45 to 45.50 cents; May, 45.85 cents; July, 46.35 cents, and September, 46.85 cents at the last. Sales aggregated 17,025,000 ounces.

SHIPPERS SEEK LOWER RATE ON ALL-WATER HAUL

The failure of the interstate commerce commission to allow local shippers and freight receivers the benefits of cheaper all water freight rates by the lake steamer routes is depriving Chicago of its natural advantages as a great lakes maritime center, the Chicago Association of Commerce asserted.

The association is embodying a protest against the situation in a brief to be filed with the commission today in which exception is taken to the report of the commission examiners who propose to grant Chicago lake shippers a differential of first class commodities of only 15 cents under the all-rail rate on cargoes via the great lakes between New York and other eastern points and Chicago.

Chicago Power Output Rises 9 Pct. in Week

The production of electric power for both the nation and the Chicago district rose last week and further improved its margin over output for the like period of last year.

Output of the Chicago district, amounting to 104,452,000 kilowatt hours, was the greatest since the first week of 1932, according to the announcement of the Commonwealth Edison company. In comparison with the total for the corresponding week of 1932, which was 95,864,000 kilowatt hours, electric power last week showed a gain of 9 per cent, against only 5.7 per cent in the preceding week.

National Gain of 6.3 Per Cent.

The national production, which totaled 1,616,875,000 kilowatt hours, was 6.3 per cent in excess of the aggregate of 1,520,730,000 in the like week of 1932. The improvement was the largest since that of Oct. 14, amounting to 7.4 per cent.

At the same time, according to the Edison Electric institute, the production for last week surpassed that of the preceding week, which amounted to 1,563,412,000 kilowatt hours.

Officials of public utilities were inclined to attribute the improvement rather to the coming of colder weather, especially in the middle west, than to industrial expansion.

Chicago District Figures.

	—Kilowatt-hour output.—		Per cent
Week ended	1933.	1932.	Increase.
Nov. 11	104,452,000	95,804,000	9.0
Nov. 4	98,298,000	92,907,000	5.7
Oct. 28	103,132,000	94,317,000	9.3
Oct. 21	102,357,000	92,301,000	12.0

In every district save one the electric power output showed, in comparison with that of the same week last year, gains which exceeded those made in the week ended Nov. 4.

Output in the central west region rose 1.6 per cent, against a decrease of six-tenths of one per cent in the preceding week. In the central industrial region output improved 9.9 per cent, against 5.5 a week ago.

AM. TELEPHONE TO PAY REGULAR $2.25 DIVIDEND

Kansas Standard Oil Resumes Payments.

New York, Nov. 15.—Directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph company at their meeting today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share on the capital stock, payable Jan. 15 to holders of record Dec. 15.

The premier utility, as expected in financial circles, is keeping its dividend record intact, although payment of the regular disbursements in 1933 will call for a dip into subsidiary and parent company surplus to the extent of about $70,000,000 for the year.

700,000 to Get Share.

This fourth quarterly dividend keeps intact the company's twelve year record of $9 annual payments. The disbursement totals about $42,000,000 to about 700,000 stockholders. Of this about $2,000,000 will be deducted to pay the federal tax on corporation dividends. This tax, which probably will be repealed with the formal repeal of prohibition, is deducted from dividends to individual stockholders, corporation-owning shareholders being exempt because of their general tax liabilities.

Encouragement for the authorization of the regular payment was found in the improved traffic statistics reported by the company in recent months, and the fact that for the first time since 1931 connections of telephones are exceeding cancellations of service.

The company in September reported a gain of 56,000 units, the first increase since November, 1931.

Oil Dividend Resumed.

Standard Oil Company of Kansas has resumed dividends with the declaration of a quarterly disbursement of 50 cents, payable Jan. 31 to stockholders of record Jan. 2. The last payment amounted to 25 cents and was made on March 16, 1931.

Sun Oil company today declared a stock dividend of 9 per cent on its common shares, payable Dec. 15 to stockholders of record Nov. 25.

Penick & Ford, Ltd., Inc., today declared an extra dividend of $1 a share in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents, both payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Dec. 1. This brings payments to $3 a share for 1933.

Directors of the Electric Bond and Share company voted today to omit the dividend on the common stock. The last payment was 1¼ per cent in common stock in January, at which time the company announced that dividends would be acted upon annually instead of quarterly.

Food Index Jumps to $2; Nears Year's Peak of $2.08

Dun & Bradstreet's food index for the week ended Nov. 14 showed one of the widest gains this year, advancing 7 cents over the previous week to $2, compared with $1.71 for the same week last year. The cumulative increase over the last four weeks amounted to 12 cents and marks the highest point reached since the peak of food prices was recorded during the week of July 1, when the index stood at $2.08.

Peoria Life Insurance Co. Gets Receiver

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

With the appointment of receivers yesterday for the Peoria Life Insurance company Illinois marked up its third big life insurance failure in a year.

The Peoria firm, with insurance of $187,000,000 in force and one of the ranking companies in the state, was petitioned into receivership by Ernest Palmer, director of the state department of insurance. Charges of "gross mismanagement" and "apparent irregularities" in the affairs of the company were made by Palmer in a report issued here late yesterday, following the earlier court action against the company in Peoria.

ERNEST PALMER.

Bank Affiliate Also Closed.

Due to the difficulties of the company, the Bank of Peoria, an affiliated institution with deposits of $470,000, was closed. The company had advanced substantial sums to the bank in recent months to bolster its position and to enable it to reopen after the national bank holiday.

Directors of the insurance company consented to the appointment of a receiver in a private hearing before Circuit Judge John M. Niehaus in Peoria.

Charles V. O'Hern and George A. Shurtleff, Peoria attorneys, were appointed co-receivers. Judge Niehaus set their bond at $100,000.

In asking a receiver and the immediate liquidation and reinsurance of the company's business, Supt. Palmer declared that the capital of $400,000 was impaired by more than $282,000.

Reasons for Failure.

The report of the insurance department's examiner, made public by Mr. Palmer, listed reasons for the company's failure as follows:

1. Submission of false annual statement to the Illinois insurance department, which did not set forth the true condition of the company. This was done with the knowledge of the responsible officers.
2. Payment of unearned dividends to policy holders.
3. Excessive expenses in conduct of the company's business.
4. Poor investments.
5. High acquisition costs of business.
6. Advance of funds to officers and employés which have not been repaid.
7. Increase in the capital stock for which the company received no consideration.

"Grossly Mismanaged."

"These causes," said the report of Examiner Lorens Jost, "indicate that the affairs of the company have been grossly mismanaged."

Numerous instances of how the funds of the company were scattered are detailed in a 55 page typewritten report made on the firm's affairs.

Flowers for the officers rooms in the home office building in Peoria brought "large expenditures," the report said. It was further found by the examiners that the personal telephone calls of the officers were paid by the company.

These were but small items compared with some of the company's more ambitious operations. It owned and operated several unprofitable live stock farms. One of the largest of

DOLLAR SLUMPS UNDER 60 CENTS IN FRANC VALUE

Falls Despite Same Gold Price.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—The dollar fell to more than 40 per cent discount in the foreign exchange market today, ignoring the mildly "bullish" implications in the action of the RFC of posting the same price for newly mined gold as on Tuesday, $33.56, the world markets fastened upon the news of Secretary Woodin's long leave of absence and Undersecretary of the Treasuryr Dean Acheson's resignation as the day's outstanding guides to administration monetary policy.

When the news of the retirement from active direction of treasury affairs of these two "sound money" men was announced, the dollar plunged. Sterling rose to $5.42¼, a rate surpassed only during the frantic first few days of the world war, and closed at $5.40, up 12½ cents.

Dollar Drops to 59.63 Cents.

The franc soared to 6.57 cents and closed there up 13 points. Measured against the franc the dollar closed at 59.63 per cent of its former gold value, down 1.20 cents on the day. This was among the most sharp reactions yet witnessed in the government's program to cheapen the currency.

In leaving its quotation for newly mined gold at $33.56, unchanged from the previous day, the RFC completely gave up, temporarily, the attempt to quote a gold price above the world market. At London a price of 129s 9½d was fixed for gold. Converted into dollars at the opening rate here this was equal to $34.71 or $1.15 above the RFC price. But converted at the day's highest rate for sterling, $5.42¼, it was equal to $34.99 or $1.43 above the RFC rate. This was the widest spread that has existed between the London bullion market and the RFC's quotation.

Await Action on Spread.

Bankers here were wondering tonight whether the RFC would attempt to close the gap. Unless sterling should react greatly, which is apparently contrary to the present monetary policy of the United States, an increase of the RFC price to $35 or more an ounce would be needed to once more put the Washington gold quotation above the world market.

The trend of the market was a repetition with gathering force of the movement of the last few days. The flight from the dollar appeared to dealers to be gathering momentum and the impression prevailed that the dollar was "out of control." If it could ever have been said to have been in control.

All European Money Rises.

All continental European currencies went to new high prices on the move, the majority to the highest prices in the history of the present currencies. The guilder rose 1.35 cents to 60.70 cents, the belgas 45 points to 23.4 cents and the Swiss franc .87 cent to 32.52 cents. All three of these units closed at their highs.

The Canadian dollar went to a premium of 1.68 cents and closed at a premium of 1.56¼ cents.

New York, Nov. 15.—Price trends in the bond market today continued to reflect the dollar movement in foreign exchange, while United States government securities worked lower in sympathy with the receding dollar, high-grade foreign government liens continued their upward course behind rising foreign currencies.

Net losses in United States government issues ranged from 1/32 to 18/32 point, with the called fourth liberty 4¼s and the treasury 3½s, due 1947, up 1/32 and 2/32, respectively. Transactions in the government issues amounted to $4,327,000, compared with $3,782,500 on the previous day.

Treasury Change Factor.

The change in the treasury secretaryship, announced at the end of the first trading hour, was reported to have contributed to the depression of government obligations.

New high ground was reached by many French, British and Swiss bonds in active dealings. French 7½s sold at 170 for the first time.

A decline in bonds of the Australian commonwealth and issues of Brisbane, New South Wales, Sydney and Queensland was coincident with reports that the commonwealth might be the next foreign debtor to make a conversion offer.

Some Leaders Decline.

High grade railroad, utility and industrial bonds were again lacking in support. Fractional declines were recorded in such outstanding issues as Burlington general 4s, Santa Fe general 4s, Union Pacific first 4s, American Sugar 6s, Detroit Edison 5s, American Telephone sinking fund 5s and debenture 5s, Cincinnati Terminal 4½s and 5s, Duquesne Light 4½s, Consolidated Gas 4½s and 5s, Louisville and Nashville unified 4s, Public Service Electric 4½s, and Pennsylvania Consolidated 4½s.

Second grade and speculative issues were generally lower.

Beatrice Creamery.

Investors' Guide: Since 1919 I have been a stockholder in Beatrice Creamery company, both common and preferred. Please give me some recent information on the stock.—W. A. B.

Answer: Beatrice Creamery is the third largest unit in the dairy products business in this country. It distributes butter, milk, eggs, and ice cream, the products ranking in the order listed. Distributing branches are maintained in 135 cities in 24 states.

Net sales for the six months to Aug. 31, 1933, amounted to $21,902,000 and net income was $486,000, or 28 cents per common share. For the corresponding 1932 period sales totaled $24,130,000 and net income was $694,000, or 82 cents per common share.

Year Ended Feb. 28.	Net Sales.	Net Income.	Earnings per Share. Pfd	Earnings per Share. Com.
1932	64,059,000	2,161,000	19.30	3.54
1931	82,811,000	3,534,000	32.49	7.12
1930	83,662,000	2,489,000	*34.02	*7.31

†Deficit. *Smaller number of shares.

The 28 per cent drop in sales in the Feb. 28, 1933, year was due to sharply lower prices and a 7.4 per cent decline in tonnage sales.

On Feb. 28, 1933, cash assets alone of almost $4,250,000 compared with total current liabilities of $749,000. Working capital was $8,562,000, against $8,578,000 the year before. The decline was the result of payment of $890,000 unpaid dividends and deposits of $298,000 in closed banks.

Capitalization is represented by 107,581 shares of 7 per cent cumulative $100 par preferred and 377,719 shares of $25 par common. Dividends have been paid regularly on the preferred, but nothing has been paid on the common since July 1, 1932.

On Oct. 12, 1933, President Haskell issued the following statement: "Our earnings for the last six months of this fiscal year will depend entirely on general conditions and the additional problem of dealing with a large surplus of dairy products. The dairy industry as a whole had on hand Oct. 1, 1933, the largest inventory of butter in its history. Plans are now being worked out by the government for purchase of surplus butter. . . . The dairy industry is going through a period of readjustment which may continue to affect earnings."

Cities Service.

Investors' Guide: Will accrued dividends on cumulative preferred stock of Cities Service have to be paid some time or can it be canceled?—H. A.

Answer: Cities Service company's preferred stock is cumulative. Nothing can be paid on the company's common stock until accumulated and all preferred dividends have been paid.

MONEY PUZZLE AGAIN FORCES STOCKS LOWER

Traders Hold Fast to Side Line Positions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—Wall street's befuddlement over the monetary outlook cost the share market further ground today. Liquidation dribbled into most departments throughout the session and toward the close became quite pronounced in some directions. The net losses ranged from a fraction to as much as 5 points.

Trading was once more at a desultory pace. Turnover fell to around 1,350,000 shares.

Bankers report an unusual proportion of traders of the type who ordinarily cut quite a swath in the exchange's doings holding fast to the sideline positions, as the dollar does things calculated to make the average speculator wonder if the pink mice were after him again. They are afraid to sell stocks and—despite the popular conviction that big time inflation is just around the corner—are just as loath to take a chance on the buying side. In their dire perplexity therefore most of them have decided to do nothing until the fog lifts a bit.

See Foreign Selling.

Some of today's selling was said to have come from foreign sources.

Gold stocks were the hardest hit. Homestake dropped 5 points and losses of a point or so each were sustained by Alaska Juneau, McIntyre, and Dome mines. Silver issues did a little better on the whole. United States Smelting moving against the trend for a small fractional gain. Some of the repeal stocks also were able to capitalize inflationary sentiment to some extent. National Distillers, the leader of this group, advanced nearly a point.

Other prominent issues to impress observers included United States Steel, American Telephone, and American Can, all of which scored fractional improvement, while others about them slipped. Telephone was, of course, helped somewhat by its dividend declaration earlier in the day.

Utilities Selling Grows.

Selling in the utilities was a trifle heavier than it has been in recent sessions. Consolidated Gas and United Gas Improvement in particular being offered in substantial blocks. Resumption of selling in this department coincided with the publication of fresh data on proposed rate schedules to go into effect on distribution of power generated at Muscle Shoals. The scale of rates in the new schedules, as compiled by the Tennessee Valley authority contrasted unfavorably from the Wall street viewpoint with those maintained by private utility corporations in the same general area.

The rails were on their poor behavior again and their action, coupled with the dispirited performances they have put up over the last week or so, militated strongly against confidence in the near term outlook of the market.

The drop in wheat had a discouraging effect on farm implement and allied shares.

236 INDUSTRIAL COMPANIES' NET PROFITS HIGHER

The aggregate net income of the 236 industrial companies which have so far reported for the first nine months of this year is far above the total for the corresponding period of 1932, amounting to $183,400,000, compared with only $17,313,000, according to the Standard Statistics company.

Earnings of 25 railroads amounted to $20,576,000, against a net deficit of $1,430,000. Earnings of 29 utilities declined 14.3 per cent to $242,742,000 from $283,285,000.

"The improvement was fairly well distributed among the major industrial groups," the company says.

"Of the 23 industrial subdivisions on which three or more companies have already published returns, 13 were able to report totals on the black side of the ledger; 16 bettered their showing by increasing total net, by shifting from the loss to the profit column, or by reducing their net deficit. Relatively the most unfavorable showings were made in the electrical equipment and radio, nonferrous metals, oil and railroad equipment groups.

General Foods Nets 62c a Share in 3d Quarter

General Foods corporation has reported that net earnings for the third quarter of this year totaled $3,236,296, equal to 62 cents a share of no par common stock, compared with $2,450,047 or 47 cents a share for the like period of 1932. This is the first time in over three years that quarterly earnings exceeded those of the like period of the preceding year. Current assets on Sept. 30 were $36,835,076, against current liabilities of $5,701,345. Cash and securities, less reserve, totaled $10,731,923.

FOUNDERS HEAR ATTACKS ON ALL NEW DEAL PLANS

Speaker Sees Greatest Crisis Since 1620.

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Vigorous attacks on all the principles embodied in the "New Deal" established by President Roosevelt were made today at the opening session of the thirty-seventh annual convention of the National Founders' association. The principal attacks were made by Dr. Virgil Jordan, the economist and president of the national industrial conference board, and S. Wells Utley, Detroit industrialist, and president of the association.

Dr. Jordan suggested that under any form of government responsible to a parliament, as in England, the ministers of an administration "would be forced to resign or be impeached," adding that this country has no such "prompt remedy available."

Assail Roosevelt Policies.

The speaker went on to assail the economic policies of the present administration as for the most part erroneous, unsound and destructive; declared that the closing of all the banks when President Roosevelt took office was unnecessary and destroyed confidence in the banking system; asserted that federal officers, establishing a farreaching structure of bureaucracy, were harassing the people and eating out their substance, and attacked many other phases of the new deal.

Dr. Jordan concluded his address by making four suggestions for the federal government to follow in the future, apparently calling for a surrender of most of its present powers and an abandonment of nearly all its present policies.

In his address Mr. Utley attacked just about everything in the "new deal" as provided under the present Democratic régime at Washington. Mr. Utley is a Republican, president and general manager of the Detroit Steel Casting company, and an officer in other industrial concerns. He also is the author of numerous published addresses on business and economic subjects.

Greatest Crisis Since 1620.

Mr. Utley declared that establishment of the "new deal" has confronted the United States with "the greatest crisis since the pilgrims landed." He criticized the principles underlying the NRA, denounced the securities act, described the move to aid agriculture as embodying "Wet legislation" and charged that socialistic principles dominate the present government in Washington.

"If the congress which meets in January leaves these laws unchanged," said Mr. Utley, referring to some of the "New Deal" legislation, "if the people at the election a year hence return those same men to office, then we shall have gone through the greatest revolution in all history. In the space of a few months, we shall have retrod all the streets of progress taken by the English speaking race since that far off day seven centuries ago when Englishmen forced the great charter from King John."

AMERICAN SUGAR TO RETIRE BONDS; VOTES DIVIDENDS

New York, Nov. 15.—With the declation today of the regular quarterly dividends the American Sugar Refining company directors also authorized the redemption of $2,000,000 of the company's gold bonds, Earl D. Baust, chairman, announced. The $2,000,000 of bonds, which will be redeemed Jan. 2 at the call price of 102½, are part of the $30,000,000 issue of 6 per cent gold bonds, due in 1937. This redemption will leave outstanding about $1,500,000 of the issue.

Regular quarterly dividends of 50 cents a share on the common and $1.75 a share on the preferred were declared, payable Jan. 2 to holders of record on Dec. 5.

Western Sugar Expands.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A reorganization program looking to acquisition of other companies, participation in various lines of manufacture, and a stock dividend to holders of its common stock was announced today by directors of the Great Western Sugar company.

LARD PRICES ADVANCE EARLY BUT CLOSE LOWER

Trading in lard and provisions was fair yesterday with selling pressure from hedgers but prices were strong er early. Trade is giving special attention to news from Washington, and "to news from hog markets where there is a deadlock.

Lard stocks in Chicago decreased 6,457,267 pounds in the first two weeks of November and are 77,703,776 pounds. Present stocks are 71,058,090 pounds more than a year ago.

Stocks of dry salted clear bellies are 20,250,170 pounds, compared with 23,248,681 pounds Oct. 31 and 5,702,693 pounds on Nov. 14 last year.

At the close lard futures reversed in sympathy with grains and closed 5 cents lower on old and new style near deliveries, and 7½ to 17½ cents net lower on distant deliveries. Spot lard was 5 cents lower at 6.15 cents, regular off 10 cents at 5.87 cents; leaf, 12½ cents higher at 6.12½ cents. Liverpool lard was 6d lower for spot in January. Bellies for future delivery were traded in moderately with December, 7½ cents net lower with cash lots in good demand. Fresh pork loins were 9½ to 15 cents. Prices follow:

AM WELL KNOWN ADVERTISING AND publicity expert with some big accomplishments to credit. On account illness relative have come Chicago where will remain for winter. Since idleness makes time drag, wish to do something that won't require full time. There must be many big and little firms here who could profit greatly from my contacts in southwest and my years' experience handling publicity, ad. copy, folders, catalogues and sales promotion. At home I can devote many hours each day to problems of clients. If I find your need well provided for already I will tell you so frankly. My advice and service will be prompt, pleasing and very reasonable. Whether we do business or not I believe you will feel glad you asked me to call. Address F 575, Tribune.

Beauty Shops Want
DeLEE Graduates

Beauty shop owneres know that only DeLEE students are trained in a school where the equipment is 100% new and up to date. They know that only at DeLEE do students receive personal individual instruction. Shop owners like to tell their patrons that their operators were trained under Madame Louise personally at DeLEE.
